POPE PROCLAIMS HOLY YEAR TO SOOTHE WORLD

Calls for Prayers and Pilgrimages.

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius today proclaimed an "extraordinary" holy year of prayer, penance, and pilgrimage to Rome to bring peace to the world in a bull entitled "Quod Nuper," the first two words of the bull, which mean "since recently." The bull was read in St. Peter's at 11 a. m. It will be read in three other basilicas later.

This holy year is in commemoration of the nineteenth centenary of Christ's redemption of mankind, said the pope in handing the bull to the dean of prothonotaries, who took it to St. Peter's to read to the congregation. It should, the pontiff said, lead to "social, political and international peace," as a consequence of the primary object in having man make his peace with God.

Pilgrimages to Rome.

Urging numerous pilgrimages to Rome, Pope Pius decreed a plenary indulgence for pilgrims making triple visits to the four basilicas—St. Peter's, Mary Major, St. John Lateran, and St. Paul outside the Walls.

He exhorted the world to turn its mind "from earthly and decaying things," against which "they are struggling so unhappily," and suggested that the people "withdraw themselves from the din of daily life and reflect in their hearts with themselves, especially during this centenary year."

Prays for True Prosperity.

He urged prayer and penance, not only for the faithful, but for "all mankind led astray by so many errors, torn by so many discords and hostility, laboring under so many miseries and fearful of so many dangers.

"O, may the most merciful Lord bring it about that the holy year which we shall shortly inaugurate will bring peace to souls, to the church that liberty everywhere due her, to all people concord and true prosperity."

The pontiff urged veneration of the relics of Christ's passion and death and suggested more frequent pilgrimages to Palestine.

Text of Papal Bull.

The full text of the papal bull follows:

"Promulgation of an extraordinary holy year and of a general and highest jubilee for the nineteenth centenary of the redemption of mankind.

"Pius, bishop, servant of the servants of the Lord, to all the faithful who shall read these letters, salutations and apostolic benediction.

"We hasten to fulfill the promise made the day before Christmas, not only to the venerable college of their eminences the cardinals and to those of our sons who had come to extend to us the holiday greetings, but also to the whole Catholic world, that is, decreeing an extraordinary holy year and a general and highest jubilee at the close of the nineteenth century from the accomplishment of the redemption of mankind.

Moved by Centenary.

"In fact, although the precise year of this event has not been historically ascertained, nevertheless the fact in itself, or, rathen the series of these admirable works, is of such gravity and importance that it would be improper to let them pass in silence.

"Moved, therefore, by this most happy centenary, men should turn their thoughts, at least in part, from earthly and decaying things, in which today they are struggling so unhappily, to celestial and eternal things. Let them lift their minds from the fearful and sad conditions of these days to the hope of that happiness to which Our Lord Jesus Christ called us when he poured out his blood and conferred immense benefits of every kind. Let them withdraw themselves from the din of daily life and reflect in their hearts with themselves, especially during this centenary year. Inasmuch as our Savior loved us and with such ardent zeal liberated us from the slavery of sin, so undoubtedly they will feel themselves seized with greater charity and will be almost necessarily impelled to love again this most loving Lord.

Supper of the Lord.

"For the usefulness of every one we should like here to examine at least briefly the series of these divine benefits from which springs also that true civilization which we enjoy and in which we glory: That is, the first institution in the supper of the Lord of the Holy Eucharist and the distribution of it to the apostles who were initiated into the order of priests with

GEO. LANDLORD, CHICAGO, GETS A LESSON IN TAXES

He Learns One Cause of Our Troubles.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

George Landlord is a hypothetical person but his experience is not hypothetical. It has been told, in varying terms, by hundreds of men who have appeared during the last year in the office of Assessor J. L. Jacobs or before County Judge Jarecki to seek reductions in their assessments and tax bills.

The figures on what it cost George to operate his apartment building were taken from an experience table compiled by Walter R. Kuehnle, head of the real estate division in Assessor Jacobs' office. They represent the average of actual expenditures on fifty Chicago apartment buildings of the type which George bought. His returns from rentals were computed according to averages of rent reductions and vacancy percentages furnished Mr. Kuehnle by agents who handle several thousand apartments.

Average Rates in Chicago.

The tax rates on which George's bills were computed were the average rates in the city of Chicago. The complet. picture of his financial troubles discloses one reason, a very important one, why only 58 per cent of the 1930 tax levy has been collected to date, and why it seems logical to estimate that no more than 30 per cent of the 1931 tax levy may be paid by the time the penalty date arrives on that levy, late this summer.

George Landlord sold his hardware business, and celebrated his 60th birthday in 1925. He looked around for some place to invest his money. He viewed the then rising stock market with distrust. Stocks, he felt, were too speculative. Bonds didn't seem to offer a very high rate of interest. He decided to buy a piece of property.

He fixed his choice on a building containing twelve five room apartments, which rented for $100 a month each. The owner wanted $55,000 for it. George didn't have that much money, so he went to the loan department of an insurance company. The insurance appraiser, it seemed to him, was a very hard boiled and conservative fellow.

Appraisal Value $75,000.

He appraised George's building at $75,000 and recommended a maximum loan of half of that amount. George had a talk with one of the company officials when he signed the mortgage papers.

"You must realize," the official told him, "that every year your building grows older and less valuable. That depreciation lessens the value of our security. Therefore we've drawn up a $37,500 mortgage, with the provision that you pay us, in addition to 6 per cent interest, $1,500 on the principal each year. That is a little more than the annual depreciation on your building. In that way you will have reduced your mortgage to $30,000 when it falls due five years from now. If conditions don't change, I see no reason why we can't renew it for you then, at that lower figure."

Gets Loan—and Tax Bill.

George got his loan. He also got his tax bill, for $1,350. He growled over that a bit, but the rents were coming in steadily, so he paid it. And at the election that year he voted in favor of a number of bond issues for public improvements. The money was well spent, George reasoned. It would enhance the value of his apartment building.

When he balanced his books at the end of 1926, he found that after paying his operating expenses, taxes, and interest and principal payment on his mortgage, the building had earned $3,880. That was 8.16 per cent on his investment of $47,500. George felt pretty good. He took Mrs. Landlord to Florida that February.

Driving along a Florida highway one day, miles from any town, they passed a group of huge, weather-beaten frame buildings. One of them bore the inscription, "Municipal Auditorium." Dotting the sandy land were thousands of white stakes, the boners of one of those "cities of the future" laid out during the boom that burst the year before.

A Safe 8 Per Cent.

"I can't see," George chuckled as he said it, "why any fool would sink his money in a hole like that. I'll stick to good improved property, and take a safe 8 per cent on my money."

When George balanced his building accounts at the end of 1929 he wasn't

SIX BANKS IN 3 CITIES DECLARE 2 WEEK HOLIDAY

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The six banks of Rock Island, Moline and East Moline will go on a banking holiday for two weeks beginning tomorrow, it was announced tonight. All banking business will be suspended for that period of time in the three cities. Proclamations from the three mayors announcing the holiday will be carried in extra editions of local papers before sunrise.

Decision to declare the holiday was reached tonight after a conference between bankers and Mayors Chester Thompson of Rock Island, John Huey of Moline, and Charles Carpentier of East Moline. No details were mentioned. It was reported, however, that some uneasiness had been noted in the local banking situation. Since Christmas eve the banks affected had been requiring 60 days' notice for withdrawals from savings accounts.

The banks figuring in the two weeks' holiday are the Rock Island Bank and Trust company and the State Bank of Rock Island in Rock Island; the Moline State Trust and Savings bank and the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust company in Moline, and the Manufacturers' State bank and the State Bank of East Moline in East Moline.

SNOW AND COLD COMING ON HEELS OF 'SPRING DAY'

Much colder weather, accompanied by rain or snow, is on the way and is due to reach Chicago tonight, Forecaster W. P. Day said last night. Springlike weather, with bright sunshine and the temperature at 51 degrees between 3 and 4 p. m. yesterday, filled Chicago parks and streets with strollers.

Motorists jammed the highways in the metropolitan area as Chicagoans took advantage of the weather to make midwinter trips into the surrounding countryside. The four lane highways carried the increased traffic without congestion, but delays were reported on the two lane roads near Chicago.

The colder weather, which will bring zero temperatures to the stock raising states, will embrace all of Illinois, Forecaster Day said, probably with rain turning to snow tonight or tomorrow.

Policeman Kills Bandit at South Side "L" Station

Jessie Sayre, Daughter of Wilson, Dead

Boston, Mass., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Jessie Wilson Sayre of Cambridge, daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson and secretary of the Democratic state committee, died late tonight in Wyman House, Cambridge hospital, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday morning.

Mrs. Sayre was the wife of Prof. Francis B. Sayre, member of the Harvard law school faculty and state commissioner of correction. She was reported as resting comfortably today after she had been visited by her husband, but her condition took a turn for the worse this evening.

Native of Georgia.

Mrs. Sayre was born in a small town in Georgia, 45 years ago. She went to Princeton, N. J., as a young girl, where her father served first on the faculty and later as president of Princeton university. She was educated at Goucher college in Baltimore. Following her graduation from Goucher, she worked for three years in a settlement house in Philadelphia.

She was actively interested in the affairs of the Y. W. C. A. and was subsequently elected to that organization's national board. She later devoted considerable time to work among the normal school students in Trenton in addition to her social service work.

Married in White House.

Following the inauguration of her father as President in 1913 she lived at the White House until Nov. 25 of that year when she was married to Mr. Sayre, then deputy assistant to President Harry A. Garfield of Williams college. From 1914 to 1917 the Sayres made their home in Williamstown.

They moved to Cambridge following the war when Mr. Sayre was called to the Harvard law school.

She introduced Al Smith at the Boston Garden in the fall of 1928, when the then governor of New York was campaigning for the presidency. In 1929, her name was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, but she declined to be a candidate.

Girl Helps in Robbery of Devon Avenue Store

A girl assisted a two gun bandit in a robbery at the fruit store at 1614 Devon avenue last night. She pushed Peter Poulous, the owner, into the basement while her companion threatened him with two guns, and then rifled the cash drawer of $35.

"SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK" NOW ABODE OF AUTHOR

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—For James W. Blake the "Sidewalks of New York" had less gayety and more bitterness today than they did 34 years ago. He immortalized them in the famous song.

Mamie O'Rourke is dead or gone away, no one calls organ grinders "Guinnies" now, and Mr. Blake, 70, penniless, jobless, was not inclined to trip the light fantastic on pavements that are for a time the only refuge for himself, a blind brother, and a 74 year old sister.

His job as salesman of velvets and velours went more than a year ago, and every other resource relentlessly dried up after the major one was exhausted. Three weeks ago he was forced to leave the little flat in the Bronx where he had supported the brother and sister, who are now tramping the pavements with him.

The emergency relief committee has arranged to take care of Blake and his charges.

BLASTS MOVE MOUNTAIN FACE 50 FEET MORE

Durango, Colo., Jan. 15.—(AP)—With three sharp explosions which were heard and felt in Durango, three miles away, Carbon Mountain's entire north face slipped 50 feet further down its slope today.

The explosions, bystanders said, seemed to come from deep in the mountain. They were not accompanied by smoke.

Débris from the north face slide is now piled 150 feet deep at the base of the mountain, observers said. The north face slide was shown today by a photographic record to have moved 75 feet in the last week. Trees which were well ahead of the slide last week were shown to be completely covered in pictures taken today.

LIBBY HOLMAN'S BABY REPORTED LOSING WEIGHT

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 15. — [Special.]—The infant son of Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, who weighed only three and one-half pounds at birth last Tuesday, has lost weight since then it was revealed today. John N. Hatfield, superintendent of the Pennsylvania hospital, said that this was not unusual, since most babies lose weight during the first week or so after birth. Because of the delicate constitution of the child, who was born prematurely it was said, however, that extra precautions were being taken so that the weight loss would have no serious effects. Mr. Hatfield reported the conditions of both the baby and Mrs. Reynolds to be "satisfactory." The child is being kept in a "hot bed."

Democrats Put List of Jobs Up to Gov. Horner

Scarcity of real timber for building up the Cook county end of the new state administration to the standard desired by Gov. Henry Horner was reported yesterday following a closed door conference in Mayor Cermak's office.

Discussion of the situation with Chicago leaders was one of the chief reasons for Gov. Horner's trip here from Springfield Saturday night and it was said after the conference that his hopes for the submission of a large number of names of leading citizens qualified and ready for important posts were somewhat dashed

Horner to Consider Names.

The governor declined to comment beyond a statement that he will consider all the names submitted to him through organization channels or otherwise, but that his selections will be his own and will not be the result of the dictations of any committee.

At the conference, it was said, there were a few names submitted that were outstanding, but the great majority of the men mentioned were those of the type known for little beyond their work for the organization.

The exceptions included such men as Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, widely known physician; A. D. Plamondon, representative of a pioneer Chicago family William L. O'Connell, old Dunne Harrison-Lewis chieftain, and Robert G. Kingery, secretary of the Chicago regional planning commission. Another exception was Prof. John Landesco, noted criminologist, who was suggested for a place on the board of pardons and paroles.

Candidates for Park Presidency.

Both Dr. Schmidt and Mr. Plamondon have been mentioned in the past for the presidency of the Lincoln park board, the former having been indorsed for the office by the nine north side ward committeemen several weeks ago. The latest report is that Mr. Plamondon now is a more likely suggestion for the chairmanship of the state industrial commission.

A new candidate was brought forward for the park presidency. He is Martin Kennelly, official of a large storage warehouse company, who is said to have substantial backing "downtown" as well as on the north side.

J. Frank Lyman, committeeman of the 48th ward, was advanced as a candidate for superintendent of the Lincoln park board. James M. Slattery, an old Harrison man long active in the 49th ward, was proposed for the attorneyship of the board.

O'Connell's Name Discussed.

The name of "Billy" O'Connell, who managed the Lewis senatorial campaign, was discussed in connection with the plan of Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, to reorganize the entire bank receivership situation in his department. It is Democratic policy to remove all the receivers and receivers' attorneys named by the former Republican auditor, Oscar Nelson. An effort is being made to work out a plan of continuing this work under the direction of one man such as O'Connell, but obstacles have been encountered and announcement of the plan has been delayed on that account.

The name of Kingery was brought up in connection with the one vacancy which now exists in Gov. Horner's cabinet, that in the office of di-

BURDEN TO FALL ON CONSUMER IN 'LEVY' ON FOOD

$25 a Year Cost to Average Family.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A new tax of $25 will be levied on every family of five in the United States on purchases of bread, cotton, and pork alone, by the domestic allotment bill for farm relief which passed the house in Washington last week and is to be taken up today in senate committee. Such were estimates last night from Chicago statisticians who held that the bill is to all purposes a "sales tax."

Both producers and consumers will be hit adversely by the "price fixing" provisions of the measure, according to an analysis made by meat packers and millers. Both argued that the effect of the bill would be to increase the surplus of farm products, while the tax, or bonus to producers, called in the bill by the name of "fair exchange allowance" will be paid by the consumer.

Imperils Cash Hog Market.

One effect set forth by the meat packers is destruction of the cash market for live hogs which would leave a surplus of unsalable hogs on the farm. The Institute of American Meat Packers sent out a bulletin urging hog raisers in the corn belt and pork consumers to write their senators and representatives in congress at once protesting against the measure.

As to what the bill means to the household budget the Millers' National Federation has estimated that it would, in essence, levy a sales tax on the domestic consumption of wheat flour, cotton, and pork, approximately as follows:

Flour	$210,000,000
Cotton	125,000,000
Pork	270,000,000
	$605,000,000

The bill also aims to fix prices on tobacco, rice, butter fats, and peanuts. All told, on the seven items, the bill to be paid by the public is estimated at approximately one billion dollars.

As figured by the millers, the tax on the three items of flour, pork, and cotton would mean an average approximate tax on every man, woman, and child in the United States of, on flour purchases, or bread, $2, cotton products $1, pork products $2, or a total of $5.

"The proponents of the measure," says the report of the Millers' Federation, "says the tax will be levied on the processor or at the time of processing. The consumer does not realize yet that it is a sales tax pure and simple, to raise a fund through a special tax—bearing most heavily on the poor—to turn over to the wheat farmer, in the case of flour. Or rather it is a series of special funds to turn over to special groups.

"The average profit of flour mills of the country last year was less than 10 cents per barrel. Any man must realize that it is impossible to raise a tax of $2 a barrel from a profit of 10 cents a barrel. He will know that the entire tax will necessarily be paid by himself as consumer.

Suggests 60 Per Cent Tax.

"In considering general sales taxes, congress has excepted food and ordinary clothing, notwithstanding that the general sales tax proposed has been 1 or 2 per cent. But now this measure suggests a tax on flour itself of 60 per cent or more of wholesale price of flour at western points of shipment."

The Jones bill, as it goes to the senate, undertakes to fix the farm price of wheat, cotton, hogs, tobacco, butter fats, rice, and peanuts on the basis of the pre-war level. A "fair exchange allowance" is to be proclaimed by the secretary of agriculture. This allowance is defined as the difference between the price received by producers at local markets and the "fair exchange value" which approximates "the same ratio as the price for the commodity paid producers during the base period [September, 1909, to August, 1914] bore to prices for all commodities bought by the producers during such base period.

How Tax Is Distributed.

The tax would be raised by a processing tax on the commodities covered by the bill. Price raising would be by division of this subsidy among all the farmers raising the specific products who cut their acreage 20 per cent. The producer would receive what the bill terms "adjustment certificates" in payment for the difference between the market price of the commodity and the fixed or pre-war "fair exchange value."

Demoralization of the hog industry is predicted by the packers if the bill becomes law. The Institute of Meat Packers in a bulletin last night said:

"It would be impossible for the packing industry to absorb the tax. The tax on one year's hog crop would be several times as large as the total profits earned from those sources during the last five years by packers who conduct slaughtering operations.

"This is based on the figures of the several hundred packers who report their operations to the United States department of agriculture."

Provides Sliding Scale.

In the case of hogs, the bill has a sliding scale. It aims to establish a fixed higher price for hogs by requiring the processor to pay, in the form of a tax, the difference between the actual market price and the fixed or "fair market value."

At the start the fixed price would be 3½ cents a pound, increasing at intervals to a top of approximately 7¾ cents, as the packers analyze the bill, which runs into a complication of commodity index numbers. The farmer would receive the market price, plus an adjustment certificate giving him his share of the tax proceeds, provided he reduced by 20 per cent the tonnage of hogs he marketed.

Half the amount of the certificates would be redeemable thirty days after issuance, the balance after six months. The certificates would be issued on the percentage of hogs which is marketed in the United States.

"The result," says the institute bulletin, "would be that at the higher price levels necessitated by the tax, pork consumption would immediately drop.

Demoralization of Industry.

"With millions of unemployed and with buying power at low ebb, the number of hogs that could be marketed at the higher levels would be so small as to cause the demoralization of the hog industry.

"With the packing industry unable to buy all the hogs offered, the terminal markets would quickly become congested, a huge surplus of hogs would pile up in the country and become unsaleable, thus getting heavier and increasing production of undesirable pork.

"Establishment of the ultimate top price for hogs which the bill contemplates, would require the equivalent of an enormous sales tax on pork purchased by the consumer, which at present retail prices would aggregate 50 to 100 per cent.

"Most of the proponents of a manufacturers' sales tax—and no such sales tax of more than 5 per cent has been proposed up to this time—have maintained consistently that a sales tax should not be applied to meat. The bill would place the equivalent of a sales tax of tremendous proportions on one of our most important foods."

FARLEY GUEST OF DEMOCRATIC LEADERS HERE

James A. Farley, manager of the Roosevelt presidential campaign and now chairman of the Democratic national committee, arrived in the city yesterday to confer with local party chiefs. He was met by a group of Democratic leaders, and others. Mr. Farley will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given at noon today in the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. Mayor Cermak and other heads of the local Democratic organization will attend. About 1,000 guests are expected to be present.

"Skyscraper Burglar" Will Go on Trial Again Today

Melville Reeves, 45 years old, known to police as the "skyscraper burglar," will go on trial today before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Criminal court on a charge of burglarizing the offices of H. W. Kaster & Sons, 360 North Michigan boulevard. He was found guilty by a jury on the same charge several weeks ago. The verdict, which carried an automatic sentence of one year to life, was set aside and a new trial granted by Judge Desort because of an error in the presentation of evidence.

URGE CONGRESS TO REPEAL RAIL VALUATION BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission is entering upon the twenty-first year of the elder La Follette's monumental program for valuing the physical properties of the railroads and the end is not within sight.

Nearly 188 millions of dollars have been expended on this project, which was intended to furnish a basis for fixing railroad rates, but none can say when, if ever, a valuation will be established and rates based thereon.

In fact, it is more than likely that a current valuation never will be reached, for the railroads, the shippers, and the interstate commerce commission are pretty well agreed that the program should be abandoned as visionary and impractical.

Want Rayburn Bill Passed.

Enactment of the Rayburn bill, favorably reported to the house by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, is urged by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at this session. It has the support of the shippers, railroads, security owners, the state railroad commissions, and others. It would change the rate making law so as to relieve the commission from prescribing rates on the basis of value and also relieve the commission of bringing down to date valuations as required by existing law, but would still require it to collect all data necessary to a proper determination of value and to keep itself informed of all additions, betterments, retirements, and extensions of property of all common carriers.

The Rayburn bill also would repeal retroactively the recapture provisions of the law and thus relieve the railroads of fighting claims against them estimated as high as 360 million dollars. Repeal also would result in the return to carriers of approximately $10,000,000 paid in by them to the commission under protest.

Costs 182 Millions.

The La Follette valuation program has cost the federal government more than 42 millions up to date and the railroads nearly 142 millions. The appropriation for the valuation work of the commisson for the fiscal year 1933 is $2,750,000, more than one-third of the commission's budget. For 1934 the President recommended $2,313,542. There are 266 persons employed on valuation work, with an aggregate compensation of $1,557,640.

The commission has completed valuations of the railroads as of, generally speaking, fifteen years ago. These valuations, of course, before they are worth anything for current application, must be brought down to date and the commission is now engaged in that task, but when it has brought them down to a given date, say as of 1930, it will still be behind. Valuation experts have gone so far as to assert that congress imposed an impossible task on the commission when it required it to produce a current valuation.

Want Program Abandoned.

Shippers and railroads are now asking that the commission be relieved of the duty of making current valuations of the railroads. Both groups assert that, as a practical matter, railroad rates cannot be made with a view to yielding a specified percentage return on the aggregate value of railroad properties, and that, therefore, the valuation program, as conceived by congress in 1913, should be abandoned.

The railroads estimate that of the 141 million dollars spent by them in valuation work, approximately 100 million is wholly unproductive.

The elder La Follette and other proponents of the 1913 valuation act estimated that the whole cost of railroad valuation would be $5,000,000, of which one-half would be borne by the railroads and the other half by the government.

One of the dominant reasons for enactment of the valuation act was to protect the shipping public against being taxed on "water" in railroad properties.

Fail to Find "Water."

E. I. Lewis, former member of the commission in charge of valuation work and recently appointed director of the bureau of valuation of the commission, testifying before the house committee, said that the valuation work, taken as a whole, had not revealed "watered securities" in the railroads. Some companies were shown to be overcapitalized while others were shown to be undercapitalized. The Pennsylvania's assets, for example, he said, were shown to be greater than the book value of the corporation.

In the transportation act passed in 1920, congress gave the commission jurisdiction over the issuance of railroad securities to prevent "watered stock" or other unjustified security issues being put out. It is urged in this connection that though there may have been ground for the valuation act to show up "watered securities" in the past, the law now protects the public in that respect, and that, therefore, valuation from that aspect is not necessary.

The commission itself, in connection with the pending legislation, has recommended that it be relieved of the duty of making current valuations. It would continue to keep a check on the properties from a valuation standpoint and be in a position to produce a valuation if the occasion demanded it. Such work, it is estimated, could be continued at far less cost than the work now required.

Original Reason Cited.

S. T. Bledsoe, chairman of the executive committee and general counsel of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, expressed the view that valuations were originally required largely on the assumption that there was a large amount of watered stock or watered capitalization of the railroads in the hands of the public, and the purpose was primarily to ascertain whether that was true. He said the valuation failed to establish that there was any considerable outstanding stock in excess of valuation.

"I have never thought that rates ought to be made on what may be called constitutional value," he said. "That is, the value as determined by the judgment of the Supreme court of the United States. . . . Rates have to be made in the main so that they will move the traffic."

How Landlord's Income Was Used

All of the other Emmerson department heads are still in office, serving now as holdovers since their terms expired legally at midnight last night. They have been holding on at Gov. Horner's request.

A long list of candidates for membership on the west park board was said to have been presented, a list headed by the name of Walter M. Thurn, of the Vitrolite company, who is being backed for the presidency of the board.

Among those mentioned for the commissionerships were Thomas Gordon, a Polish newspaper publisher and a nephew of the late Father Francis Gordon who was long a power in Polish Democrat politics; Albert Flynn, who has been active in northwest side affairs; Bernard Junge, Harry Joseph, a lumberman; Stanley Adamkiewicz, a former alderman; Frank Babrytzke, now a member of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium board; James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, and Paul Russo, a commission merchant.

Other names proposed were those of Hy Brody, a ward committeeman, for a place in the department of education and registration; Leo Wienecke, another ward committeeman for either oil inspector or factory inspector; and Packey McFarland, former boxer, for appointment to the athletic commission.

Among those attending the conference in addition to Gov. Horner and Mayor Cermak, were Auditor Barrett, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, Attorney General Otto Kerner, County Chairman P. A. Nash, E. J. Kelly, president of the south park board, and A. J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court.

GEO. LANDLORD OF CHICAGO GETS LESSON IN TAXES

so sure about the "safe 8 per cent." Labor was cheaper, so he saved a little in the operation of the building, and his mortgage interest wasn't so high, because he had paid off part of the principal. But his tax bill for 1929, he found, was going to be $300 higher than it was the first year he owned the building, and that wiped out half of his savings. He didn't get the bill that year because of the reassessment, but followed the advice of his renting agent and put money away in the bank to meet it when it came.

Worst of all, the demand for apartments had fallen off. His agent said Chicago was overbuilt. Anyway, George had to cut his rents to $80 a month, and even then his percentage of vacancies was higher. When he figured out his net income it was only $1,368 for the year. Instead of 8 per cent that gave him only 2.56 per cent on his investment, which increased, he thought, as he paid off the mortgage. He had forgotten what the insurance company official told him about depreciation.

Renews His Mortgage.

The insurance company official wasn't very enthusiastic about renewing George's mortgage in 1931, even though it had been reduced to $30,000. But he finally did, commenting that he didn't want to go into the apartment management business if he could avoid it. Under the new mortgage George was to pay $1,200 a year on the principal.

The beginning of 1932 found George Landlord in a pretty bad fix. The assessment on his building had been cut in the reassessment, but that didn't apply to his 1930 tax bill, which was $1,850, the highest he had ever received. He had put aside the money to pay it, but the bank closed. He would have to meet the bill out of current income, and for the first time he noticed a clause in his mortgage providing that it should be foreclosed in the event of a tax forfeiture being entered against the property.

But George wasn't whipped yet. He fired his janitor and did the work himself. And he was 67 years old, remember. He pared expenses wherever he could. But his income from the building had been pared, too. He had had to cut rents to $60 a month and even then he couldn't keep all his apartments full.

George borrowed the limit, about $2,000, on his insurance policies. The income from the building was sufficient to meet his mortgage payments, but he had to dip into the insurance money to meet the tax bill. There wasn't much left to support himself and his wife.

Last week he balanced his accounts for 1932. He discovered that in spite of his economies and the hours of back breaking labor he had spent working as his own janitor, that the accounts showed a net deficit of $580 for the year. The next day he went down to the insurance company's office.

"I want to make a bargain with you," he told the loan official. "If I give you a quit claim deed to that building, will you give me a job as janitor there? I'll work for $12 a week. That was what I was paying my own janitor before I fired him a year ago and started doing the work myself."

"Why don't you hang on a while longer," said the official. "Times may get better. Besides, we'd rather you kept the building and paid on the mortgage than run it ourselves."

"Nothing doing," said George. "I want to stop worrying about tenants and tax bills and see if I can sleep nights. Do I get the job?"

George Signs the Deed.

He got the job, and signed the deed.

"Well," he said, "you're getting an $85,000 apartment building for about $28,000."

"You're wrong," the official told him. "Right now we'll probably be lucky to get the present value of the mortgages out of the building if we sell it."

"But where did my equity go, then?" asked George.

"Part of it vanished in depreciation as your building got older," the loan official told him. "Some more of it went up in thin air as the value of the dollar increased in the last few years, depressing the price of everything that you buy with dollars.

"And the rest of it was wiped out by your rising tax bills. Every time an additional dollar of taxes is placed on a property its value depreciates by from $12 to $20, depending upon what basis its net earnings are capitalized to estimate its value.

Goes for Bridle Path.

"To pay the firemen and policemen who guard your building and yourself and the teachers who instruct your tenants' children took something away from the value of your building, and that's proper, of course. But a lot more of your equity in that building is buried in that million dollar bridle path that Tim Crowe and his pals built, or sunk in the lagoons that the west park board paid lagoon watchers to watch, or stowed away in the pockets of the grafters and useless political payrollers that you found around our public buildings a short time ago."

"I see," said George Landlord, "and now I guess I'd better get along and fire up the boiler in your apartment building."

13TH YEAR FINDS PROHIBITION LAW AT DEATH'S DOOR

U. S. Drinks Today to 'the Last Anniversary.'

Millions of citizens today will drink to the thirteenth birthday of national prohibition, either in ironic tribute or hopeful anticipation of its early end. The nation went overwhelmingly wet in the Nov. 8 election and the new congress will be under the control of the Democrats, who have pledged action both for modification and repeal.

So prohibition in its present form seems destined never to have more than thirteen candles on its cake. It became law on Jan. 16, 1920, when the 18th amendment went into effect after six and one-half months of war time prohibition designed chiefly as a grain conservation measure. The Volstead act, to enforce the 18th amendment, became effective on Jan. 17, 1920.

Modification of the Volstead act by the lame duck congress appears almost hopeless, according to Washington reports. But the new administration has indicated an intention after March 4 of pressing for passage of a revenue raising bill permitting the sale of beer and possibly wine.

States Are Taking Action.

The wet wave that has swept the country is running ahead of congress, however, and has found expression in the several states.

Seven states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, North Dakota, and Washington—voted to repeal the prohibition clauses in their constitutions or their enforcement acts in the Nov. 8 election. Four other states—Rhode Island, Connecticut, Wyoming and Texas—have taken forward steps, such as petitioning congress for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Maryland and Nevada never enacted state enforcement acts. Six states had repealed their enforcement laws before the Nov. 8 election. They were Massachusetts, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Oregon and Wisconsin. The people of various other states, notably Indiana and Illinois, delivered mandates by electing wet majorities to their legislatures, and are now waiting for the legislatures to act.

The Tide Has Turned.

This background will serve as an illustration of the turning of the tide against prohibition. A glance at the sufficiency of liquor in the land, the ease and cheapness with which it may be procured, and the drinking habits of the citizens, both young and old, on the thirteenth birthday of the "noble experiment," will show its status.

In Milwaukee it is reported that the price of brewery beer is 15 cents for a 10 ounce stein, and the doors of all saloons are open to all comers. Before prohibition beer was 10 cents for a 10 ounce stein, 15 cents for a 12 ounce bottle. In Chicago the price is still 25 cents for an 8 ounce shell in the loop and nearby districts, but larger schooners may be had in the outlying neighborhood saloons for 15 cents.

Five gallons of alcohol, enough to make 10 gallons of 100 proof gin, will be delivered to any home in Chicago for $20. A pint of gin will be delivered for $1, on 5 minutes' notice, by the corner druggist or the neighborhood bootlegger.

In the Rural Precincts.

Nor are these prices comparable to those of the pre-Volstead days, considering the element of risk that supposedly goes with delivery, peculiar to the urban centers of the wet northern states. Quotations on Idaho potato whisky, Texas and Georgia corn, the Templeton rye of Iowa, and the seedless raisin wine [20 per cent alcohol by weight] of Kansas, were obtained yesterday from a traveling man who is an amateur investigator.

The corn of Texas, aged in a charcoal barrel for one year, is 10 cents a shot over the bar, 25 cents by the half pint, $2 the gallon. In Georgia the highest grade is $3 a gallon. In Iowa the renowned Templeton, second only in popularity to raw alcohol and near beer, is $3 a quart. The raisin wine in Kansas is $1 a quart, the same price as the native corn and that imported from Westphalia, Mo., the traveling man reports.

The annual drink bill of the United States in recent years, according to an estimate of Maj. Maurice Campbell, former prohibition administrator of New York, and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, is $2,848,000,000, while in 1914 it was only $1,813,000,000. Increased drinking and higher prices, which are declining in the depression and the relaxation of enforcement efforts, were responsible for the billion dollar increase in the annual drink bill, according to the association.

The changing attitude of federal judges in the punishment of dry law offenders is another evidence of the growing scorn with which the public views prohibition. In the early years jail sentences of three to six months were expected and usually handed out in the ordinary bootleg cases. It was not unusual for a man charged with sale, manufacture or transportation of liquor to get the maximum imprisonment sentence under the Volstead act—one year.

The federal judges in Chicago, with one or two exceptions, now rarely impose a sentence of more than 30 days in jail, unless the defendant is a member of a notorious alcohol gang. Pleas of guilty in the case of beer flat and speakeasy operators almost uniformly result in fines and suspended sentences. A three time offender was recently put on probation.

The Situation in Texas.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, has declared that passage of the proposed 3.2 or 3.05 beer bills would mean nullification, but the leniency of the federal judges in sentencing dry law offenders appears to presage a practical state of nullification.

At Fort Worth, in Senator Sheppard's home state, 200 liquor law violators filed before a federal judge just before Christmas. They all pleaded guilty, either to manufacture, possession, sale of transportation of liquor in divers forms, but all with a far greater potency than 3.05 beer. Not a single sentence was imposed that was not suspended, and not a single fine that was not remitted.

Yet congress, in passing the Jones law, provided for maximum penalties of five years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 for all these offenses except possession. Gibbon, the historian, when examining an edict of the Emperor Constantine directed at the moral habits of men and women, observed: "Whenever the offense inspires less horror than the punishment the rigor of penal law is obliged to give way to the common feelings of mankind."

Prohibition, according to a recent survey made by the Crusaders, militant wet organization, has entailed a direct loss of 18½ billion dollars in revenue to the federal government and the various states.

The total cost, including appropriations for expenditures for enforcement and the consumers' loss through the padlocking and seizure of property and the payment of higher prices for protection and bootleg profits, was estimated at $34,569,109,000. A total of 32,422 deaths from alcoholism have been recorded since the advent of prohibition. Prohibition enforcers have killed 2,089 citizens, and citizens have killed 51 prohibition agents, the survey showed.

Before prohibition, drinking was unknown in high schools and the practice presented no serious problem in colleges. Now the prohibition bureau recives complaints almost daily that speakeasies are selling liquor to high school and even grammar school students.

LEGISLATURE TO PASS NEW YORK LIQUOR BOARD BILL TONIGHT

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—New York will formally inaugurate its program to prepare for a new liquor control system when the legislature gives approval tomorrow night to a bill creating a commission to devise a plan. With Gov. Lehman ready to sign the bill and name his seven members of the nine man commission within a day or so, the group will plunge into its work at once so as to be ready to report back by Feb. 15. The governor has urged the necessity of this schedule in anticipation of repeal of the 18th amendment.

KILLED BY AUTO RETURNING FROM GRAVE OF SON

John Peel, 74 years old, a carpenter, of 823 Park Plain avenue, Park Ridge, was killed by an automobile yesterday at Busse avenue, near Dee road, Park Ridge. He was returning home from a visit to the grave of his son in Irving Park Boulevard cemetery at the time. The driver of the car was Clarence Egkild, 42 years old, of 3018 Natoma avenue. The death increased the motor toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 33.

Woman Struck by Bullet Fired at Hoodlums Dies

Mrs. Jennie Edwardsen, 47 years old, of 2328 North Avers avenue, died at St. Anne's hospital last night of a bullet wound which she received accidentally while riding in an automobile on the night of Jan. 10. Police said the bullet was fired at three gunmen in another car by Ben Ammundsen, 1111 North Waller avenue, an attendant at the oil station at Waller avenue and Division street.

MELLISH, GENIUS OF ST. CHARLES, LOSES FREEDOM

John E. Mellish of St. Charles, known as an astronomical genius, who was arrested eighteen months ago on a statutory charge and who since has been permitted freedom during the daytime from the Kane county jail so that he might continue his scientific work, has had his privileges withdrawn.

This was ordered by State's Attorney George Carbary, who saw Mellish in Aurora on Saturday, at a time that Mellish was believed to be in St. Charles working on a large telescopic lens to be exhibited by the University of Chicago at the Century of Progress exposition.

Mellish is scheduled to go on trial before Judge John K. Newhall at Geneva on Jan. 30. He was arrested on the charges of a 15 year old girl.

George Wendt, of 938 North Hamlin avenue, was shot in the arm last night when he attempted to drive two burglars out of the apartment of Harry Gilbertsen at 948 North Karlov avenue. Wendt and Gilbertsen and their wives were returning after an automobile ride when they surprised the thieves. Wendt was taken to St. Anne's hospital. The burglars escaped.

Japanese Police Arrest 2,000 in Roundup of Reds

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Police in the last three months have arrested more than 2,000 persons, including prominent educators, in a series of raids in many parts of Japan, it was learned today. Those arrested were charged with participating in a communist movement. This was the largest communist roundup in the history of Japan and surpassed the largest previous wholesale arrests of March, 1928.

20,000 TERRIFIED CHINESE HUDDLE AT GREAT WALL

Prefer Bitter Cold to Death in Shanhaikwan.

SHANHAIKWAN, China, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Driven from their homes in Shanhaikwan by the combined Japanese and Chinese bombardment of Jan. 3, 20,000 terrified Chinese, mostly women and children, are crouching hungry in the bitter cold on the bleak seashore outside the Great Wall, which dips down to the sea here.

They seem to fear the Chinese army more than the Japanese, believing that the Chinese at any time may attempt to recapture Shanhaikwan.

Ignore Advice of Japanese.

Having seen 200 of their relatives die in the aerial, artillery, and naval bombardment, the refugees were not heeding the advice Japanese were dropping from airplanes urging them to return home, preferring the privations of the seashore to death in the city of Shanhaikwan.

The Japanese army is trying to feed the refugees, but the greatest need is shelter from the bitter winter. A majority of the shops in Shanhaikwan remain closed, business has been stopped, and the hospitals are full of civilians and soldiers who have been wounded.

The death here today of an Italian courier-soldier whom Chinese troops allegedly shot while he was traveling from Shanhaikwan to Chinwangtao has introduced what is considered a serious international complication in the troubled affairs of China and Japan.

May Demand Indemnity.

Italian authorities here assert that Chinese military leaders in Tientsin had assured the Italian commander they had arranged for the courier's safe passage to the city a few miles southwest of here. It was expected Italy will demand an indemnity and guarantees against recurrence of the episode.

Meanwhile, the Japanese army was resolutely preparing to take steps in opposition to the concentration of Chinese troops and volunteer soldiers in Jehol.

Japanese miltary leaders here, however, declared that the Japanese offensive in Jehol, the province lying between Manchuria and north China proper which the Japanese previously have said they want ultimately to conquer, would not be launched until late in February or early in March.

They set the time for the projected movement in Jehol before spring thaws make roads too soggy for sending artillery units, tanks, and other mechanized equipment over them.

Bomb Chinese in Air Raid.

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[Monday.]—(AP)—A dispatch today from Tunghiao, Manchuria, to the newspaper Asahi said that several Japanese airplanes had bombed and heavily damaged headquarters of a volunteer Chinese concentration movement at Kailu, a city in northeast Jehol province. Following upon the reported bombardment, which assertedly occurred Sunday morning, the Japanese garrison at Tunghiao, directly east of Kailu, strengthened its defenses.

Japanese residents of the city were ordered to seek refuge inside the barracks enclosure, because of reports of the approach of Chinese volunteer bands.

[Kailu and Tunghiao have practically the same relationship to northern Jehol and Manchuria as Shanhaikwan and Chiumenkow have south of Jehol, for all cities are on strategic roads and to a certain extent control entrance to Jehol, the province between China proper and Manchuria.]

Chinese Reds Volunteer to Fight.

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 15.—(AP)—In a manifesto addressed today to the Chinese people, the so-called "soviet government of China" said Chinese Red armies were willing to fight with government troops against the Japanese.

Three provisos are attached to the offer, however: That the government anti-Red campaign cease, that the people be granted democratic rights, and that armed volunteer detachments be created "to struggle for the defense and independence and unity of China."

TOKIO NEWSPAPERS SAY U. S. HELPS CHINA IN WAR PREPARATIONS

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Charges that the United States was aiding China's war preparations against Japan were aired today in the Tokio newspapers.

Joseph C. Grew, the American ambassador, issued the following statement:

"Regarding rumors published in various newspapers in Japan to the effect that understanding was reached between the United States and China for supplying money, arms, and munitions to China, the American embassy states emphatically there is no understanding or agreement of this nature between the United States and China. There is no basis whatever of rumors which have been published, including a rumor the United States arranged to loan the Nanking government 20,000,000 yen (nearly $4,000,000)."

It was learned Ambassador Grew's denial was based on a recent statement cabled by Secretary of State Stimson.

Simultaneously the information bureau of the Japanese war office issued this statement:

"A supply of arms to China, especially to Chang Hsiao-liang (commander in north China), has been made principally by the United States and Germany, Americans selling the Chinese airplanes and motor cars, mostly delivered in Shanghai, and the Germans delivering guns and machine guns to Tientsin."

It was learned the principal basis for the reference to Americans was that airplanes were sold to Hanzchow aviation school and Shanghai was supplied with mail planes.

Hunt for Hinkler, Missing Atlantic Flyer, in Alps

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Capt. W. L. Hope arrived here by plane tonight from London to begin a search for Bert Hinkler, British trans-Atlantic flyer who had not been heard from since he started a flight from England to Australia more than a week ago. Hope believes that Hinkler's plane crashed in the Alps.

SHOWUP CLOSED TO PUBLIC; BARE HOODLUM TRICKS

Police Find Gangsters Spot Their Victims.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker yesterday ordered the spotlighted showup room of the detective bureau closed to the public.

This is the theater-like room in which suspected persons are placed under a strong light so that they may be scrutinized by victims of crimes for possible identification.

It was reported that Schoemaker's action followed the discovery that hoodlums have been regular visitors to see witnesses whom they might later intimidate, and that they have caused the arrest of certain of their enemies in order to provide a convenient method of identifying them to hired assassins for subsequent gang rides.

Admission by Ticket.

Admission to the showup is by tickets, which are given to robbery victims at district police stations. Some of these tickets, police said, found their way into the hands of relatives and friends of the criminals paraded.

The usual crowd of curiosity seekers, friends of politicians and police, also came under the Schoemaker ban. Police said that these visitors crowded the 11th floor of the police building at 11th and State streets, where the showup is held, adding to the confusion. These factors, police said, have lessened the value of the showup as a police device in the fight on crime.

Chief Schoemaker was ticket taker yesterday and turned away all those who could not prove that they had come on business. Several tickets, incorrectly made out, were held to be investigated.

Hoodlums and Friends Leave.

Police said that hoodlums and their friends, who planned to attend yesterday's show, left as soon as they saw Chief Schoemaker at the door. The word was passed around the lobby that "Schoes is at the door," and that there was little chance of gaining admission.

More than 300 prisoners were paraded before the robbery victims. In one case the supposed robbery victim landed in a bureau cell along with the alleged robbers.

This incident grew out of the reported robbery of James Donnals, a Greek, in his restaurant at 2958 Diversey avenue. He told police that two men and a woman took $18 from him yesterday morning. Mrs. Martha Zwissler, owner of a bakery at 3000 Diversey avenue, told police that the bandits rode away in an automobile on which the left front window had been broken and a cardboard inserted.

Find Gun in Car.

The car was found parked in front of a restaurant in the 700 block on North Halsted street by Sergt. Martin Haley and his squad. A revolver was found in the car and the three alleged robbers were found in the restaurant. They gave their names as Christ Zhioles, and his wife, Ruby, both of Aurora, and Charles Ilbones, 820 Oakwood boulevard.

When Donnals appeared at the showup Mrs. Zhioles shouted "Hello, Jim." "He's a good friend of mine," she explained to the detectives. After the greeting, Donnals denied that the woman and men were those who robbed him. Police expressed doubt that there had been a robbery and jailed Donnals and the others.

GRAVE TASKS CONFRONT U. S. AS 1933 OPENS

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Seventeen states received more money from the federal treasury in federal aid in the fiscal year 1932 than they contributed in internal revenue to the upkeep of the central government, according to figures compiled by the treasury. These states are the following:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming.

Porto Rico received federal aid but paid no internal taxes to the federal treasury while the Philippines paid internal taxes but received no federal aid.

The receipts of internal revenue from the several states in the 1932 fiscal year, compared with the federal aid payments to the states, follow:

The seventeen states that received from Washington more than they contributed to the federal government are conspicuous in opposition to the radical curtailment of the federal handouts for highway construction provided for in President Hoover's 1934 budget and approved by the house. They are urging the senate to restore this subsidy to its former amplitude.

MYERS WILL ASK BOND ISSUE TO BUILD SCHOOLS

$10,515,000 Needed to Finish Ten Projects.

The flotation of a bond issue to complete new school buildings will be proposed by President Lewis E. Myers at a special meeting of the board of education this afternoon. For many years it has been the policy of the board to finance its entire building program from current revenue and not from bond issues.

Today's meeting has been called to discuss trims in the tentative 1933 school budget of 74 million dollars, in order to keep appropriations within the anticipated revenue.

Work was halted upon ten new school buildings in various stages of construction more than a year ago because the board has been without funds. According to John C. Christensen, school architect, it would cost $10,515,000 to complete all the projects.

Asks Vacant Room Count.

Mr. Myers said the first step is to find out "which buildings, if any, are absolutely needed to relieve congestion." To determine this, he added, the board must have a definite analysis of vacant rooms and school facilities. A second step would be to have the bonds authorized by the legislature.

"We might find it necessary to ask for $5,000,000 in bonds, or less," said Mr. Myers, "instead of the total amount needed to finish all the buildings."

The bonds, he declared, should be for long terms and payable serially, the first maturities falling due not sooner than five years after the issuance. Mr. Myers said that "probably the biggest problem would be to market the bonds."

The school building program is beginning to assume importance in the framing of the budget. At the public hearing last Friday Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, and Thomas F. Flynn, president of the carpenters' district council, told the board that thousands of men would be employed if the board could finance the building program.

Would Relieve Charity Rolls.

Mr. Myers pointed out that many unemployed building artisans, even though they obtained only two or three days' work a week, would be taken off the relief rolls.

The budget as set up by department heads includes $227,000 as the building fund tax levy for 1933.

The projects under construction and the amounts needed to complete each one are as follows:

Dvorak Junior High school	$ 1,100,000
Galileo Junior High school	1,150,000
Rembrandt Junior High school	1,100,000
Wells Junior High school	1,200,000
Verdi Junior High school	1,250,000
New Lane Technical High school	1,700,000
Phillips Senior High school	1,900,000
Steinmetz Senior High school	530,000
Jamieson Elementary	335,000
Senn Senior High addition	250,000
Total	$10,515,000

The board also owes $50,000 on contracts for the Smyser Elementary school, which is completed and in use.

INCOME TAX LAW AND DEMANDS ON YOU EXPLAINED

Below is the fifth of a series of ten concise articles on the income tax prepared for THE TRIBUNE. The articles explain provisions of the new income tax law, known as the revenue act of 1932, under which income tax returns are to be filed in March.

BY WILLIS NANCE.

ARTICLE 5.

Personal Exemptions and Credit for Dependents.

For the year 1932, in the case of a single person, a personal exemption of $1,000 is allowed, and in the case of the head of a family or a married person living with husband or wife, a personal exemption of $2,500 is allowed as a credit against net income.

These exemptions compare with $1,500 in the case of a single person and $3,500 in the case of a head of a family or married person which were allowed under the revenue act of 1928.

A husband wife living together are entitled to receive but one personal exemption of $2,500. If such husband and wife elect to file separate returns, the $2,500 personal exemption may be entirely taken by either or divided between them as they see fit.

A married person who is not living with husband or wife is only entitled to $1,000 personal exemption, while a single person who is the head of a household and was supporting one or more persons in the household closely related to him is entitled to a personal exemption of $2,500.

In addition to the personal exemption, a credit of $400 may be claimed for each person [other than husband or wife] under eighteen years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, who received his or her chief support from the taxpayer during the taxable year.

This credit for dependents can be claimed only by the person who furnishes the chief support and cannot be divided between two individuals.

If the status of a taxpayer, in so far as it affects the personal exemption or credit for dependents, changes during the taxable year, the personal exemption and credit must be apportioned in accordance with the number of months before and after such change, disregarding a fractional part of a month unless it amounts to more than half a month, when it must be considered as a full month.

For example, if a person was single from Jan. 1, 1932, to June 25, 1932, and married and living with husband or wife for the balance of the year 1932, such man and woman would be entitled to a combined personal exemption of $2,250 computed by taking six-twelfths of $1,000 exemption—$500—for each, plus six-twelfths of $2,500 exemption—$1,250.

If such man and woman had each been head of a household from Jan. 1 to June 25, and married and living together for the balance of 1932, they would be entitled to a combined personal exemption of $3,750, as each would be entitled to exemption of $1,250 while the head of a household, plus six-twelfths of $2,500 exemption—$1,250—for the period they were married and living as husband and wife.

If a person had no dependents from January to Sept. 10, 1932, but for the balance of the year had one dependent, he would be entitled to a credit for dependents of $133.33, computed by taking four-twelfths of $400.

The year 1932 is the first year that there has been any prorating of the credit for dependents, as in former years the status of the taxpayer on the last day of the taxable year determined his credit for dependents.

ROB STREET CAR CONDUCTOR.

Charles Brandl, a street car conductor, was robbed of the contents of his money changer yesterday by two men who boarded the street car at Ridgeland avenue and Roosevelt road.

BOARD SLASHES PERSONALTY TAX IN COUNTY TOWNS

The 1931 assessed valuations on personal property in the 30 country town taxing districts of Cook county, as revised by the board of tax appeals, amount to $92,480,440, a reduction of 12.5 per cent from the assessed valuation made by Assessor J. L. Jacobs. The reductions allowed by the appeals board after hearing complaints totaled $13,258,503.

These facts were disclosed yesterday when the revised books were returned to the assessor's office by the appeals board. The total assessed valuation of Cook county personalty as fixed by the assessor was $1,043,523,180. Of this $937,785,237 was for city personalty and $105,738,943 for the country town personalty. The reduction of the assessed valuations in the country towns has reduced the county total to $1,030,264,657. The board of appeals has not completed hearings on complaints against city assessments, in which further reductions have been made.

The delay in completing the country town assessed valuations has held up the work of calculating the tax rates. Officials said yesterday that it is improbable that the first of the country town tax bills can be sent out before March 1. If this is true the penalty date now set for May 1 may be extended another four weeks.

An examination of the tables showing the assessed valuations fixed by the assessor's office, the changes allowed by the board of appeals, and the final assessed valuations, show that in all but two of the towns substantial reductions were allowed. The two were Palos and Riverside, both comparatively small towns.

OFFER PASSPORT TO INSULL IF HE RETURNS TO U. S.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York News.]

ATHENS, Jan. 15.—Application for a renewal of Samuel Insull's passport was successfully made Jan. 6 at the consulate here, according to a statement from sources close to Insull. Little credence is lent to the statement, however, in view of yesterday's assertion in official circles that his passport had been canceled in a consular letter to Insull on Jan. 7.

It was reliably understood that the consulate is ready to give Insull a new passport permitting the financier to leave Greece, but only on the condition that validity of the passport be restricted to his return to America.

Insull received a commendatory letter today informing him of his election to the Greek-American club. It is believed Insull's wife is coming to Athens shortly, following disposal of property in the neighborhood of London.

2 MORE MORONS ESCAPE FROM DIXON ASYLUM

Sheriff Frank Murray of Ogle county notified Chicago police yesterday that three Chicago youths, two of whom escaped from the Dixon institution for the feeble minded Saturday night, had been found suffering from cold and exposure near Oregon. They are Stanley Mroccek, 16 years old, 1806 West Chicago avenue; Joseph Jostekf, 16 years old, 608 North Paulina street, and Harry Kempa, 17 years old, 1722 West 18th street.

Kingfisher Slain Invading Pool; Kills 17 Goldfish

Albany, Ore., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A kingfisher invaded the wrong pool here and the adventure cost it its life after Russell Knighton hurriedly got permission to use firearms within the city limits. The venturesome bird raided Knighton's goldfish pool. Knighton brought down the intruder, but only in time to save the lives of two of his nineteen goldfish.

RESUME FIGHT OVER BRUNKER CHILDREN TODAY

The habeas corpus fight over the custody of the two children of Albert R. Brunker, wealthy Lake Forest reformer, and his ex-wife, Mrs. Margaret Gaylord Ruppel of Pasadena, Cal., will be resumed today before Judge Charles Williams of the Superior court.

Under a Reno divorce decree won by Mrs. Ruppel, the children, Barbara, 7 years old, and Robert, 5, were to be in the custody of each parent for six months of each year. Brunker's six month period of custody ended Dec. 31, but he refused to give the youngsters to his ex-wife. He pleaded they were ill. Mrs. Ruppel then started the habeas corpus action through Attorney John A. Bloomingston.

Man Who Shaved Slayer of Lincoln Dead at 87

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The man who shaved John Wilkes Booth the night before he assassinated Abraham Lincoln died at his home here today. He was Henry J. Bahr, 87, a barber since 12. He worked at the Phalon barber shop in New York City when he shaved Booth.

MRS. RUTH PRATT SON ARRESTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Flushing, L. I., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—An attempt to buy his way out of a speeding charge with a $10 bill landed John T. Pratt Jr., wealthy young broker and son of Congresswoman Ruth Pratt, in the police station at Flushing last night, it was learned today.

Young Pratt, whose father, the late John Toole Pratt, amassed millions through his holdings in the Standard Oil company, was accused on the police blotter of trying to bribe Motorcycle Officer Clarence Milheizer after he had been halted in Woodside when tearing along at 44 miles an hour.

Following his booking, Pratt was released in bail for appearance in Flushing court tomorrow morning before Magistrate Doyle. Pratt, at his home in Glen Cove, today declined to comment on the charges.

The speeder is one of the five children of the late financier who shared his huge estate, estimated at more than $10,000,000 in value. In August, 1925, Pratt was married to Miss Mary Christy Tiffany of St. Louis.

U. S. GIRLS BEGIN TO WONDER—'IS RUSSIA SO HOT?'

Find Hospitality a Flop and Driving Terrible.

The author and Miss Mary L. De Give, both of Atlanta, Ga., unaccompanied, made an automobile trip through Russia that lasted fourteen weeks. Their experiences in that land are related in a series of articles written exclusively for THE TRIBUNE. This is the second. The first dealt with the passage of the two girls through the Russian border guards and customs.

BY ALVA CHRISTENSEN.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

From Negereloye to Minsk, still with the evening of our first day among the soviets unfinished, we crawled along at a speed of about eight miles an hour. Darkness and weariness had overtaken us, but we were sure that the Polish consul, who had been advised of our coming, would aid us when we got to Minsk. We built him into the bright figure of a hero while we slipped and chugged along the slippery road.

The G. P. U. guide, who had been with us since we left the border, escorted us to the consulate door and bid us "Dosvedania." We asked for the consul and found that he was busy. We waited half an hour and it was 10:30 p. m. when he appeared, to be greeted by two grimy and dishevled young women. He was disgruntled, ill-mannered and put out about being disturbed.

Consul Refuses Help.

Several minutes passed in conversation and it was obvious that he was not inclined to assist us, so Mary L. asked for suggestions where we could spend the night. With some condescension the consul sent a secretary with us to a hotel.

That was what the sign outside said it was, but once inside we felt that we were in an insane asylum. Noise, confusion, dirt and dust caught our eyes at once. The price for a room was four rubles a night.

We told the Polish secretary it was too much. We were still reckoning rubles at the official Russian bank rate, 51 cents to the dollar, and not at their real value. The young man took us to another place.

It was smaller, quieter and relatively cleaner than the other. From our remarks in the first hotel, the Pole concluded that we had no money so he told the manageress of the second not to charge us too much. We were taken up to our room, which held four pieces of furniture; one bed with a mattress, one with springs only, a table and a cuspidor. We were glad to have any place to rest for the night and took the room. Beckie, the flivver, was allowed to remain in the Polish consulate's backyard.

In the terrible smell of that hotel room we undressed with great speed. I found that the smuggled pistol on my right hip had rubbed a blister. We wanted to wash a bit, but, going to the lavatory, we found the dirt and filth so heavy that we couldn't stand it.

Chased Out in the Morning.

We retired to our beds. Sore and tired, dirty and disgusted, we were full of misgivings at attempting to go on with the trip. We lay on the uncomfortable beds and tried to convince ourselves that when we reached Moscow everything would be better. Anyhow, we would be more accustomed to the smells of Russia and the hardships. And so we fell asleep.

At 9 in the morning we were awakened by the maids knocking at the door. They wanted to clean the room. It seemed impossible to get up then and we made them understand that they were to return later. At 10 o'clock their knocking became an insistent pounding and we had to let them come in. There were two of them, fat, pudgy peasant girls, with frankly inquisitive looks. We felt that a couple of communist fanatics were gazing with hostile eyes on two capitalists.

We walked through the streets of Minsk looking for a place to eat. Our first impression of the soviet building program was that it was extremely shoddy. The evening before, in the darkness, newly constructed white buildings seemed to have great potentialities for beauty. But in the light of day the forgery of the buildings as of everything else in Russia was apparent. Broken window panes went unreplaced; the putty gray, sandy concrete was filled with cracks and crevices. This was our first great disappointment. Many more were to follow.

Although we walked all over the town we failed to find a place to eat. We saw restaurants, but they looked so forbidding we dared not enter them. Once more we called on the Polish consul to thank him for his inhospitality and to ask him to find us food. We were not received beyond the doorman.

Decide to Go Without Food.

Weak from hunger and sick with disappointment and disgust, we decided to leave Minsk and drive straight through to Moscow. We found that Beckie was in bad shape. There was mud on every part of her and the fan belt was so coated that it would not turn. We had had no bath ourselves, but our car would have to have one before we could start.

There was no water spigot in the back yard of the consulate and no pump in sight. There was a well half a block away, and we trudged back and forth carrying water in buckets.

At 4 in the afternoon we were ready to ride. Right then we ran up against the difficulty of getting information in Russia. We wanted to know what road to take to Smolensk on the Moscow route. The policeman on guard at the consulate first misdirected us. For another hour more and more people shuttled us from side to side of the city. Our directors didn't know the road, but didn't want to appear ignorant.

Cook Meal in Rainstorm.

At last a young man rode on our running board for five miles and put us on the right highway. It was newly paved and we rejoiced. But our good fortune abruptly ceased. The road had not been completed and we took to a construction car path. It was rough and slimy and we slipped from side to side, still determined to drive night and day to reach Moscow.

Entirely famished by this time and away from the insolent curiosity of town people, we halted in a pouring rain to cook our first meal in two days. We sheltered ourselves as well as we could under a tree and were able after a long struggle to keep our little gasoline stove in action. It took two hours to prepare that meal, but it was worth the trouble. American canned soup, sardines, stale Polish rolls and coffee were on the menu.

As we were about to leave two old shepherds came up and tried to talk to us. We told them we were Americans headed for Moscow. One of them helped us to put the stove away. Both waved to us as we drove off. They were the first civil Russians we had met. It cheered us up.

Bump and Jog Along.

Straining our eyes to avoid the tree stumps along the road, we bumped and jogged along for hours until we saw the lights of a large town. We thought it was Smolensk and that we were fortunate to reach it, as our gasoline was low. Smolensk! Splendid; that would mean we were already half way to the capital.

It seemed strange that there were few people moving about. It was not yet midnight and we had read and heard that life in the soviet union is just as active at 1 a. m. as at noon.

We drove from one end of town to the other before we discovered a lighted building. Then, with my hand resting on the pistol, I waded through mud a foot deep to this house and asked for benzine. Directions were given on how to reach a garage.

Six more people had to be interviewed before we finally found the place. The director wasn't in and no benzine could possibly be sold without a written order from him. What to do? A young Russian got in with us and showed us how to get to the director. At the director's home the young Russian led Mary L. through mud that was knee deep to the porch. The director appeared, barefoot but otherwise fully clothed, just as he had been sleeping.

Get Sleeping Quarters in Garage.

No, he said, he would not give an order for any benzine. That was that. The young guide showed the way to two or three factories where motor fuel was kept. But none would let us have any. The Russian took us back to the garage, told us to go to sleep, and promised to return at 7 in the morning.

Municipal buses were housed in the garage. We asked the first chauffeur who came in, with the aid of a map and a dictionary, how far it was to Moscow. He said 700 kilometers [435 miles]. We tried hard to show him Smolensk was half way between the border and Moscow and that it couldn't be so much farther. He was unconvinced.

We gave up. Draping a couple of coats over the car windows, we tried to sleep on the seats.

This was difficult, for every person who entered the garage peeped at us as if we were monkeys in a cage. The night watchman escorted all the bus drivers and conductors over to take a look.

At 7 o'clock our Russian friend appeared and took us to the G. P. U., where we received a written order for as much benzine as we needed. For the twentieth time we drove across town to reach the gasoline yards. A careless attendant spilled at least 5 per cent of the fuel as he poured it into the tank.

Ready to go, we looked at the speedometer. It showed we had traveled less than sixty miles the night before. We couldn't be in Slomensk. Somehow we got the friendly Russian to show us on a map where we were. The town was Borisov. We weren't really started on the road to Moscow.

An Example of Russian Mud Roads

RUSSIA TO EXPEL 'NONWORKERS' FROM THE CITIES

Soviets Uneasy as Passport Deadline Nears.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—(AP)—With the distribution of passports beginning Jan. 20 thousands of residents of the larger cities of soviet Russia await uneasily the introduction of a new system of identification, under which only those engaged in "socially useful work" will be permitted to reside in the centers.

Apprehension is felt among disenfranchised elements who are depending for a livelihood on their relatives' good standing, a dwindling number of private traders plying an illicit commerce, and other groups who, because of lack of ability or desire to work, are considered, under the new system, as "parasitic growths which must be pruned from large municipalities."

No Homes to Go to.

A great majority of these persons, estimated at many thousands in Moscow alone, do not have new homes to which to go, and are facing great hardship and privation in establishing new residences in the provinces and less congested centers.

Most of them are expected to wait until the last possible minute, before getting identification cards and passports, in the hope of getting a recognized job or other dispensations permitting them to stay. The deadline for obtaining passports will be April 15.

Meanwhile, police described as unfounded reports that a large exodus of these "nonworkers" from the cities was already under way.

Administrative orders published today for the new system provided that those not eligible to reside in the cities "can live any other place in the soviet union," but it was not specified what will happen to those who fail to leave the centers voluntarily.

Denies He Is Disloyal.

Meanwhile Alexis I. Rykoff, commissar of communications, who was placed "under strictest discipline" and warned that he was not sufficiently active in the fight against anti-soviet elements, has denied that he is disloyal to the cause and reiterated his allegiance to Josef Stalin's leadership.

Rykoff, who was dismissed from the political bureau of the soviet party in December, 1930, only to be elected a member of the important central executive committee in March, 1931, pledged his faith in party policies in a speech, made public today, before the joint session of the communist party's central and central control committees.

Reviewing his "sins as a rightist," which once cost him the premiership and for which he publicly repented in 1929, thereafter winning his way back into the good graces of the party, Rykoff disavowed his supposed connection with the followers of A. P. Smirnoff, who was expelled from membership in the central committee and deposed as vice commissar of agriculture of the Russian Socialist federated republic for offenses against the party.

"I belong to those members of the central committee who have made great mistakes in the past," Rykoff said. "I was once one of the leaders of the right group and because of this there are still some scamps who persist in speculating on my name despite my former declaration."

Declaring that a furious class struggle is still raging within the party as a result of efforts of enemies to split the ranks, Rykoff added that "I feel a great shame when my name is linked with that of Smirnoff."

Policemen's Benevolent Society Re-elects O'Meara

Stephen O'Meara, president of the Policemen's Benevolent association since 1917, was reelected at a meeting in the Capitol building yesterday. Others reelected were John J. Ryan, vice president; John W. Ryan, recording secretary, and Thomas Regan, financial secretary. Percy Waddington was elected treasurer in the place of Charles A. Donovan, who is ill.

Blast in Manhole Perils Electricity for Albany Park

An explosion in a manhole at St. Louis and Leland avenues jarred that neighborhood yesterday morning, shattered a dozen windows, and endangered the electrical supply in a wide Albany Park area. Engineers said heavy insulation on the two high tension cables running through the manhole prevented the cutoff of electrical service. Electric company officials said they believed gas caused the blast, but no leak was found.

SEIZED AND ROBBED IN HALL.

William McGrath, 5715 South Carpenter avenue, was forced to hand over $20 yesterday by a Negro who seized him in a hallway at 5400 South Park way.

GROUP TO STUDY ECONOMIC CRISIS, SEEK A REMEDY

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, has announced the formation of a commission of 17 members to investigate the present economic crisis, with particular reference to the technique of production and exchange. Recommendations for corrective action will be made.

Seven members of the commission are from Columbia, four from other universities and six are students of economics and public affairs who have no present academic association.

Dr. Butler said the commission would give its attention to these specific topics:

Analysis of the fluctuating relationships of income, investment and consumption within the present price system.

Examination of price controls to maintain stability of internal prices and of international exchange parities in periods of industrial extension and reaction.

Examination of the adequacy of present monetary systems under modern industrial conditions.

Examination of the economic consequences of improvements in productive technique.

HELD FOR ROBBERY THREAT.

James O'Brien, 27 years old, 5628 South La Salle street, and Joseph Maicher, 24, of 3241 West Garfield boulevard, were arrested yesterday morning on a charge of entering the apartment of Mrs. Sophie Gavous, 5700 South La Salle street, and threatening to rob her.

POPE PROCLAIMS HOLY YEAR TO SOOTHE WORLD

Calls for Prayers and Pilgrimages to Rome.

the words: "Do this in commemoration of me"; the passion of Jesus Christ, his crucifixion and death for the salvation of men; Mary the Virgin at the foot of the cross of her son made the mother of all men; then the admirable resurrection of Jesus Christ, condition and certain security of our resurrection; then the power granted by him to the apostles of remitting sins, the true primacy of jurisdiction confided and confirmed to Peter and his successors, and finally the ascension of the Lord, the descent of the Holy Ghost, the paraclete, and the first preaching of the gospel done in a prodigious and triumphant manner by the apostles.

"Beloved sons, what other centenary should be holier or worthier of celebration? Fro... these wonderful events and divine gifts with which the earthly life of Jesus Christ closes emanates to us that life which is the true life, and arises a new order of centuries for all the human generation.

Plea for Prayers.

"We rivivify such recollections therefore during this holy year with every intensity and we venerate them with fervid love. Let us stimulate ourselves to prayer, to penitence for the sins committed by us, having in mind in our prayers and acts of expiation not only our eternal salvation, but also that of all mankind led astray by so many errors, torn by so many discords and hostility, laboring under so many miseries and fearful of so many dangers.

"O, may the most merciful Lord bring it about that the holy year which we shall shortly inaugurate will bring peace to souls, to the church that liberty everywhere due her, to all peoples concord and true prosperity.

"And, since this jubilee celebration will begin with the approach of the Easter solemnities and close in the Eastertide, we believe it opportune that the bishops exhort all their own faithful to purify themselves in the sacrament of penance and nourish themselves with the Eucharist bread, not only during the Easter time set for observing the precepts of the church but as often and with as great devotion as they can, especially throughout the holy year; and also to meditate in special manner on Friday of Holy week on the passion of the Lord. Let this be the particular fruit, and truly of no small importance, of this celebration.

Pilgrimages to Rome.

"It being then understood that the plenary indulgence which we are about to grant can be obtained during this jubilee year only in Rome we ardently desire, O beloved sons, that you come in very large numbers in pious pilgrimage to this city; to this city, we say, which is as the center of the Catholic faith, the domicile and see of the vicar of Jesus Christ. Here in fact it is possible to venerate the renowned relics of the passion of the Lord, which no one of the faithful can see without feeling his love warming toward God and without being aroused to a more perfect life. Here, as you know, is preserved that table on which tradition says our Lord Jesus Christ consecrated the Bread of the Angels after having himself given it, hidden under the Eucharistic veils, to his beloved disciples. Finally, beloved sons, you have here the common father who lovingly awaits you and desires to implore the divine blessing upon you, upon your possessions and undertakings.

"It will also be appropriate that more frequent devout pilgrimages be made to the holy places of Palestine during the course of this year and that the faithful visit there and recall with the greatest devotion the theater of the most holy events which are the object of this commemoration.

Venerate Famous Relics.

"We desire also that in those places where famous relics of the passion of our Lord are kept they be venerated this holy year with particular piety.

"Happy indeed in the hope of these abundant fruits which even now we foretaste in our mind, and with humble prayers recommend to the Father of Mercies, with the assent of our venerable brothers, the cardinals of the Holy Roman church, with the authority of omnipotent God, of the blessed apostles Peter and Paul, with our own authority, for the glory of God himself, for the salvation of souls and the increase of the Catholic church, we decree and promulgate with these apostolic letters, and we desire that it be established and promulgated, a general extraordinary jubilee in this sacred city from April 2 of this year to April 2 of the year 1934 this according to canon 923.

Urges Visits to Basilicas.

"To all the faithful of both sexes who, during this holy year, having confessed and communicated, either on the same day or on different days, and in whatsoever order, visit piously three times the basilicas of St. John Lateran, St. Peter in Vatican, St. Paul on Via Ostiense, and St. Mary Major on the Esquiline hill, and pray according to our intention, we concede and impart mercifully in the Lord a plenary indulgence for all the punishment they must suffer for their sins of which these faithful shall have first obtained the remission and pardon. And we hereby notify the faithful that as soon as they have left the basilica after their holy visit they can immediately enter anew the same basilica to fulfill the second and third visits. This we establish to render the fulfillment of this condition more convenient.

"What is generally the desire of the Roman pontiffs, beloved sons, you certainly know; and what in this case is particularly our intention we have already exposed above with sufficient amplitude.

"We further decree that this jubilee indulgence can apply both to one's self and for benefit of the defunct faithful each time that the prescribed works are faithfully executed.

Decree of Vatican.

"In order that the prayers that are said on these sacred visits may recall to the minds of the faithful and inspire in them the memory of the divine redemption and especially the passion of the Lord, we decree and order as follows:

"In addition to these prayers made spontaneously to the Lord according to each one's piety there should be recited at the altar of the most Holy Sacrament five Paters, Aves, Glorias, and also a Pater, Ave, Gloria, according to our intention; then, before the image of Christ crucified, all should recite the profession of faith three times as well as the Credo and once the ejaculation Adoramus Te, Christe, et Benedicimus Tibi, et cetera, or something similar; then they should go before the Blessed Virgin, and seven times, remembering her sufferings, recite there the angelic salutation Ave Maria, adding once the ejaculation 'Holy mother, do this,' et cetera, or something similar; finally they should go to the altar of the confession and again devoutly make the profession of Catholic faith with the usual formula given above.

"We intend to lighten the dispositions we have above established as necessary to enjoy all the indulgences of the jubilee for those who during the voyage or because of illness here in Rome or because of death or for any other legitimate reason cannot complete the number of prescribed visits or have not even been able to begin them, in such manner that if they confess and communicate they may participate in the same indulgence and jubilee remission as if they had in fact visited the four basilicas we have above nominated.

Asks Pious Exercises.

"Nothing now remains, beloved sons, except to exhort you in the Lord, whether you are inhabitants of Rome or pilgrims, to profit by this opportune occasion to visit with the greatest devotion the widely celebrated Chapel of the Holy Relics in the Sessorians Basilica of the Holy Cross and make the pious exercise of the holy stairs, praying and meditating according to the custom.

"In order that the knowledge of these our letters may more easily reach all the faithful we desire that the printed copies of them, subscribed by a notary public and bearing the seal of a person of ecclesiastical dignity, receive the same faith that one would give the present letters on being shown them.

"No one is permitted to impair or contradict temerariously this document of our decree, promulgation, concession and will. If any one presumes to attempt this let him know that he will incur the displeasure of omnipotent God and of the blessed apostles Peter and Paul.

"Given at Rome at St. Peter's, Jan. 6, the Epiphany of our Lord, in the year 1933, eleventh of our pontificate."

The bull was countersigned by Cardinals Pacelli, secretary of state; Fruhwirth, chancellor of the Holy Roman church, and Gasparri, chamberlain of the Holy Roman church.

BAPTIZE PRINCESS IN ORTHODOX FAITH; POPE OFFERS PROTEST

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The baptism of the young Bulgarian princess who was born to King Boris and Queen Joanna of Bulgaria Friday took place this morning in the little Orthodox chapel in the royal palace. Alexander Malinoff, president of the Bulgarian parliament, acted as godfather, holding the baby in his arms.

A small exclusive circle, including members of the government and parliament and the king's suite, in addition to the king and queen, attended the simple, modest ceremony. Archbishop Stefan of the Orthodox church of Bulgaria baptized the princess after a short religious service, giving her the names Marie Louise in memory of the king's mother, Queen Elena of Italy, the baby's maternal grandmother, arrived in Sofia last night.

The papal representative Msgr. Roncalli, visited Premier Mouchanoff today and protested officially against the Orthodox baptism of the princess. In this connection it was recalled that the pope permitted the marriage of Queen Joanna, an Italian princess and a Catholic, to King Boris, who is Orthodox in religion, only under the promise that her children should be reared in the Catholic faith.

Canada Opens Drive on Ku Klux Klan; Arrests Two

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 15.—Dominion authorities have commenced a drive against the Ku Klux Klan, which is especially powerful in the Canadian midwest. In Edmonton J. J. Maloney, imperial wizard, and Farmer Steele were arrested on a criminal sedition charge, involving the klan oath, which is said to require that one member shall not testify against another except in cases of murder, rape, and treason. Both prisoners were temporarily released on bail.

Missing Passenger Plane Found Afloat Off Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 15.—(AP)—An amphibian plane of the Corporation Aeronautica de Cuba, which operates between the Isle of Pines and Batabano, was located today floating five miles off Mangle Isle, after having been missing since Saturday. An army plane found the missing ship, and tonight the gunboat Matanzas was en route to pick up the four passengers, who are believed to be safe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 15.—Former President William T. Cosgrave spoke to a crowd of 40,000 persons at a large election rally on College green here today. An organized attempt to break up the meeting failed.

Lord Mayor Alfred Byrne, an independent candidate for the dail eireann, but a Cosgrave supporter, presided. During the rally Republicans began shouting "Up De Valera." Policemen escorted them into a side street which was guarded by a large force of police. About 100 men and women were ejected from the green.

At the close of the meeting fighting with fists and clubs broke out at the outskirts of the crowd. Police used their batons freely. The Army Comrades' association [White army] was present in force, and protected the speakers' platform. Cosgrave in his speech concentrated on land annuities and the efforts he would make to save farmers from bankruptcy.

HOHENZOLLERNS HONORED ON 62D EMPIRE BIRTHDAY

Von Schleicher Asserts Right to Bear Arms.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—With demonstrative cordiality President Paul von Hindenburg greeted Frederick Wilhelm, former crown prince and heir to the German throne, at a giant meeting in the sports palace today. Ten thousand war veterans had gathered under the auspices of the Kyffhäuser Veterans' association to celebrate the 62d anniversary of the proclamation of the German empire at Versailles, Jan. 18, 1871.

It was a real Hohenzollern demonstration. Enthusiastic crowds cheered the crown prince and Eitel Friedrich, a brother. They were attired in resplendent uniforms. Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher and chiefs of the republic's reichswehr and navy, also in uniform, shared the ovations.

Hohenzollerns Praised.

The assembly listened to glowing tributes paid the Hohenzollern dynasty by Gen. Von Horn, chairman of the Kyffhäser association.

Gen. Von Schleicher, addressing the veterans, was showered with applause for a speech in which he demanded restoration of general conscription in a form suitable to modern needs.

"Since the days of our forefathers the right to bear arms has been to Germans the sign of a free man," declared the chancellor-war minister. "Our enemies well knew they would strike Germany to the core by depriving her of arms and reducing her to a second rate nation. The German people, and not the least the army, fought tenaciously against this degradation and to regain Germany's military equality. Recently this decisive sign of Germany's sovereignty was recognized.

Demands Equal Security.

"I can only repeat the words of Foreign Minister Von Neurath," he continued, "that the reich government will sign no disarmament convention which fails to take this principle of equality into account. We want only equal security with every other country. I wish again to emphasize that I hold general conscription the very special aim for which we must strive. I am thinking primarily of the militia system."

Gen. Von Horn, speaking in behalf of the organizations of German veterans, declared that "our aim is to turn the anniversary of the foundation of the German empire into a day of special festivity and profession of faith to help Germany survive the consequences of that second historical day at Versailles which robbed us of our honor and our liberty."

Paying homage to the memory of 2,000,000 Germans who died for the fatherland, Gen. Von Horn urged Germans first to master internal dissensions so as to be able to deal with foreign enemies.

HITLERITES CAPTURE CONTROL OF DIET IN STATE ELECTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DETMOLD, Lippe, Germany, Jan. 15.—Lippe, the home of Germany's first national hero, Arminius, chief of the Cherusci, who routed the Romans from German soil in 9 A. D., today gave to Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party control of the state diet. The Nazis captured nine of the 21 seats in the election, while the Socialists, who formerly held the land, could garner only seven. The other five seats were scattered among minor parties.

Nazis hailed the victory as the advent of a new era with Hitler as a new Arminius who will save the country.

"Returns from Lippe show our party is still increasing and that the day is coming when all power will be ours," Hitler declared at Weimar. "The results will teach the gentlemen in Berlin [Chancellor von Schleicher and his cabinet] that the Hitlerites are gaining in strength and will never yield to their wishes."

One communist was killed in a political clash at Cologne today. Other disorders involving Nazis and Reds were reported from Berlin and Saizufen.

SILENCE VEILS STEAMER'S FATE; SOS CALLS END

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Fate of the soviet freighter and passenger steamer Sakhalin was veiled by silence over the far Pacific today, with no further messages describing the plight of the fire stricken vessel, abandoned by half its crew.

With only a few radio messages revealing what had happened since the first S O S call was sent out Thursday, the last message, late last night reported that the amidship deckhouse and hold had been destroyed by fire. The vessel was in the Sea of Okhotsk, off the Siberian coast, with 254 persons reported aboard.

ITALIAN STUDENTS MAKE JUGO-SLAV SHIP LOWER FLAG

ROME, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Newspaper dispatches from Venice confirm reports given out at Belgrade that a group of twenty Italian students boarded a small Jugo-Slavian freighter in port there a week ago and made the captain lower the Jugo-Slavian flag.

The students boarded the boat after it had been in port more than a week and caused the flag to be lowered, according to the Italian version, without resort to violence.

The incident was an outgrowth of the recent dynamiting in the Jugo-Slavian city of Trau of several stone lions placed there when Trau was under Venetian domination.

ROOSEVELT NOT TO INTERVENE IN CONGRESS MIXUP

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Apparently convinced that intervention by him into the congressional imbroglio at Washington would serve no useful purpose, President Elect Roosevelt continued today to avoid taking any sides.

Mr. Roosevelt refused even to see newspaper men and secluded himself for another day in his house on the Hudson at Krum Elbow. From some of his advisors came the word that the President elect was following a reasoning that to pull chestnuts out of this congressional fire was foolhardy.

This is especially logical, the advisors pointed out, in view of the fact that the new congress, coming into office when he does on March 4, will give him larger majorities in both houses, and he will be able to put through the legislation which he feels it is said, is already doomed to fail in the present congress.

Confers With McAdoo.

The President elect has been advised by several party leaders, including Senator Elect William Gibbs McAdoo of California, who arrived at Hyde Park late today for an overnight visit, that his hopes to avoid the necessity for calling a special session of the new congress immediately after his inauguration on March 4 are in vain.

He is stated to be convinced that he will be forced to call a special session, and that even if he should use his influence as the party leader at this time, he could not force enough of the Democratic program through to forestall the necessity for a special session.

Even if the bills could be voted presidential vetoes have been threatened, particularly on the beer bill, Mr. Roosevelt also feels that it would be tactless for him to assert powers at this time, when he is still a private citizen, holding no official standing.

In this line of reasoning Mr. Roosevelt is disinclined, it is said, to intervene even in the Long-Wheeler-Thomas radical filibuster aimed at stopping the Glass banking bill in the senate, although the three Democratic senators are all rated as Roosevelt supporters.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to stop in Washington overnight on Jan. 19-20, on his way to visit Muscle Shoals and Warm Springs, Ga., a program made before the congressional battle developed. His present indication, it was said, is to hold only "listening" conferences so far as his attitude is concerned.

Loss Put at $200,000; Inquiry Begun.

Fire yesterday wrecked the interiors of three four story brick buildings at 174-176-178 West Lake street, between La Salle and Wells streets, with a total damage of $200,000. Smoke blanketed the northwest part of the loop and a 5-11 alarm sent 35 trucks and the fire boats Graeme Stewart and Illinois to fight the flames.

Chief Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan said the fire showed evidence of having been fed with oil. He announced that an investigation would be started.

Traffic was blocked for an hour and a half as a tangle of hose lines was spread across the street car tracks and over the elevated track intersection at Lake and Wells streets. Elevated trains from the south, west and north were turned back and street cars were rerouted.

Starts in Vacant Building.

The fire started in the unoccupied building at 174 West Lake street, formerly the headquarters of the Robinson & Sons Furnace company, and spread to the offices of the Northwestern Stove Repair company at No. 176. Before the flames could be brought under control they destroyed the offices and supplies of the La France Textile company, manufacturers of tapestries and plush cloth, and the Wedeles Brothers and Havana and Sumatra company, dealers in leaf tobacco, at No. 178.

The upper three floors of the building at No. 176 were unoccupied. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to No. 168, the headquarters of the Peerless Office Furniture company. Immediately west of the buildings burned is the new 26 story Trustees System Discount company building. A small garage at the rear of this building caught fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished by firemen.

Oil Fire, Corrigan Says.

Fire Marshal Corrigan based his opinion that the fire was of incendiary origin on the speed with which the flames spread, and the heavy smoke, which he said indicated that oil had been spread. He declared that the fire in the vacant structure at No. 174 was accompanied by a series of explosions.

LAST OF U. S. MARINES FROM NICARAGUA HOME; GIVEN OVATION

Quantico, Va., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Tanned by a tropical sun, the last of the American marines came back today from Nicaragua, where they have fought insurgents off and on for years. The whole town—and then some—was out to greet them.

The navy transport Henderson's decks were lined with the homecomers all done up in new sheepskin heavies.

Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the marine corps, and Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, commanding the Quantico base, headed the welcoming delegation.

The Henderson's passengers included Lieut. Col. Calvin B. Matthews, who for nearly three years has been in command of the Nicaraguan National Guard.

The marines went to Nicaragua 20 years ago, and with the exception of a one year lapse have been there since. After being withdrawn once, they were sent back in 1926 after Sandino started on his rampage.

LADY BAILEY ILL, BUT SHE FLIES ON AFTER RECORD

ORAN, Algeria, Jan. 15.—(AP)—An attack of grippe made flying extremely uncomfortable today for Lady Mary Bailey, British aviatrix, but she announced the illness will not prevent her from continuing her flight from England to Cape Town.

Seeking to better the record of Amy Johnson for the distance, she left Croydon airport, England, at 1:40 a. m. today and arrived here, ill, at 3:30 p. m.

Undaunted, Lady Mary took off again at 9:50 p. m. southward in the direction of Colomb Bechar, just across the Atlas mountains. She was on her way to Colomb Bechar and had passed Senia airport near here when she turned back, feeling too ill to continue. Amy Johnson, the wife of Capt. J. A. Mollison, aviator, flew from London to Cape Town in four days six hours and 55 minutes.

KILLS ROOMER AND SELF AFTER ROW OVER DEBT

Paul Wapiennik, 40 years old, 3812 Hayes street, Gary, yesterday shot and killed a roomer in his home and then killed himself. Police found the bodies of Wapiennik and the roomer, John E. Ressel, 45 years old, when they went to Wapiennik's home to arrest him after he appeared at the home of Fred Arts, 60 years old, 3808 Grant street, Gary, and shot Arts in the left side.

Police believe Wapiennik shot Ressel in an argument over the roomer's plans to move to Corridon, Mo., without paying a bill owed Wapiennik. Arts was shot, police believe, because he helped Ressel pack.

U. S. BRINGS OUT A CATALOGUE AT COST OF $22,000

It's Just an Index of Public Documents.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—When bigger books are made your Uncle Sam will doubtless make them, and his nephews and nieces, the American taxpayers, will foot the bills. But the old gentlemen will have to go some to beat his latest record—"Catalogue of Public Documents"—just come from the government printing press.

For bibliographical bulk, this book wins the ribbon. It weighs seven and a quarter pounds.

It's not a book with which to curl up on the sofa. The springs of any ordinary couch would break under such a literary load. The best way to peruse it, and your reviewer has tried them all, is to place the tome on a table, preferably a big table of heavy oak; to stand up to the job, and to turn the pages.

There are 2,542 pages to turn.

It Cost $22,000 to Print.

Superintendent of Public Documents Alton P. Tisdel, father of the catalogue, points out in a prideful preface that this, the nineteenth number, is the biggest ever, excepting the volume issued during the war time congress. He further rejoices that the first number contained only 638 pages, while this one is four times longer.

This issue cost $22,000 for printing alone. The work of compiling, which took many months, was done by staff members of Mr. Tisdel's department and he says he would find it difficult to put down, in dollars and cents, the exact amount of his appropriation consumed by their labors. Since there were only about 2,000 copies of the catalogue printed, the cost per copy of the printing job alone is eleven dollars.

So much for statistics. But a review should be concerned with contents.

Well, the contents are as diversified as the government, for the catalogue, authorized by a congressional act of Jan. 12, 1895, lists the titles of the public documents of the Seventieth congress and "of all departments of the government of the United States from July 1, 1927 to June 30, 1929."

Ideal One Book Library.

It's the ideal one book library for that desert isle the parlor games talk about. Only it would sink the raft before it got to the isle. It tells you where to go in the government to find out something about everything.

On the first page we learn that a gentleman named Astrom has a "Report on Civil Aviation in Finland." On the last page we learn that we can get a pamphlet by a gentleman named Zorrilla on "Uruguay's Tribute to the Gaucho."

And all in between are tidbits like this: "Why Your Child Should Go to Kindergarten," "Nodular Lesions in Spleen of Swine," "Protection of Walruses and Sea Lions in Alaska," and a pretty pamphlet on "Feeding Garbage to Hogs."

The titles refer to documents already printed by the federal government and show a royal road to learning through the Uncle Sam's publications.

There's hundreds, thousands of other items that I'd like to tell you about, but the big book is slipping off the table.

There's the document called "Bermuda Grass Pastures Can Be——" What did I tell you—the catalogue's fallen on the floor. It's too heavy to pick up.

3 DIG WAY OUT OF JAIL.

Ozark, Mo., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Sheriff Frank Jones allowed three men he had arrested to spend last night in the "bull pen" pending their arraignment. This morning they were gone. They dug a hole through the wall of the hallway and fled downstairs. A sedan parked near the jail also is missing.

GIVES BLOOD TO ROUSE DAUGHTER ASLEEP 11 MONTHS

A blood transfusion was performed yesterday in an effort to rouse Miss Patricia McGuire, 27 years old, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, who has been in a stupor since last February 15 as the result of sleeping sickness. The blood was given by her stepfather, Peter Miley. The operation was performed in the Miley home by Dr. W. J. Potts.

Dr. Eugene Traut, the family physician, said last night that if the operation fails to produce satisfactory results there will be another transfusion of blood from a person who has recovered from the disease.

Dr. Traut added that such a person is known and has offered to give the blood, if necessary. Several days' observation will be needed to determine the effects of yesterday's transfusion, the doctors said.

SHOOTS ROOM MATE, ESCAPES.

John George, 45 years old, was shot in the back and seriously wounded in a rear room of the Rialto billiard hall, 826 South State street, yesterday. Nick Kontos, also known as Tom Collins, is being sought. Both men worked in the pool room and were allowed to sleep in the back room.

HUNGARY JAILS MAN WHO HEADED BRIEF REPUBLIC

Charges John Hock Libeled Nation Abroad.

BY EMIL MAASS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 15.—John Hock, president of parliament in the shortlived Hungarian republic of 1918-'19, and formerly pastor of the largest Roman Catholic church in Budapest, who returned to the capital from exile in Vienna two days ago, will be brought to trial Jan. 19. He will face a charge of libelling the Hungarian nation while abroad. He returned voluntarily, hoping to win amnesty.

Hock, who was arrested at the border and brought to the police station here, will not be permitted to stay at his brother's home pending the trial and today was formally arrested and placed in a prison cell. Hock faces four charges based on articles in various Hungarian newspapers in foreign countries in which he bitterly attacked the régime of regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

No Charges By Church.

Cardinal Justinian Szeredyi of Hungary stated there will be no charge of the Catholic church against the former priest. Popular opinion is demanding that Hock be pardoned on account of his age—he is 74 and no longer aspires to enter political life.

After the abdication of King Charles, in November, 1918, Hungary was proclaimed an independent republic, with Count Michael Karolyi as provisional president. The two houses of the legislature under the monarchy were abolished, and their places were taken by a provisional national council. The Karolyi régime continued until March 21, 1919, when it was replaced by Bela Kun's government, and Hungary was forced to undergo the darkest days of its history. Hock was among many who fled from the country, and during his exile toured the United States in 1922-'23.

Life of Paradoxes.

Hock's life is full of paradoxes. After graduating from the Papa reformed college he entered the Veszprem Catholic Theological seminary. During the first years of his priesthood he occupied himself with literature. But soon he ran for parliament in 1887 and was elected. In 1889 he became parish priest of Koebanya, Budapest's largest church. As the parish priest of this large community, and also as a very good "social mixer" Hock became a big man in the capital.

Hock's career in parliament was most strange. He started out on the extreme right and ended on the extreme left, the transformation occurring during a period of 30 years. To add further anomalies he was a Free Mason and a member of the Lipotvarosi casino, a society of rich Hungarian Jews. Such a variety of associations greatly helped his political career.

ITALIAN AIRMAN FLIES UPSIDE DOWN 41 MINUTES

ROME, Jan. 15.—(AP)—An Italian army aviator flew his plane upside down today for 41 minutes 37 seconds and claimed the feat set a world record. He is Capt. Raffaele Colacicchi. He used a single motored Breda biplane of the type in use by the Italian army.

His time was checked by a commission named by the Royal Aero club, who declared it was almost double that of the French acrobat, Michel Detroyat, set last Dec. 12.

Capt. Colacicchi was subsequently examined by a doctor, who found the flyer unaffected physically, except for a slight increase in the pulse rate. He flew over the Centocelle military field here.

SPANISH EXILES, IN RAGS, REACH BEDS IN LISBON

Prince Tells of 1,800 Mile Trip in Open Boat

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A story of escape from a Spanish penal settlement and a tortuous 1,800 mile sea journey in an open 50 ton boat was unfolded here today when a party of 29 Spanish monarchist exiles, who escaped Jan. 1 from Villa Cisneros, West Africa, arrived.

They landed last night at the small village of Cezimbra, from which place they proceeded to Lisbon, happy with the promise of comfortable beds.

It was difficult to believe the ragged group was composed of once brilliant officers and grandees of Spain, including Prince Alfonso de Bourbon, a cousin of ex-King Alfonso.

Avoid Steamship Lanes.

Although worn out by hardships and of 14 days in an open boat, during which time they covered 1,800 miles, avoiding the general steamship routes and possible pursuing Spanish warships, the exiles spent part of the night telephoning their families, informing them of their arrival and asking them to join them here.

Prince Alfonso said in an interview that "conditions at Villa Cisneros were terrible." The party, he said, escaped because of information they had received from friends concerning their approaching trial in Madrid. He said there was no doubt that some of them would be sentenced to death without an opportunity for legal defense.

The prince believed that the revolution of last August was not for the objective of the restoration of the monarchy, but was to save Spain and was against Premier Manuel Azana. He expressed his conviction that a monarchy would soon be restored to Spain.

Vessel's Owner a Secret.

Leaders of the party refused to discuss ownership of the vessel they traveled in. Col. Gabriel de Benito, former commander of the princess Hussars, did say "Our escape was a difficult task. We did not select those who were to go by lottery, but according to the bravery they showed when punished by the government. Having planned the escape for some time, we found the opportunity on an exercise trip along the desert shore where the boat was ready."

The colonel told of unfavorable winds, rain and seasickness, and shortages of food, water and clothing. "If the wind had been favorable we would have gone to America, but the coast of Portugal was better," he said. Now we are thinking about resting a while and then decide our future plans. We have comfortable beds for the first time in several months, the authorities promise safety and the Portuguese people are extraordinarily hospitable."

Arrest More Extremists.

MADRID, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Police arrested several known extremists in connection with a strike which was announced today. No outbreaks of violence were reported. Reports from Cordoba said police there were searching for unidentified persons who placed huge stones on the Madrid-Seville railway. This was the second attempt to derail a train at the same spot.

Distribute Bibles

A Gideon Bible will be placed in every hotel room in Chicago by the time the World's Fair opens. This prediction was made yesterday at dedicatory services preceding the presentation of 1,000 Bibles to the Stevens and La Salle hotels by officials of the Gideon association.

The presentation was made at the Hotel La Salle by Samuel A. Fulton of Milwaukee, international president of the Gideons. Ernest J. Stevens accepted the gift on behalf of the hotel. Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, said the dedicatory prayer. All told, 2,000 Bibles were distributed during the day, among the hotels receiving them being the Morrison, Lexington and Lawson Y. M. C. A.

The Gideon association was organized in 1899, and since that time has distributed 1,250,000 copies of the Bible to hotels over the world. The association has a membership of 30,000. The work is handled through local camps, and is supported by membership dues.

FRANCE TO SLASH ARMY AND RAISE TAXES OF RICH

National Defense Budget Cut $38,000,000.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Faced with the threat of revolutionary action by war veterans and the unionized state employés, Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour's government is understood tonight to have modified the original budget plans by placing an emphasis on a drastic slash in French army expenditures and an increase of the already staggering burden of taxation borne by the wealthier classes.

As a consequence of the budget bill which Henri Cheron, minister of finance, will file in parliament tomorrow, it is reported in nationalist circles that France's army automatically will be reduced from 20 to 14 divisions. Edouard Daladier, minister of war, is reported to have declared that this cut was made necessary by the government's desire to effect a $38,000,000 reduction in the national defense budget—$26,000,000 in materials and $12,000,000 in the pay roll.

Openly Defy Government.

The original bill called for about an even distribution of economies and new taxes with the veterans and state employés bearing a heavy part of the load in pension and salary reductions These bodies, however, refused to accept the sacrifice demanded and openly defied the state to enforce the cuts. For the last few days threats of a general strike, passive resistance, and even an armed revolt have been heard.

The strong Socialist party supported the state workers who constitute a formidable power in their own right and the government was forced to yield. The sacrifices demanded of the war veterans is now largely compensated by the government's offer to operate a lottery for their benefit and the proposed cuts in salaries of the pay rollers were reduced almost two-thirds with the formal assurance that it was an exceptional measure to be applied only for one year.

Various executive groups of the civil servants' unions met today and after adopting bloodcurdling resolutions against even the mild sacrifice asked by the government, finally closed without deciding on any measures of resistance. This is taken to mean that they will accept the government's proposals after further negotiations.

Vets May O. K. Lottery Plan.

The veterans have not yet declared they will accept the lottery, but it is believed they will fall in line.

Various taxpayers' associations and groups of merchants and manufacturers are threatening to go on strike themselves, but they are not considered sufficiently well organized to be dangerous. Discontent among the farmers, however, which was illustrated by the riot at Chartres yesterday, is causing the government some concern.

SECOND MURDER TRIAL OF CORRY BOY OPENS TODAY

Varner Corry, 18 years old, who shot and killed Policeman Edward Smith in the swimming pool of the John Marshall High school on Memorial day, 1931, will go on trial for murder for the second time today in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Corry was sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary after his first trial, heard by Judge Joseph Sabath without a jury. The case was reversed by the state Supreme court and remanded for trial. A plea to transfer the case to the Juvenile court was refused by Judge Lynch last Nov. 28.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty will ask for the death penalty. Defense Attorney James Burke will contend that the blame for the boy's crime rests with society for permitting children to view motion pictures and read sensational literature in which gangsters are glorified.

REVEAL BARNETT KEPT OUT OF JAIL BY COURT DELAYS

Courtney to Probe Fake Holdup Case.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced yesterday that as part of his campaign to stop convictions being set aside on writs of coram nobis, he is going to look into the case of Maurice A. Barnett who, although convicted two years ago, is still at liberty. Barnett's case has been affirmed by both the Appellate and Supreme courts, but Judge Harry A. Fisher, former chief justice of the Criminal court, held up the mandates of these courts by issuing a coram nobis writ.

Barnett was convicted as the ringleader of the conspiracy in which Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of a wealthy box manufacturer, allowed herself to be the victim of a fake robbery in order to swindle an insurance company. A jury found Barnett guilty after ten minutes' deliberation and gave him the maximum penalty of 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary. The same jury convicted Max Krakow, a jeweler who handled some of the jewels from the fake robbery, and gave him six months in the jail.

Woman Serves Sentence.

Mrs. Price was convicted at another trial before Judge Hugo Friend. She, too, was given a six months' sentence. Both Mrs. Price and Krakow served their sentences.

Barnett fought his case through the reviewing courts. The Appellate court affirmed the conviction and in December, 1931, the Supreme court took similar action. The state's attorney's office sought to send Barnett to the penitentiary after its three year fight to convict him, but Attorney John L. Fogle, a member of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, came in with a petition coram nobis, alleging that he had newly discovered evidence.

After four months a final hearing was had on the petition filed by Attorney Fogle and on June 9, 1932, Judge Fisher "deferred the case till further order of the court." Although more than seven months have passed no decision has been rendered by Judge Fisher and Barnett continues at liberty. The judge has given no indication recently as to when a decision can be expected. Last fall he promised to give a decision within a "few weeks" when asked about the case.

May Force Judge to Act.

Plans to mandamus Judge Fisher were made by the former prosecutor, John A. Swanson, but he was defeated for reelection. Prosecutor Courtney, however, said "he would look into that case."

"I intend to keep up my fight against such practices," said Prosecutor Courtney. "What is the use of getting convictions when they frame against you and set them aside?"

The record in the Barnett case occupies over two pages of the clerk's dockets. The case number is 54643 and the last indictment of record is 67725, which shows that 13,082 indictments have been returned in court since the one against Barnett was voted on Nov. 1, 1929. The record is as follows:

Entries During 1929.

Nov. 1—Indictment returned in open court.
Nov. 25—Motion to quash entered before Judge Kerner, and continued to Jan. 20, 1930.

Entries During 1930.

Jan. 20—Continued by agreement to Feb. 24.
Feb. 24—Motion to quash denied and change of venue filed and granted as to Mrs. Price. Case transferred to the chief justice for reassignment, and immediate trial as to defendants Barnett and Krakow. Case assigned to Judge Harry B. Miller.
Feb. 25—Case on trial as to Barnett and Krakow.
Feb. 28, 1930—Verdict of guilty as to Barnett and Krakow and motion for a new trial entered and continued to March 8, 1930.
March 8—Motion for a new trial continued to March 15.
March 15—Motion for a new trial overruled and defendants sentenced in accordance with the verdict of the jury. Sixty days allowed to file bill of appeal and 30 days allowed staying the mittimus.
April 1—Stay of mittimus extended to April 30.
April 23—Bill of appeal signed and sealed.
May 8, 1930—Appellate court bond filed as to Barnett.

Entries During 1931.

Feb. 5—Appellate court supersedeas filed as to Barnett and case affirmed.
July 14, 1931—Supreme court supersedeas filed.

Entries During 1932.

Jan. 9, 1932—Appellate and Supreme court affirmances filed in the Criminal court.
March 23—Petition for writ of coram nobis filed before Judge Fisher.
March 28—State's Attorney Swanson asks that petition be assigned to Judge Harry Miller, the trial judge. Motion of state's attorney denied and state given to April 15 to answer petition.
April 15—Hearing on petition continued to May 2.
April 27—State moves to quash petition. Motion denied.
May 2—Hearing on petition continued to May 10.
May 10—Order of court the Supreme court common law record impounded and hearing continued to May 20.
May 20—Hearing continued to May 26.
May 26—Petition in support of motion filed and hearing continued to June 6.
June 9—Hearing and argument on petition deferred until further order of court.

The former state's attorney's staff charged that Judge Fisher has no jurisdiction in the Barnett case under Supreme court decisions, inasmuch as he is no longer a member of the Criminal court. It was also contended that the petition should have been referred to the trial judge under an Appellate court decision. Judge Fisher, however, at that time said the reviewing court "was dead wrong and I will not follow its decision."

Paid $50 to Change Story.

During the hearings on the petition Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller questioned the propriety of Attorney Fogle, the Bar association representative, appearing in the case. The petition filed by Fogle charged that Joseph Baum, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, had changed his story. During the hearing Baum said he changed the story for the defense for $50 paid by Barnett's son.

"I cannot remain calm after seven years in the state's attorney's office when a representative of the Bar association is lending his dignity to this petition," said Prosecutor Mueller during the hearing. "It practically charges me with subornation of perjury. The charge is rot."

TRAGEDY VICTIM

OSCAR MAHL.

At 4 a. m. on Friday, Jan. 6, Oscar Mahl, 32 years old, 1412 South Komensky avenue, walked in his sleep and fell from a window to the sidewalk two and a half stories below. Oscar died in the Frances Willard hospital last Saturday, the fifth tragedy in the same family since the day of his fall, it became known yesterday.

On the afternoon of Jan. 6, several hours after Oscar was injured, his uncle, Sam Sternberg, 74 years old, 3505 Pine Grove avenue, died of pneumonia. The following Monday, Jan. 9, Oscar's cousin and Sternberg's niece, Mrs. Emma Lebow, also of 3505 Pine Grove avenue, also died of pneumonia. Her sister's 2 year old son, Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eisenberg, North and Irving avenues, died the following day of scarlet fever, complicated by anemia.

Two blood transfusions had been made in an effort to save the baby. First his father gave his blood, and then his uncle, James Eisenberg, of the same address. James contracted blood poisoning and died last Thursday. That was two days before Oscar Mahl died in the hospital.

Iowan Is Killed by Fall from a New York Hotel

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Albert V. Hennessy, 47 years old, of Council Bluffs, Ia., was killed tonight when he fell or jumped from a window of his room on the sixteenth floor of the Hotel New Yorker.

CONVICT WHO SET FIRE FATAL TO 322 HANGS SELF

Columbus, O., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Clinton Grate, 33, one of three convicts who confessed they started the Ohio penitentiary fire in which 322 fellow prisoners died April 21, 1930, hanged himself today in his cell. He was the second of the three to end his own life.

Grate, who split kindling used to set off the fatal blaze, was found dead by a guard making his morning rounds of the correction cell block. In May, 1931, when Grate was arraigned in connection with the fire, he pleaded that he be allowed to die in the electric chair.

CUBA FINDS ITS CONSTITUTION IS IN YANKS' HANDS

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Frank L. Steinhart, former United States consul general and chief of military archives during the first American occupancy, has the missing original of Cuba's 1901 constitution.

Mr. Steinhart said today the 28 constitution makers delivered the document to the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, then provisional military governor, who turned it over to him for safekeeping.

The former consul general, now head of a railway company, offered to turn the document over to President Machado. A newspaper two days ago raised the question as to the whereabouts of the constitution.

CONGRESS AND PROHIBITION.

The action or rather inaction of the lame duck congress respecting relief from the prohibition régime is a deplorable exhibition. Neither in the house nor the senate has any consideration been given the removal of the most flagrant evils of the fanatic régime. There is a bill for beer with which the senate is now puttering. But the pet laws of the prohibition bosses have not been touched. The Volstead act, with its intolerable invasions and evasions of civil right, its confiscation of property, its denial of trial by jury for dry-made crimes, its inquisition, its army of bureaucrats, snoopers and armed bullies, remains in substantial effect. The Jones five and ten law, the most outrageous law ever imposed upon a civilized people, the prize exhibit of prohibition bigotry and tyranny, remains in full force and effect.

Meanwhile a repeal amendment has been concocted which reasserts the basic fallacy and wrong of the 18th amendment, denies to the states the right of fixing their own regulations of intoxicants, authorizes the interference of congress in state police, and thus insures the perpetuation of the most mischievous consequences of federal prohibition. With the failure of congress to obey the demand of an overwhelming majority of the nation for relief from Volsteadism and the substitution of a fraudulent repeal for a real repeal, the present congress leaves all the major evils of prohibition intact, its waste of public money, its outrageous penalties, its threats to life and property rights, its demoralization of law and politics.

We recognize that this represents the expiring malevolence and folly of the Anti-Saloon league and its allies. But what a revelation of the morale of this congress, of its irresponsibility, pusillanimity, and lack of statesmanship! What a revelation of the consequences of organized fanaticism in the affairs of a free people!

ON TO WASHINGTON!

Ruthless nature has busted into sunny California without any regard for its celebrated reputation, and the damage, we read in the dispatches, will run into millions. Not only that, but sand of the Imperial valley invaded Los Angeles, so that visibility was reduced to an extent dangerous to motorists, and drifted like snow before the wind.

We suggest an immediate application for relief funds be made to the R. F. C. Stricken orchardists, tourist camp proprietors, housewives with damaged curtains, should be reimbursed. But that is merely temporary. Nature may, in fact will, break out again. She should be stopped. The nation is paying for water for the City of the Angels, why not for sand? The Imperial valley ought to be nailed down. A loan, self-liquidating, of course, should be arranged for that.

RESTORE THE PEOPLE'S PROTECTION.

The following is substantially a statute of the reign of Queen Anne, adopted by the Illinois legislature in 1874, a law providing among other things:

"That in case any person shall usurp, intrude into or unlawfully hold or execute any office or franchise . . . or any public officer shall have done, or suffered any act which by the provisions of law, works a forfeiture of his office . . . the attorney general or state's attorney of the proper county, either of his own accord or at the instance of any individual relator, may present a petition to any court of record of competent jurisdiction or any judge thereof in vacation, for leave to file an information in the nature of a quo warranto in the name of the people of the state of Illinois. . . . If such court or judge shall be satisfied that there is probable ground for the proceeding the court or judge may grant petition and order the information to be filed and process to issue."

Section 6 provides that if adjudged guilty the court may give judgment of ouster against such person or may fine the person found guilty in any sum not exceeding $25,000 for each.

After the judgment of the Supreme court requiring Len Small to return the interest withheld from the state during his term as state treasurer Small, then governor, procured the following amendment to the above statute as follows:

"However, no writ shall issue nor judgment of ouster be entered to oust any person from any of the following offices, created by the constitution: Members of the general assembly, judges [where the office is created by article 6 of the constitution], governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction, and attorney general."

The object of this extraordinary amendment was to remove the danger of ouster from Len Small. The other offices were included to cover this intention, but the device deceived no one. The result of this amendment was to deprive the people of a summary means of getting rid of an unfaithful official. We doubt if any such provision is to be found anywhere else in the United States. The quo warranto proceeding has remained in the law of England at least since the reign of Anne and in the law of Illinois since 1874. The amendment was a scandalous abuse of Small's influence and Gov. Horner has done well to recommend its repeal by the present legislature. We are still suffering from many results of Small's régime, but this is one we can get rid of at once. The legislature should not fail to repeal the amendment at this session.

CHARITY COAL.

An audit of the books of one of the companies which had contracted to supply coal to the poor disclosed that the substitution of an inferior grade of fuel had defrauded the relief funds of more than $6,000. The audit has been turned over to the state's attorney, who has intimated that he will wait until the books of other contractors are checked up before taking action.

It is difficult to see why action by the prosecutor need be delayed. The guilt or innocence of half a dozen other contractors can have no bearing upon the charges concerning F. Bieschke & Sons. If only one contractor cheated he should be prosecuted, and if all contractors cheated all should be prosecuted. The fact that substitution of grades may be shown to have been commonly practiced does not alter the fact that substitution is grossly dishonest and in violation of law.

The grade which was specified for distribution to the poor may have been better or worse than good judgment would have dictated. The discussion of the question before the county board suggests that a cheaper fuel might have served as well as the more expensive coal which was specified. But it was hardly the right or the duty of the coal merchants to authorize the substitution of cheap for expensive fuel and pocket the difference. That is what it is charged some of the coal merchants did and, if the facts bear out the charge, those coal merchants ought to be promptly punished.

WHEN GANGDOM WON.

The decision of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals sustaining Judge Wilkerson's order for the deportation of Mops Volpe, Capone gangster, is another blow at gang rule and also a reminder of the great service Judge Wilkerson has performed by his courageous and vigorous administration of the law, so long defied by organized crime. It has written a memorable chapter in the history of law and good government in this country. Senators who refused consent to the deserved promotion of Judge Wilkerson will have to answer the charge of Capone influence. This refusal of the senate was one of the chief victories of the underworld over the forces of law and decency. Senators who contributed to it cannot shirk their responsibility for it.

RUTHLESS POLITICS.

The Philippine measure, vetoed by the President and repassed Friday by the house, represents legislation on the lowest and most irresponsible plane. No one would begrudge the special interests which are responsible for the bill reasonable protection. But this can and should be provided with due regard to the general interests of the nation, which the bill flagrantly ignores and sacrifices.

Putting aside any consideration of the welfare of the Philippine peoples, or of any responsibilities we have acquired or assumed toward them; putting aside any responsibility we may have for the effects of our action upon conditions in the far east apart from our own interests, the measure is to be condemned from solely the standpoint of the peace of the United States. It perpetuates during a critical period of world affairs all our responsibilities as to the islands while reducing our ability to fulfill them. It retains the islands as an exposed flank and deprives us of the ability to defend it.

It is no excuse for such action that it is the culmination of an unwise policy. If congress had the understanding of conditions in the islands or of international conditions in the far east, which it is its duty to understand, no such situation would be tolerated. The measure is an expression of callous indifference to the nation's welfare or of culpable ignorance.

Editorial of the Day

[The Baltimore Sun.]

Joseph Stalin's long awaited speech before the communist party resembled the speeches of many public men in the capitalist countries of the world in its emphasis on generalities and its lack of precise discussion of the urgent problems with which the country of the speaker is confronted. Stalin had a great deal to say about the rate of progress under the first five year plan, which officially came to an end on Dec. 31. He had a great deal to say about the rate of accomplishment that would be expected under the second five year plan.

But he does not, to judge by the dispatches describing his speech, appear to have delved very deeply into the fundamental problem of raising the immediate standard of Russian living to which the soviet authorities are about to address themselves. Yet the embarkation on this enterprise would appear to represent a major shift of soviet policy. Up to the present time the communist experiment has been directed chiefly to the expansion of the heavy industrial establishment of Russia. The energies and resources of the new movement have been devoted to the building of hydro-electric plants, the construction of automobile and tractor plants, and the Russian people have been asked to make heavy personal sacrifices to permit the execution of this larger program.

Now the emphasis is to be somewhat shifted and an attempt made to provide a greater measure of food and of consumers' goods in general. The shift in emphasis represents in the last analysis an attempt to realize some of the popular benefits of the Russian revolution—benefits the lack of which has engendered a great deal of restiveness and dissatisfaction among the Russian people. It is needless to say that the success of the soviets in this new experiment will exercise a very potent influence upon the future course of the communist program in its entirety. But, while Stalin indulges in a great deal of emphatic talk about perseverance in that program in general, he was careful to avoid a discussion of the immediate factors at issue. For light upon those matters the outside world and the Russian people themselves must await the events of the next two years.

COSMIC RAYS, according to Prof. Auguste Piccard, the w. k. stratosphere explorer, will soon furnish the world at little or no cost all the power and heat it needs "and what coal remains in the earth's veins will be valueless." Great! Splendid! Hooray for the cosmic rays! But wait a minute. That will throw all the coal miners out of jobs, won't it? Not so good. There's enough been put out of jobs by oil burners. That's the trouble with these scientists. They can create all sorts of new things except new jobs.

IF WINTER COMES.

If Winter comes, and winds blow wild and chill,
If queenly roses perish with the cold,
Be well assured that from the ashen mold
Shall bourgeon lovely gardens that shall fill
The earth with beauty. For the wood and hill,
By North Wind shorn, bright robes of living green
Shall soon be wrought, unheard, unseen,
By Him who turns destruction to His will.
If Winter comes—and it, alas! has come—
Men's hearts will ache, by lonely brooding pent;
In that bleak hour shall every choir be dumb
That filled our hearts of late with sweet content:
Yet Life still reigns, and soon the year will bring Maytime and joy, with all things blossoming.

A MAN out in Loz Onglaize has sued a druggist over a dispute involving three cents. The days when our plungers and money tossers lit their cigars with one hundred dollar bills and threw out a handful of twenties as tips to the bellboys when they checked out at the hotel seem to be gone forever. We no longer haggle over a dollar, these days we'll bring a lawsuit over three cents. Gosh ding it, we've got to.

THA DUKE HAS TROUBLE WITH THA OLD JALLOPY.

Dick: Well demmit now I got me some real trouble. The ole jallopy gives one last grunt this morning and all tha coaxing, petting and teasing dont get me anything but grease on my shirt. As all the other neighbors are leaving fer work it seemed to me all they did was to turn tha ignition key and say "Let's go Buddy" and then went. What gets my nanny is tha advice they give ya. One guy asks did I prime her, that yoosta do tha work when she was in her prime but she aint yielded to that treatment fer years. Another goof says get her on top of a hill, put her in speed and let 'er go. In tha 1st place tha nearest hills to our house in tha Black hills out in Dakota and in tha 2nd place how tha hell cood I push her up. Tha dirty louse that lives next door comes over and asks me if I wanna hear a funny story and when I tells him no he says, "She's like our dear past president, she does not choose to run." If I'da had a chew in my mouth at tha time I'da sent him on his way looking like Chief Mud-in-the-Face. Along comes tha janitor. Ah! here's "Old Bohunk" (in person). I made up my mind if he opens his trap I'll flatten him in his tracks. Yesterday I asked him to tighten tha screws on a hinge and he tells me its out of his line. Now get this, he opens up tha hood and pipes up with "Why you no choke him?" and I tells him that if anybody is gonna get choked its gonna be him if he dont get tha hell away from me. Tha next smart cookie who claims he's really a funny fellow drives past me and hollers "Duke if ya want some real advice always get a lawyer." That dirty so and so cood only hand me a laff the day he drops dead. Finally my good friend Joe comes along, we monkey with a couple of gadjets and she gives a little snort, but alas it was her final. As bad as I felt we both sat on tha running board and when Joe asks where is my crank I tells him she's up in tha house gettin tha kids breakfast. Ya know a little humor now and then don't hurt a guy when he's feelin blue. Just then tha B. and C. hollers over tha back porch and wants to know if tha jallop is froze up as it was damn cold last night and me and Joe takes another look under tha hood, whadda ya suppose we find? A crack across tha whole motor block big enough to hide a plug hat. I told Joe somebody must of drained tha alky and he suggests going around and smellin all the neighbors' breaths. Tha skunk that wood milk a car fer a cupple of drinks is a low High-Jacker in my estimation. When I gets upstairs and breaks tha sad news to tha Mama she says Goodie! Goodie! now we can get a swell new car and 2 minutes later shes spending 10 nickels on tha telephone asking all tha girl friends if they had heard that we were getting a beautiful new sedan. Seemed funny to me she didn' tell me tha color, tha make, and tha kind of upholstery it had. "Tha depression is over." DUKE BAKRAK.

THE SENATE COMMITTEE is having a terrific struggle over the momentous question as to whether legal beer should be 3.2 per cent or 3.05 per cent, and all the senate and the house are expected soon to join in a mighty combat. Meanwhile the bureaucrats wax exceedingly fat, the taxes pile up, and the squandering of government money this way and that goes merrily on. Next to running a high fever over 3.2 per cent beer versus 3.05 per cent beer, we imagine the most interesting thing to do would be to daub one's fingers with molasses and pull feathers from one hand to the other.

Sir: May heaven forgive you, R. H. BECAUSE BEER that isn't somewhere around eight per cent alcohol is just an aggravation, anyhow, maybe that's the only kind that won't be vetoed. SIMPLE BABY FEEDING.

THE modern trend in artificial feeding is away from the use of fresh liquid milk. Milk powders, evaporated milk, condensed milk, and baby foods are increasing in use. A considerable part of this is the result of the general use of fruit juice, including tomato juice, fish liver oils and viosterol, vegetable soups, pureed vegetables, cereals, and crackers.

The old arguments against canned milks and baby foods no longer carry much weight now that diets are balanced by the use of supplementary foods.

In many British communities the health authorities distribute free milk for baby feeding and choice is given between liquid milk and the canned article and milk powder. About half the number do not elect to take fresh liquid milk. The British liquid supply is not up to American standards. They are adopting American milk production methods, but they are about ten to fifteen years behind our schedule.

The reasons for the preference shown by many in this country for canned milk, milk powders, and baby foods are several. One is the matter of cost. The machinery for marketing liquid milk is burdensome and unduly expensive. One institution, Dr. Reiss reported, was able to cut its milk bill one-third by using evaporated milk instead of the liquid article. In this institution two formulas were used. No. 1 consisted of 14 ounces of evaporated milk, 18 ounces of water, 2 ounces of corn sugar, and 5 teaspoons of lemon juice. No. 2 consisted of 14 ounces of evaporated milk, 20 ounces of water, 1½ ounces of corn sugar, and 5 teaspoons of lemon juice.

Since No. 1 was the more concentrated food it was used for undernourished children and those that vomited or seemed to have indigestion. Some babies do not thrive on liquid milk because it contains too much water, is not concentrated enough, is too bulky. Some of these babies do best when fed on a paste made with milk powder, or powder and cereal; some thrive when fed on milk powder or evaporated milk, not milk diluted. It is in the feeding of babies of this class that No. 1 is used in this institution.

All other babies fed on cow's milk in this hospital were given a preparation made according to formula No. 2. No other food was given to the young babies in this hospital except cod liver oil. The babies thrived, they had no scurvy, and they were free from rickets.

IT IS DANGEROUS.

J. P. O. M. writes:

1. Is tuberculosis a dangerous disease?
2. Can a person catch it through kissing?
3. How soon does syphilis show up in the blood?

REPLY.

1. It is.
2. Yes.
3. In about two or three weeks after the first symptom. In a few more weeks it disappears from the blood.

ANOTHER EXCUSE GONE.

Mrs. E. S. writes:

1. Some time ago I was told that smoking cigarets would keep the weight down. Is this true?
2. Would the following diet help me to lose weight? Breakfast, one cup of coffee, no sugar; lunch, three pieces of toast, little butter; dinner, regular meal, but not too much.

I smoke a pack of cigarets a day. I am 5 feet 3 inches and weigh 127 pounds. I would like to go down to 118 pounds.

REPLY.

1. No. Didn't you ever see a fat man smoking?
2. The answer depends altogether on the dinner. A gorge at dinner would more than offset the smallness of the two earlier meals.

RAW VEGETABLES.

Mrs. R. writes: Will you please give me your opinion of raw foods for children? I refer to radishes, carrots, cabbage, and occasionally a potato and turnip. Of course, these are eaten along with cooked foods.

REPLY.

Children need to eat the vegetables you mention. All are eaten raw with enjoyment except white potatoes. Fresh raw vegetables contain more minerals and vitamins than do the cooked articles. If thoroughly washed they are safe.

WAGE CLAIMS.

Cazenovia, Wis., Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Are wage claims classed as preferred claims in a receivership under the laws of Wisconsin? 2. What are the rights of a trustee in passing on such claims? 3. In this particular case the trustee is interested in seeing some other claims paid. The bank in which this trustee had placed the funds in question failed and then reorganized. I mean the funds taken in by the trustee that were to be paid on claims. Some of these were notes [money that had been loaned], others were unpaid bills. 4. How long is a receivership case held open? 5. What is done to protect a rightful claim of wages? N. W. B.

1. Under the federal bankruptcy law wages to the extent of the $300 earned within three months are preferred. The threat of throwing the proceedings into bankruptcy will force recognition of the preference, even if no preference is granted by state statute.

TAXING POWERS.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1, Would it be legal for the city to levy a tax on stores selling a specific article? 2. Would it be legal for the city to levy a tax on all stores selling malt? 3. Could the city tax stores selling hops? S. B. S.

1. Yes, in the sense that the city is authorized to charge license fees against certain businesses.
2. Under present law we regard the sale of materials for intoxicating liquors as illegal.

BROKEN RAILS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—We have a broken rail in front of our home which results in a terrific noise every time a street car passes over it. We have tried to have this remedied without result. I would be grateful if you could do anything to have this repaired as soon as possible. M. B.

The Surface Lines have made the necessary repairs and street cars passing over this point in the future will not cause any further annoyance.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 16, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Under sensational circumstances the lid was torn off the caldron of gossip, accusation, and insinuation concerning alleged stock gambling profits reaped by administration officials and their friends from advance knowledge of President Wilson's peace move. Thomas W. Lawson, threatened with a jail sentence for contempt of the house of representatives, was forced by the rules committee of that body to tell all he says he knows concerning the alleged leak and its beneficiaries. Mr. Lawson named sixteen persons, many of them high in official life, some of whom he said he had been informed were participants in stock gambling transactions connected with the leak and some of whom he said were his informants. Among those mentioned by Lawson were W. G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, and son-in-law of the President; Secretary of State Lansing; the German ambassador, Joseph P. Tumulty, private secretary to the President, and Paul M. Warburg, vice governor of the federal reserve board. Lawson said his informants included Chairman Robert L. Henry of the house rules committee; Archibald S. White, a New York banker, and Mrs. Ruth Thompson Visconti, a Washington woman. Mr. Lawson said that Mrs. Visconti, a clerk in a local lawyer's office, had told him that Mr. Tumulty and William D. Price, White House correspondent of the Washington Star, had worked together on the "leak" and that Mr. Price's share of the money was $5,000 and Mr. Tumulty's much more. Mr. Lawson electrified the crowd in the committee room by naming Mr. Henry, the "congressman" who mentioned to him the names of "a banker, a United States senator, and a member of the cabinet," who were stock speculating beneficiaries of the leak. The banker was H. Pliny Fisk of New York; the senator was known as Senator "O.," and the cabinet minister was William G. McAdoo.

WAR SUMMARY.—The Austrian passenger ship Zagreb was sunk in the Adriatic on Jan. 14, with a loss of twenty-six lives. Lloyd's reports the steamer Minnesota lost in a collision at sea. Germanic troops continue to advance toward Galatz in Rumania, which is being bombarded. The Germans repulsed heavy attacks north of Suchitza City. Trench raiding and artillery duels are in progress along the western front.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—George Dewey, admiral of the United States navy, and hero of Manila bay, is on his deathbed. A general breakdown accompanied by arterio-sclerosis has shattered the veteran's strength in his eightieth year, and he lies at his home here semi-conscious. Doctors say he may live thirty-six hours.

CHICAGO.—Society was interested in the news that Joy Morton is to marry Miss Margaret Gray, a nurse, this morning. The wedding is to take place at the home of Joseph Cudahy, whose wife is Mr. Morton's only daughter. Miss Gray was nurse and companion to the late Mrs. Morton for seventeen years. Since three years before Mrs. Morton's death Miss Gray has been housekeeper at the Downers Grove home.

CHICAGO.—Emergency measures to avert the coal crisis confronting Chicago were taken by fuel dealers and railroads. Both groups joined forces to bring relief before the city's forty-eight hour supply of coal is exhausted. Dealers put the blame for the situation on the railroads, while the latter maintained that the responsibility rests with the methods of shipping fuel which are employed by the coal merchants. The first pinch of the stringency was felt by the schools. The Carl Schurz High school closed its doors for the day because of lack of fuel. Other schools are faced with the same situation unless coal is delivered today.

A LETTER FROM MRS. ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been rather severely censured for not resigning her position as a school teacher. It is claimed that she does not have to work for a salary and that she is depriving some worthy citizen of a livelihood. Of course, I do not believe that the future first lady of the land would deprive any one of a living, but, not knowing the facts of the case, I could not very well contradict these wild and unfounded statements. I therefore wrote to Mrs. Roosevelt for her side of the case. Her prompt and clarifying reply speaks for itself, and I am sure it will be of much interest to your readers. P. J. BROWNE.

The inclosure follows:

Executive Mansion,
Albany, New York.
Dec. 20, 1932.

Dear Mr. Browne:

I have your letter, and while I appreciate you have a perfect right to criticize, I should like to lay certain facts before you.

I am part owner of the school where I teach, and we employ some sixteen teachers. If I did not happen to be part owner and had not taken the two courses which I do take myself the school would probably not have grown as rapidly as it has during the past five years. When Miss Dickerman and I took it over we employed only eight teachers and had, of course, fewer children. The fact that I keep my interest and do active work probably keeps a good many more teachers at work, whereas, if I were to give up my interest and my work, only one person could hold my job, and she would get a low salary, as I only teach part time—certainly not sufficient to keep a family, or even one person, going.

My hope is that before long we may be able to restore conditions so that everybody who wishes to work may be able to work.

Very sincerely yours,
ELEANOR ROOSEVELT.

[Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.]

P. S.—I do not intend to teach or take a salary during the next four years, but I must maintain my interest in the school. E. R.

A BROTHER'S ALIMONY.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Your article concerning alimony was appreciated by me and the family to which I belong. My brother has alimony payments to meet to a first wife from a second wife's meager $12 a week salary, as he has no other source of income nor any money saved, as that went long ago.

I also have to donate to this woman to keep my brother out of jail from my salary, which is barely enough to support myself and my family, but I would rather do this than see my brother in jail. She has many relatives in a position to and willing to take care of her. She had work all her life up until their marriage and is able to work now if she could find employment. My brother would gladly meet the payments if he had employment. If they were together he couldn't support her. R. W.

CHEAPENING THE DOLLAR.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—In your editorial in today's TRIBUNE regarding the value of the dollar you seem to be in some doubt as to whether or not there may be some benefit to be obtained from a devaluation of the dollar. Why don't you call attention to the great effect the skyrocketing of prices of necessities would have on the average small wage earner and small business man? If his present earnings will hardly cover expenses, how is he going to meet them when prices advance to points two or three times higher than at present?

And then what? Will the man with the small income have his earnings increased to make up for the advance in prices due to the devaluation of the dollar? What must happen in such cases will be that masses of unemployed with their competition will stand in the way of any increase so that the average person today will be worse off with prices inflated than otherwise.

Gold hoarding may mean little to the small wage earner since he has little gold to hoard. But high prices and continued small earnings will certainly mean a great deal to him. P. K.

WHERE GREAT ART IS APPRECIATED.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Your correspondent, J. L. Kacirek, bemoans the fact [and there is no doubt about it] that New York is the center of social and business life in this country. Well, why not? New York will always be the mecca of this nation because they are not penny wise and pound foolish. They are willing to hire the best talent of the world and pay for it. Does Mr. Kacirek remember the eminent organist, Jesse Crawford, who played here a few years ago? Why did he leave? To see the lights of Broadway? Don't be silly. He was offered more money for his genius. Did Paul Ash leave Chicago just for fun? No, he got more shekels in old New York.

People of New York know how to live, get the most out of life. See how they dress in the evening. Tuxedo? Heavens, no! That is just another business suit. They wear full dress. We wear anything. So all the artists, whether they be musicians or painters, etc., flee from this place. Just recently a painter of unusual ability, who had tried [poor man] to awaken the instincts of art appreciation in Chicagoans, gave it up. Where did he go? New York. We are too cheap to have a subway in this town; not so New York. GORDON S. COWLES.

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—What is the necessity of having fifty-six building inspectors on our city pay roll when our weekly permits have been around $4,000? Two men could cover the city well and more than half of the men working in the building department could be done away with.

They are equipped to take care of several million dollars' worth of building permits a week, and it will be many a moon before that time will come. In the meantime, do we have to keep these men on the pay roll? EVERETT OLSON.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

2 DIE, 1 INJURED IN PLANE CRASH ON FROZEN FIELD

Watertown Theater Owner and Dentist Victims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Beaver Dam, Wis., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Two Watertown men were killed and a third seriously injured at 3 p. m. today when an airplane, owned and piloted by B. D. Dragginis, 36, proprietor of a theater, cracked up while attempting a landing on a frozen farm field adjacent to Beaver Dam lake. Dragginis was killed instantly.

Dr. Herbert Radkte, 38, a dentist at Watertown, died at Luthern Deaconess hospital here three hours later. He suffered a fractured skull, a broken leg, and internal injuries.

W. H. Henderson, 38, is at the hospital, and surgeons say he has a chance for recovery. He suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, numerous bruises, and fracture of several ribs.

License as Pilot 6 Months.

The three men started from Watertown for an air ride this afternoon in the five passenger Stimson plane, which Dragginis had owned since last September. Dragginis has had a pilot's license for six months.

The coroner and police here believe Dragginis had planned to land on the ice on Beaver Dam lake. But today's thaw had melted much of the ice, and what remained was covered with several inches of water.

Witnesses of the crash said they saw the plane dip toward the lake as if to make a landing. When less than 100 feet above the surface, the plane was headed upward again, as if the pilot had discovered the condition of the lake ice and had changed his mind about landing there, the witnesses said. The plane started to rise, and headed for the farmer's field, the police were told. When over the field, it suddenly went into a nose dive and crashed to the ground.

Dragginis was the owner and operator of the Classic theater in Watertown. Surviving him are a widow and three sons, aged 9 years, 3 years, and six months.

Dr. Radtke is married and the father of a 2 year old girl.

Dragginis' plane was powered with a Wright Whirlwind engine.

TWO KILLED IN EAST.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Albert C. Kondat, veteran transport pilot and his mechanic George Weide were killed today when an eighteen passenger Curtiss Condor transport they were testing crashed at the Metropolitan airport and burst into flames.

The plane, one of the regular air liners of the Eastern Air Transport system returned last night from Richmond, Va., was placed in the repair hangar and during the night a new motor was installed on the right wing. The plane is twin engined—both Curtiss Conquerors.

Taken Up For Test.

Today Kondat and Weidel took the big machine up for a test hop. The plane climbed and appeared to handle perfectly, witnesses said, and after 22 minutes of flying Kondat started his glide from the northeast to come in for a landing.

Within 150 feet of the ground the machine slipped suddenly into a sharp left bank. The tips of the ninety foot biplane wings struck, with terrific force. The big machine then cartwheeled striking on its nose where the pilots sit far out ahead of the wings and cabin, and swung over onto its right wing.

The left engine, weighing more than 1,000 pounds ripped loose from its nacelle and crashed through the 'pilot' compartment, already crushed. Even the tail assembly sixty feet back of the cockpit was torn apart as the big transport spun around before coming to rest.

Fire Envelops Wreckage.

Field employes rushed out with emergency fire apparatus and several companies responded from Port Newark, but the fire, which started a second after the impact, was beyond control and the plane was destroyed. Witnesses said both men must have been killed before the fire reached the cockpit.

Kondat was married and lived at Elizabeth. He was 37 years old.

Less than a year ago Kondat took rank with the coolest airmen of his day by landing a burning plane with ten passengers near Aberdeen, Md., without the loss of a life or serious injury to one of his charges.

Toll of Blast in Home in Kentucky Reaches 4

Morehead, Ky., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The toll of an explosion last night in a country home eight miles from here reached four today with the death in a Lexington hospital of Jesse Debords, 16, and his sister, Lizzie, 23.

Luther Hamilton, 25, and his 18-months-old daughter, Anna Lee, were killed instantly when a small keg of powder, used to blast for coal, exploded and destroyed the home of Sylvester Debords. The elder Debords, who was in another room at the time, was not injured.

The explosion occurred when Jesse Debords removed the top from the keg and placed it near an open fire.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Otto Stroner, 41 years old, was disarmed and captured by police yesterday afternoon after he had shot and seriously wounded his estranged wife, Ithe, 35 years old, in his apartment at 1419 Addison street. Letters written by Stroner revealed that he had planned to kill his wife and then shoot himself. One of the notes accused his wife of unfaithfulness.

A dozen policemen answered the call of neighbors who heard two shots fired in the Stroner apartment. Stroner had locked the door of the apartment and barricaded himself.

"I'll kill the first man to enter this room," he shouted to the policemen. Despite the warning, Policeman Joseph Schoenfeld and Thomas Gaynor broke into the room and overpowered Stroner.

Mrs. Stroner, who was wounded in the left shoulder and right thigh, was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital, where she was said to be in a serious condition from loss of blood.

TRAFFIC HALTED 49,373 TIMES BY BRIDGES IN 1932

Chicago street traffic and pedestrians were stalled approximately 3,126 hours, the equivalent of 130 days, during 1932 while the city's 54 bridges across the Chicago and Calumet rivers swung open for the passage of river craft, such as tugs, yachts, derricks, sandboats, and pile drivers.

The halts for raised spans, however, were not so numerous as in 1931, according to the annual report of Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works. In that year the bridges opened 67,572 times, while during last year they were raised only 49,373 times, a reduction of 27 per cent.

The following table shows the number of times the sixteen loop bridges were opened during 1932 in comparison with the openings during 1931 and 1930, and also shows the average number of minutes that land traffic was delayed during 1932 for each time a span was raised:

Wabash	28	1,407	989	4.6

The cost of operating the bridges during 1931 was $948,506, and $794,232 for last year, a 16 per cent decrease.

SCOTLAND YARD ARRESTS MAN FOR TORCH MURDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—After a 12 days' hunt detectives from Scotland Yard today arrested Samuel Furnace, London builder, wanted in connection with the murder of Walter Spatchett, rent collector, whose charred body was found in the ruins of a burned shed. Furnace was seized at South End, a seaside resort 35 miles from London, and was formally charged with murder here tonight.

Furnace was captured in an apartment house in which he had occupied a room for eight days. He was sitting before a fireplace reading a Sunday newspaper when the officers entered.

On a table lay Edgar Wallace's detective thriller, "Traitor's Gate," and on the mantelpiece were two clumps of white heather, which in the Scotsman's language means good luck. Furnace appeared to be ill.

The body found in the ruins of a shed, which was owned by Furnace, was first identified by relatives as that of Furnace. It was found that the victim had been shot three times. Meanwhile the disappearance of Spatchett was reported and the body of the murdered man was identified as his.

GIRL SNEEZES FOR WEEK; DRUG BRINGS SLEEP

Chippewa Falls Doctors Puzzled by Malady.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Victim of a sneezing malady which has perplexed physicians for a week, Daisy Jost, 15, an orphan, slept fitfully under the influence of sedatives at St. Joseph's hospital here today.

During periods of consciousness since last Monday, attending physicians said, the girl has sneezed from one to four times a minute. Specialists in several cities have been consulted, but none of the suggestions offered has been effective.

"We have been unable to find a parallel to this case in any medical case history," said Dr. William E Henske, general practitioner, who was summoned to attend the girl for a severe cold.

Many Remedies Suggested.

Since the nature of the girl's affliction became publicly known, Dr. Henske said, numerous remedies have been suggested by persons who have faith in hypnotism, witch doctors, and the like.

Some of them have been tried, but even the generally favored method of holding the index finger against the upper lip has failed after repeated trials. Nose drops and cough medicines, prescribed by specialists, have been equally ineffective.

Staff physicians at the hospital after lengthy consultations, decided that the strain of sneezing would weaken the patient's heart and that the reflexes of the nasal membranes must be stopped.

Condition Is Aggravated.

When the patient's condition became so aggravated that she could no longer take nourishment normally a mild form of sedative was administered and artificial feeding was necessary.

"Naturally, we can't go on forever keeping her under the influence of narcotics, but it is the only means we know at present of giving the girl comfort while other methods of cure can be sought," Dr. Henske said.

COUNCIL PLANS REGULATION OF POULTRY TRADE

Steps to regulate Chicago's fresh poultry supplies are to be taken today and tomorrow by the judiciary and finance committees of the city council. A proposed ordinance which would license the handlers of poultry, rabbits and other foodstuffs on such markets as the Fulton street and South Water markets will be considered by the two committees.

The ordinance, sponsored by the Chicago poultry board, seeks to impose the same sort of control over perishable foods that are trucked in from the country as is imposed over packing plants, creameries, milk plants and other food processing and distributing agencies.

There were 52,460,000 pounds of live poultry coming to the Fulton street market alone in 1932, according to a report issued by Charles E. McNeill, business manager of the Chicago poultry board. Of this amount 41,816,000 pounds came in by trucks, 6,828,000 pounds by express, and 3,816,000 pounds by freight.

The country truck operators, according to officers of the Fulton Market Merchants' association, have branched out from the chicken business, which is subject to city health inspections daily, and are bringing in veal, hogs, rabbits and other products.

Many of them drive out from other cities having regulations restricting the type of foodstuffs that can be marketed, and come to Chicago where no such provisions exist on this class of trade. Reports of shipments of products of inferior quality or unfit for human consumption have been received from city consumers, it was pointed out.

FEAR COLOMBIAN AIR AND WATER ATTACK ON CITY

MANAOS, Brazil, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Activities here today gave rise to rumors that Colombian forces will attack the disputed upper Amazon city of Leticia simultaneously from air and water. The Colombians, who have a flotilla here waiting orders to proceed up the Amazon, attempted to contract for a Brazilian ship to carry foodstuffs for them.

It was rumored that Colombia plans to extend an advance as far as Iquitos, a small city in northeast Peru and headquarters of the Peruvian fluvial navy. Meanwhile, the Brazilian ship Alegria was en route to Tabatinga.

Herman Jacobs, 26 years old, a state highway policeman assigned to the Homewood detail, who killed his brother-in-law, Henry Jaros, 22 years old, 1449 West 14th place, early yesterday, told Maxwell street police yesterday afternoon that he was intoxicated and did not remember the shooting. Police learned Jacobs, who lives at 1540 West 14th place, appeared in uniform at the Seska Athletic and Benevolent association, 14th and Ashland avenue, early yesterday and fired a shot through the floor without provocation. Jaros was shot when he told Jacobs to put the revolver away.

WHEALAN BACKS KELLY PLAN FOR CHARITY COAL

Would Allow All State Mines to Bid.

President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board announced last night that he would request the board today to adopt a new set of specifications for charity coal contracts that will allow the best mines in both central and southern Illinois to compete for the business.

The new specifications were proposed on Saturday by Commissioner Peter M. Kelly as a compromise between two sets of specifications, one drafted by the county board and the other by Illinois Emergency Relief commission experts.

Promises to Prevent Graft.

Commissioner Kelly said his specifications would produce a good grade of coal at a low price and would contain provisions to eliminate all possibility of favoritism and graft.

Whealan announced his decision to support Commissioner Kelly's specifications after receiving opinions on them from several authorities on coal purchasing. The Kelly specifications were indorsed by A. L. Langtry, president of the Commercial Testing and Engineering company; Andrew J. Murphy, publisher of the Black Diamond, a coal trade journal, and E. B. Kitzinger, supervisor of coal purchases for the Jewish Christian charities.

Criticizes Ryerson's Aid.

President Whealan criticized Charles B. Goodspeed, assistant to the chairman of the relief commission, who presided at the meeting of the six experts who drafted the commission's coal specifications, although he was not a member of the appointed committee. The only coal company representative at the meeting was George Reed of the Peabody Coal company.

"There is a demand for discipline of the coal merchants who have defrauded the relief fund by delivering inferior coal in the past," President Whealan said. "I believe they should be barred from any business dealings with either the county or relief commission until they are cleared of the charges, and it is my plan to introduce such a resolution at the next meeting of the board."

DISTINCT GAIN NOTED IN ILLNESS OF MRS. HUTTON

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The condition of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton was reported "distinctly better" today by her physician, Dr. L. C. Audrain, who said that between last Tuesday and Friday the noted evangelist was on the brink of death.

He said he could not discuss the nature of her illness. "There is no possibility that she will be able to start next Thursday, as planned, on a trip around the world," Dr. Audrain said.

"Between Tuesday and Friday she was in such extremes that it was impossible to forecast from hour to hour what turn her illness might take. That is to say, she was in coma, and death was an imminent possibility.

"A gradual improvement became noticeable Friday night, however, and today she shows a pronounced turn toward recovery."

Dr. Audrain said no visitors were authorized in the sick room, but the order did not prevent the entrance yesterday of two deputy sheriffs with a summons for Mrs. Hutton to appear next Tuesday at the trial of a $240,000 breach of contract suit filed against her by Roy Stewart, film producer. The judge said testimony will be taken at her bedside if she is unable to appear.

Mrs. Hutton has suffered recurrent attacks of a nervous disorder for two years.

why not resistance building measures as well? . . . .

Outdoor exposure, stuffy indoor living have a great deal to do, of course, with the ills that prevail at this time of year. They put a tax on your vitality. You have to protect yourself against them!

But taking outward precautions isn't the only means. You must also increase your inner forces. Build up your general resistance. Good resistance will help you meet conditions outside!

There's an easy, new way to begin. With the help of two special factors—Vitamins A and D.

These are the two factors which under-par people used to have to take cod-liver oil to obtain. But now a pleasant-tasting concentrate provides them—Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D!

The Vitamin A they supply has an important effect on raising general resistance! Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, offers protection that is greatly needed at this season.

Visits Neighborhood Personal Finance Company Office

Praises Service to Husband They Obtain Loan Quickly

Like so many other wives and mothers, Mrs. G—— was worried because with her husband's reduced salary she could not keep up monthly instalments due on the furniture and radio, or settle various old bills that had accumulated. She and Mr G—— owed $170 and could see no way of getting out of debt.

Then she saw an advertisement of the Personal Finance Company, found the address of the neighborhood office, and went to have a talk with the manager.

She learned that she and her husband could secure a loan for enough money to pay all their bills and start again with a clean slate.

The following day, she and her husband made all arrangements for the loan and obtained the money they needed. They settled their furniture and radio instalment accounts in full for cash, and in that way saved a considerable amount in Cash Discounts.

Now, instead of having to make a number of payments each month on various accounts they owed, Mr. and Mrs. G—— have only one small monthly payment to think about, and they can easily afford that. They have discovered that they can now make their present income go much farther. Their money worries are over.

If you need money now, come to the Personal Finance Company nearest your home or office and find out for yourself what they can do for you. If you are too busy to call, just phone or write.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Once again Cecil De Mille, spectacle specialist, has laved his imagination in contemplation of the orgies, martyrdoms, baths, and brutalities of ancient days. The result is a two hour long cinema that features not so much the sufferings of the early Christians as the sins of those who did them wrong. The producer paints whitely the virgin, but uses her, so to speak, as a canvas against which to flaunt the flaming licentiousness of Ancaria, "wickedest woman in Rome," and the unholy passions of Poppea, empress, who craves the withheld embraces of Prefect Marcus Superbus.

While the good pray and suffer—largely under cover in prisons and various holes in the wall, the wicked act up something scandalous and very much in the open. Mr. Hays has done nothing about it, since, presumably, Mr. De Mille has pointed to the title and made clear it is all in the cause of salvation—and far be it from Mr. Hays—or the censors, either!—to throw monkey wrenches in the wheels of any godly work.

Not meaning, you understand, to criticize either Mr. Hays or the censors. One merely wonders as to the ado kicked up over some films and the quiescent attitude maintained as to others. Wait till you see Ancaria dance. You'll do some wondering, too.

Despite its sins and splendors, "The Sign of the Cross" is, I thought, weighty, and dubious entertainment. Unless, of course, the observer has a yen for gory sights such as the spearing of pygmies by giants, the arrow shootings, flogging, and lion devourings of the pure and puny, the torture of children—the thousand and one harmful little amusements that helped pass away time for the Roman aristocracy and their satellities.

Much of the picture made me a little sick; some of it, pretty tired—but still I am glad to have seen it, because not to have done so would have been to miss Charles Laughton's utterly intriguing Nero.

A fat, sissy Nero, this. A sly, cruel, elegant, roguish decadent Nero with a broad English accent! A sated slob completely in love with Nero, preoccupied with desire for Nero's comfort and pleasure. A Nero childishly impatient of anything aimed to distract his attention from the all absorbing subject of himself. Without a doubt this cunning piece of portraiture is the photoplay's cream!

Speaking of cream—what a sight is Miss Claudette Colbert in her bath of pure asses' milk! Perfumed milk! Flower-strewn milk! Frothy milk of which the household cats lap thirstily—proving beyond a doubt that it IS real milk. O, never for a moment can you forget that De Mille was directing this movie.

Miss Colbert's portrayal of the empress is very smooth, very effective. A bad girl, Poppea—but you sure do like her!

Elissa Landi and Fredric March are excellent in their respective rôles of Christian virgin and Roman prefect. Their romance, doomed to end in a lion's tummy, is a beautiful and inspiring one.

As a matter of fact, all the acting is most commendable, as is the photography. Some of the scenes are notably Rembrandtian. There is considerable surge and power in several of the mass episodes and the producer was not too high hat to introduce a bit of comedy here and there.

If you liked "King of Kings" and "The Ten Commandments"—both from the De Mille galleries—you may go for "The Sign of the Cross" in a big way.

See you tomorrow!

Operetta Company Launches Career at Civic Opera House

Audience Gives Happy Welcome to "Robin Hood"; Presented in Rich Manner.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago Operetta company, organized by David Erwin Russell with the purpose of offering a comprehensive course in the most popular and celebrated works for the light lyric stage, began its career at the Civic Opera house last night with skill and authority. "Robin Hood," an American staple of musical romance some forty years ago, was the bill, and the leisurely, graceful old favorite, richly garnished with scenery and costumes out of the sumptuous supplies of the Civic Opera company, was happily received by a large audience.

An orchestra composed of all the "firsts" of the dormant grand opera organization gave Reginald De Koven's score handsome treatment under the direction of Ben Jerome, who has a place among the traditions of Chicago's home grown musical productions. A large chorus of native sons and daughters with vocal gifts frolicked areund the Maypole and joined lustily in the choruses of the famous ode in praise of brown October ale. The principals were players of accomplishment in the field of operetta; some of them, indeed, have sung in the more exalted and grandiose forms of words-and-music theatricals.

So it appears that Mr. Russell, who came from summer open-air opera in St. Louis to add this new attraction to Chicago's footlight amusements, has done his work well. For stock company operetta on a large scale, with its primary emphasis upon musical achievement, this production of "Robin Hood" is praiseworthy. It may miss some of the charm, the sparkle and the comic spirit of the interpretations that the old-timers remember gloatingly, but it serves admirably in bringing to life a melodious tradition of the 1890s.

There are no star rôles in "Robin Hood"—a fact which makes the piece an excellent opening bill for a stock company. Each of the leading characters, however, has his or her chance to take the center of the stage and carol out one of the song hits with which De Koven embellished his delightful score.

Charlotte Lansing, happily remembered from "The Desert Song" and "The New Moon," is the heroine in the rôle of Maid Marian, the noble girl who disguised herself as a milkmaid in order to follow the fortunes of her outlawed lover. She plays the rôle with crisp effect, and is especially happy in the second act trio—the churning song—with the plotting sheriff and his tricky nephew. James Liddy, who appears to be a practiced operetta tenor, although my memory on his past performances is vague, is a jaunty and spirited leading man in the title rôle.

Greek Evans, however, won the honors of the evening when, after subordinate duty in helping the plot along as Little John of the law-breaking deer-slayers, he gathered the merry men around him in a forest glade and bade them listen to his lyrical ideas about the merits of October ale of more than 3.5 per cent alcoholic content. He had the company of 70 singers, all in Lincoln green, at his back, and he made the grand old drinking song roll through the great hall in full operatic style. He is a virile baritone, and his fine voice should be a decided asset to Mr. Russell's adventure.

Forrest Huff, a fine veteran of many operettas, especially remembered because he was the first of the "Chocolate Soldiers," is excellent as the Sheriff of Nottingham, and delivers his patter song with Gilbertian unction. John Dunsmure, another old reliable of the musical romances, bassos profoundly as Will Scarlet.

The rôle of Alan-a-Dale—famous among other things because it gave a pen name to a New York dramatic critic—falls to Lorna Doone Jackson, an alumna of the Civic Opera company. She makes an attractive "leading boy" [this being one of the characters for whom full length tights were invented], and she sings the most famous number of the show, "O, Promise Me," with richness and volume.

Curiously enough, this number is not to be credited to the composer of the score, for it was an interpolation—and what an interpolation! It has neither song-cue nor dramatic support. It was dropped casually into a hole in the second act and became the high spot of the performance. The lyric was written by Clement Scott, more famous as an English dramatic critic than as a song writer, and its score represents, in the possibly fallible memory of a hurried first nighter, the genius of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Next Sunday night the bill will be changed to "The Song of the Flame," a somewhat recent operetta, first staged by Arthur Hammerstein. The music is by Herbert Stothart and George Gershwin.

"Face the Music," a musical comedy fresh from Broadway, with Mary Boland in its leading rôle, began an engagement at the Grand Opera house last night. The performance will be reviewed tomorrow.

Putting White with Black Is Fashion Trick

Proves Most Effective of Combinations.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

About the neatest and most knowing fashion trick any busy designer ever went into a huddle about is the black with white combination in clothes. Shoppers dabble and dally over high colors, toy with a thought or two over printed frocks, but inevitably and eventually the smartest clothes hounds slip back to the black and white contrasts.

If you don't think black dresses, sharply accented with ingenious splashes of sparkling white, are superlatively chic, your fashion temperature should be checked. It is the smartest, most effective combination, contrast, or get together any smart young or old shopper could wear.

One of the most exhilarating corners in a certain Chicago store has been completely stocked in clever black and white things . . . and in this corner you will find some of the most outstanding costumes any black and white collector ever stumbled into.

You will see sleek black things of sheer wool, deftly combined with white piqué, just enough and never too much; twisted bows, tailored bows, demure divinity collars, cavalier cuffs and sometimes a belt of swanky white, very narrow waled piqué.

There are all kinds of fragile flattering wisps of spanking white organdy, some cross-bare frills and flutings also of stiff organdy, and on the very new black "sheers" you will find very feminine accents of clear white chiffon.

One of the smartest black and white combinations you will lose your heart to is a long sleeved tailored dress of wavery white and black broken lines. It looks like those awfully smart rough tweeds until you examine it closely, and you discover that the fabric is as new as technocracy and twice as uncomplicated. This tweedish looking silk is crinkled from shoulder seam to hemline, the crepe silk itself is crinkled and the printed pattern has been crinkled. The clever surplice vest is of white pique buttoned into the silk blouse section with big pearl buttons; white pique, moderately sized cuffs, also are buttoned with flat pearl buttons.

Another new object of intense fashion interest is the one piece dress, made with a high rib bugging waistline that is sewed to a good looking black and white printed silk blouse top. The slender nonflaring skirt is of dull black silk crepe, but the short, snappy jacket that swings casually around the hipline is of the breezy black and white printed silk. This perfect "little frock" is a find for any one's wardrobe. Think of the many transformations you can contrive with different kinds of colors of coats or jackets.

If you like all these huge, bumpy, spongy materials, you'll fall for a black spongy silk and wool mixture daytime dress that is a honey. The sleeves are moderately full above the elbows, but not disturbingly so; the skirt is extremely slender and the blouse will make you gasp. Two huge white squares of the same spongy wool and silk are worn fore and aft. It looks like two squares of snowy white super bath toweling, one worn across your chest with large buttons to anchor it, the black square cleverly inset with the black sleeves without any visible method of holding it in place.

More eye filling clothes than you have seen in weeks are now on display in this smart black and white room. Wander in and have some thrills!

Exchange to Open Annual Sale Today

Mrs. James Ward Thorne Is in Charge.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WOMEN who have been using Christmas checks for the purchase of post-holiday bargains will be out early today to get first choice at the annual sale of the Woman's exchange. For several weeks Mrs. James Ward Thorne, president of the exchange, and her assistants have been busy going through the shop's stock and reducing prices for this annual sale.

The bargains offered at this event each year are always eagerly sought and the sale itself is a means of swelling the exchange's charity fund. In other years it was held at the residence of the late Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy at 1501 State parkway, but this year it will take place in the exchange shop on North Michigan avenue. It will continue until the first of February unless everything is sold out before that date.

Besides Mrs. Thorne, the assisting board members who will help with the sales include Mrs. Helen Gurley, who preceded Mrs. Thorne as president; Mrs. Philip Loring Reed, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, who returned last week from the Mitchells' estate in Santa Barbara.

The out of town sales, which vacationing Chicagoans manage for the Woman's exchange at resorts each winter and summer, are to begin soon in Florida.

Reception for School Head.

Heart Deaths on Increase, Report Shows

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

An increase in the number of deaths due to heart disease last year over 1931, described as "startling," was revealed yesterday by the Chicago Heart association, 203 North Wabash avenue.

"Although the total number of deaths showed about a 4 per cent decrease in 1932, the number of deaths attributed to heart disease increased 15 per cent," said Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary of the association. "One person out of every four who died in Chicago last year was the victim of heart disease. In 1931 the ratio was one out of every five deaths. This is a startling increase and presents a vital problem to this community."

Mrs. Britton said that living conditions in these times of depression have had their effect on the number of heart deaths. She named insufficient nourishment, exposure, worry, and overexertion as contributing factors in the death rate.

"It is more important than ever before," she said, "to give the proper scientific attention to the problem of heart disease. Sufferers must be given proper diagnosis and convalescent care, and advised regarding the routine of their lives, so as to reduce the number of fatalities."

A total of 8,175 persons in Chicago died in 1932 from heart disease, out of a total of 34,431 deaths from all causes, Mrs. Britton said, citing advance statistics from the city board of health. In 1931 the total deaths were 36,083 and the heart fatalities were 7,094.

The Chicago Heart association is now holding its annual campaign to raise funds through the sale of its Valentine heart stamps to carry on its tenth year of work in preventing heart disease. The organization directs patients to free clinics, distributes information on heart disease, and sponsors other activities against the ravages of cardiac ailments.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?
BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

A LONG DISTANCE SOLUTION.

Prof. Fordney made notes as he read the newspaper account of the brutal murder of Bee Johannes at Eau Claire, Wis., on Dec. 29.

Dr. Julius Gilbertson and Miss Johannes left Eau Claire at 5 p. m. intending to have dinner at The Cupboard, five miles out of town.

11 p. m. Tom Fleming, walking along country road, noticed in the moonlight blood spots on snow at end of bridge two miles from Eau Claire. Looking over railing saw body of woman lying on ice of frozen river. Hurried to river, found her dead and summoned police.

Fleming moved body a bit upon discovery, but its exact position easily defined by slight depression body made in ice.

Dr. Gilbertson claims at 5:30 Bee left his car after quarrel, deciding to walk back to town. He drove on, had dinner at inn and then went to Altoona.

Driving back to Eau Claire he discovered girl's body on bridge. Realizing she had been dead for some time and fearing implication, carried body to river. Claims time of finding body 10:30.

While there are some gaps in time of alibi he can prove his presence at inn and Altoona.

Marks in snow on bank and man's footprints look as though something had been dragged over it. Bee's shoes missing.

Fordney checked his notes once more and then wired the district attorney at Eau Claire.

Honor Jacob Loeb at a Banquet Given by Jewish Institute

Jacob M. Loeb, former president of the school board, was honored at a banquet given in the Standard club last night by the Jewish People's Institute of Chicago. Mr. Loeb served the institute as president for 22 years. Ill health forced his retirement recently.

"During my 22 years as president I received more from the institute because of the character of its work than I gave," Mr. Loeb said. "I sincerely regret that I am forced to leave my post."

Joseph Michaels, acting president of the institute, reported the activities of the institute have greatly increased during the depression period and at the same time income has dropped. During the summer the institute operated the only summer high school of the city. It is planning to open a junior college if the need becomes pressing.

Dr. Philip Seman, general director of the institute, stressed the need for additional recreation opportunities during the depression period. Recreation, he said, is imperative for people out of work.

Church Holds First Services Without Collection Plate

Angus S. Hibbard, Chicago engineer, yesterday inaugurated his proposed method for receiving offerings in churches without "passing the plate." The first church to use Mr. Hibbard's plan in Chicago is St. Luke's Episcopal church, 741 South Western avenue. Mr. Hibbard made the first contribution received under the new method there. The second so to contribute was Mrs. M. A. Holt, charter member of St. Luke's church.

Mr. Hibbard, who is a member of the diocesan council of the Chicago Episcopal dicese, speaking before St. Luke's congregation yesterday, declared the church is more directly needed by persons in times of widespread unemployment and uncertainty. But, he said that the church's constant demand for money, particularly during services of worship, has driven the poor away.

"When the penniless person attends church," Mr. Hibbard continued, "he tries to appear unaware when the usher pushes the offering plate under his nose. The poor man feels that others have noticed and that the usher has sized him up. Thus the value of the service is spoiled for him."

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Are your bedroom doors weather stripped to save on fuel? Engineers are agreed that little if any fuel economy results from any considerable drop in the house temperature at night and that in addition there is a wear and tear on the heating plant when it is forced to its utmost during the early morning hours. It is a sensible proceeding to weather strip the doors between bedrooms and the rest of the house. These bedrooms with their windows flung wide cause a heat loss in the rest of the house during the night hours. Doors, of course, should fit tightly and be kept closed.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

INSTALLMENT I.

MAROONED.

It was a good holiday morning in middle April, unseasonably warm, but with a steady west wind trimming with ostrich plumes the moving bottle green of Little Peconic bay. A twenty foot catboat was tugging ahead like a willing horse, and Bart Burgess, still a boy because life had not doubled its fist in his face, enjoyed the sensation of sprawling in dirty slacks and sneakers, voluptuously thrilled by the springy waves beneath him. It was one of the irresponsible flights from reality for which he lusted because, as he was soon to learn, his blood was charged with a passionate longing for escape.

Just now he felt nothing more definite than a lazy, tolerant contempt for the man at the tiller and a slight concern because the water in here was growing shallow and weedy, a cobweb of crooked inlets between jumbled islands and a jagged shore line. "Hey, point 'er starboard!" he roared like a pirate. The man at the tiller responded spitefully, "Do you have to make so much noise about it?

Ingalls Frederick Warren—known in Wyattville as "Nosey Ingy"—contrasted sharply with his rough commander. Lily white trousers of English billiard cloth, ornately perforated buckskin shoes, a blue box coat with a club insignia . . . why can't men get along with Ingy? Bart was asking himself. A few years older than Bart, he had grapelike eyes fringed with handsome black lashes, his mouth was a rosebud under a hairline mustache; his face came to a point in a sharp, probing little nose. Did the Wyattville men despise him because of a certain flourish he gave to the Warren fortune? Ridiculous. Wyattville, in spite of the depression, was sitting pretty on tax free government bonds. Bart had none of his mother's snobbery, sniffing at "new people." Fortunes have to start somewhere, and it was all right if Col. Warren arrived yesterday and by way of Tammany Hall.

"Mind your tiller! Didn't you come for the experience?"

Breeze swept and indolent, Bart caught himself laughing. Ingy Warren, who never turned over his hand to help anybody except in the way of making trouble, had offered himself as a crew for the catboat. Ingy, who amused himself with the sort of girl who would be amused by Ingy. Ingy, the spoiled child of a new made fortune—a funny little fellow with nothing much to do but administer mental poison in small doses and watch the effect. Even this morning, before the boat was under way, he had started in on Bart's round-the-corner cousin, Lora Sackett, and what was the matter with her since she got her divorce from Bob? But knowing the value of his skin, he hadn't gone far with that. . . .

Bart Burgess, too good natured to linger with unpleasant thoughts, kept his eyes on the course, now heading into thinner and shallowed inlets. "Low tide," complained Ingy. "Well, we've missed the channel. Say, wouldn't it be bully if one of the Wyattville yachts went aground here? One of those parties where Who isn't supposed to be with Who——"

"Mind your tiller! Didn't you come for the experience?"

"Yeah. And I'm getting it. Gosh, look ahead——"

"Point 'er starboard!"

Ingy pointed her port, and when the centerboard ground into a sand bar the tiller smote him like a flail, the boat keeled sidewise and deluged him. With it all there was a straining crackle of wood. "Pow, Wow." The sound of Ingy scrambling and spitting salt water.

Soaked, too. Bart had to laugh. "The tide'll be up in a couple of hours."

"How charming. If you can sail without a rudder, you're good." Ingy, loving to laugh at other people's expense, hated this joke. When he opened his cigaret case and found it full of brine he swore feelingly. A rich Warren shouldn't be treated like this. Bart lent him a cigaret and he felt better. His commander was pointing to the dory they had in tow.

"That ought to pull us out," he said. "Suppose I row while you push."

"You mean get myself bogged in that sand?"

"All right," grinned Bart. "I'll push and you row."

But in the rowboat, tugging furiously, smallish Ingy's strength was as nothing. Heavy Bart was at a disadvantage, too, for the more he shoved the deeper he sank in sand. And the breeze was falling dead. But mertily he chanted, "Only fifty-five miles from Wyattville. We'll make it yet."

"There's a dinky little town over there," drawled Ingy, gloating at his shipmate's exhaustion; this was another experiment in social turmoil, small but interesting. He liked it less when Bart scrambled back and commanded: "Suppose you row over there and find a carpenter." And after a mutinous pause, "Hey, jump into it!"

"I always wondered what type you were," said Ingy, stretching a sore arm. "Now I know that you're by nature a sea wolf."

But he was suspiciously obedient as he tumbled into the rowboat and began splashing moodily toward shore. The picture of drowned pride was trickedly amusing to Bart Burgess, who was in every respect the son of Trevor Burgess. Old Trev laughed his jolly laugh at the thought of weaklings took no pains to conceal his contempt for lady killers and male gossips. Yes dad would approve of this picture.

Distantly the little village showed shackly wharves and jimbered warehouses sleeping through the spring. A wide sun, summerlike in its intensity, was beating down on the water, now grown perfectly still. Bart folded a newspaper over his head and didn't mind the heat, now that Ingy was gone. A sense of beauty, always lurking in his dreams, charmed him as he idled there.

The waters around him were softened by a passing cloud until they gave up colors, sulphur, and lavender, and streaky rose. He imagined himself on a shell strewn Samoan beach, stretched out under a canopy of palms. . . . Leaning over, he gazed down into clear, shallow water, saw a forest of submerged reeds and little brown fishes playing madly, like puppies. Cute little devils, that's big life to them he was thinking. . . .

He wasn't aware of her until she was almost on him. Perhaps it was the flap of a paddle that brought him to the alert.

Apple Stuffed with Chestnuts Is Timely Treat

Forms Quickly Prepared Dessert.

BY MARY MEADE.

Miss Meade will be glad to answer questions pertaining to cookery and the kitchen. For personal reply, send stamped, addressed envelope.

Is your family chestnut hungry, and are you doing things about it?

For instance, these days when chestnuts are to be found at the family grocer's or piled up, round, brown, and complacent on whistling chestnut stands at every other corner, there's no reason why a croquette or a pudding, a salad or a whole luncheon pièce de résistance shouldn't bring you their sweet crunchiness, and you will have many opportunities of slipping them into frozen custards, dressings, refrigerator desserts, and, in their glaced form, into a welcoming candy box.

First for a croquette which will tantalize the most blasé of palates.

CHESTNUT CROQUETTES.

1 pint shelled chestnuts, blanched and skinned.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons butter.
1 teaspoon finely minced onion.
Dash of cayenne pepper.

Boil the chestnuts until tender, drain and rub through a sieve. Add the remaining ingredients, mix well, and form into cones or balls. Roll in crumbs, then in beaten egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in hot fat [380 degrees F.] to a golden, puffy brown. Drain on rough paper and serve hot with a savory cream sauce.

Then if you have sighed for a quickly prepared O-so-tasty luncheon dessert, here's a prize package all done up in the modest baked apple:

BAKED APPLES, CHESTNUT STUFFING.

1 cup shelled chestnuts, blanched and skinned.
½ cup seedless raisins.
¾ cup date meats.
5 tablespoons brown sugar.
Juice of ½ lemon.
6 baking apples.

Put the first three ingredients through a food chopper and mix with the sugar and lemon juice. Core the apples and stuff with the mixture. Sprinkle the tops of the apples with a sugar and cinnamon mixture, add a little hot water to the pan, and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for three-quarters of an hour, or until the apples are puffy and tender. Serve hot with cream.

And then that luncheon dish I hinted about. Chestnuts have a fondness for keeping company with shellfish, and here we find them doing the honors with his lusciousness the oyster.

FRIED OYSTERS WITH CHESTNUT SAUCE.

1 cup shelled chestnuts, blanched and skinned.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 cup meat stock [or one cup boiling water plus one beef bouillon cube].
¼ teaspoon salt.
1½ tablespoons lemon juice.
Dash of cayenne pepper.

Cook the chestnuts gently until just tender. Shred them in fine strips and add to a smooth thick sauce which has been made from the butter, flour, stock, salt, and pepper. When piping hot, add the lemon juice and serve over crisp fried oysters.

And now a fluffy finale for that all important bridge luncheon:

CHESTNUT WHIP.

1 pint shelled chestnuts, blanched and skinned.
Slices of lemon.
1 tablespoon sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups whipping cream.
1-3 cup powdered sugar.
1 tablespoon canned cherry juice.

Cook the chestnuts gently in water to which the salt, granulated sugar, and thin slices of lemon have been added. When tender, press the nuts through a sieve and add gradually to the cream which has already been whipped stiff and flavored with the powdered sugar and the cherry juice. Pile the fluffy mixture into sherbet glasses and chill. Serve garnished with cherries [maraschino cherry juice and fruit may be used if desired]. The recipe will serve eight generously.

Experts List Play Materials for Child of 2

Information Is Helpful to Parents.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"How shall I start a nursery school?"

"How shall I start a kindergarten?"

"Have you a booklet of this?"

"Where can I find that?"

And a dozen other calls for help came in, to which often I have not time to compile the answer personally. So I look around and go to the authentic sources for information already gathered together. But frequently I cannot find material in a form which is usable by mothers. Recently, however, I located some lists which I think excellent, so I am going to tell you about them. Whether you are concerned with the nursery school or the home nursery angle, I think they will be of interest to you.

The first folder contains a complete list of the equipment used by two year olds in the nursery school of the bureau of educational experiments. It is a careful and detailed list.

It contains particulars as to what is necessary in the way of permanent classroom equipment for these two year olds, such as tables and chairs, shelving and boxes and cupboards, and indoor and outdoor clothing containers.

Bathroom equipment is described listing both stationary dressing tables and rolling tables, wire filing trays for clothing, and so forth. Sleeping equipment is mentioned for in and outdoors.

And last—and what will be of most interest to mothers whose children are at home all day—is the full listing of play materials for indoor and outdoor play. This is the sort of thing that mothers of two year olds are often so anxious to find out about that this folder should prove invaluable.

Here are the directions for obtaining this publication: It costs twenty-seven cents postpaid and may be had by writing to the Bureau of Educational Experiments, 69 Bank street, New York City.

Church Group Will Launch 'New Strategy' at Conference Today

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Far reaching reorganization of the work and methods of the Congregational-Christian churches throughout the country will be undertaken today when leaders of that denomination meet for a four day conference at the First Congregational church, Evanston. The name used for the proposed organizational changes is the "new strategy."

About 150 executive officers and members of executive boards from over the country will be present. The work will be directed by the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Halliday, general secretary of the national extension boards of the denomination. The new plans will extend to new areas the "sensational" reorganization of the boards of the church undertaken in Chicago tan years ago. At that time thirteen independent boards were merged into two unified groups.

Tomorrow's conference will consider proposals which look beyond Congregational interests with a view of cooperation with other denominations, and even with non-Christian religions.

The commission created 10 years ago has been at work since that time and the report of its work will form the basis for the present conference's work.

Royal Decree of Fashion Chief Reason Women Give for Seeking Better Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Here's a little question you girls might be arguing among yourselves as you pull on the waistline muscles. [It's been asked of me—and your opinion is just as valuable as mine]. What is the real reason for which you reduce?

Is it to better your health? Is it to keep yourselves looking younger? Is it so that you can wear smaller sized frocks?

We won't laugh at the poor darling for asking such a question. After all, a man can't know all our reasons for diet and exercise, can he?

My impression is that fashion has more to do with the remodeling of figures than anything else. This is based on comments made to me during a recent reducing campaign I conducted. Every last woman of the 25 in the group testified in the beginning of the test to the unhappiness of not being able to step into the smarter lined clothes as represented in the smaller sized frocks. At the end of this test, in which there were reductions of from 12 pounds to 26, the greatest rejoicing was over being able to ask for a 36 or a 38 or a 40 size dress, where before 42's, 44's and 46's had formerly been called for.

I suppose a minor percentage of women are scared into reducing by breath shortness, by certain ills of body—but, being the sex we are, I think fashion is the dictator more often than health or general well being.

While you're thinking about it, you might stand yourself up erectly, heels together, toes ahead, hands together, as illustrated, and give your waist, hips and upper body a "refining" treatment by swinging the joined hands in a semi-circle, bending slightly at the waist and doing your turning only at the waist. The more you stretch on the arms as you swing, the better it will be for them.

New Vera Borea Beach Apron Is Bound for South

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Those bound for Palm Beach and other tropical climes are packing aprons in with their luxurious clothes. Beach aprons are going strong with those smart women who admit that they are tired of pajamas.

Vera Borea is specializing in these aprons, and she makes them of simple rustic materials like crash, cotton woven as loosely as burlap, calico, and percale.

A novel Borea beach apron is shown here today. It is made of coarse linen in a pastel blue color. The bodice part of the garment consists of two scarfs sewed in gathers on to large rings of jade that serve as armholes. The scarfs are then crossed in front, wound around the waistline in back and brought to the waistline front where they are fastened with a jade hook and buckle.

Women Play Memorial to Mrs. Ochsner

Symphony Gives Pleasing Concert.

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The Women's Symphony Orchestra of Chicago is in imminent danger of becoming popular. Yesterday's concert at the Drake hotel attracted an eager clientele of appreciative listeners. A pleasant air of informality pervades these concerts, detracting in no way from the increasingly professional attitude of Conductor Ebba Sundstrom and her cohorts of the orchestra.

The program yesterday well merited the enthusiasm with which it was received. The choice of numbers was felicitous and the soloists more than adequate. The orchestra chose the third of the "Brandenburg" concerti by Bach for string orchestra to open the program. This happily exhibited the best phase of the orchestra, the strings. The performance of the well loved symphony by Cesar Franck in D minor acquired a special significance as it was played in memory of Mrs. A. J. Ochsner, who contributed so much to the welfare of the women's orchestra during her life.

Yesterday's performance showed what great strides the orchestra has made under the direction of Miss Sundstrom. There was no lagging of spirit or tempi there.

The second half of the program was devoted to the soloists of the day. Margaret Sweeney, the harpist of the organization, played the "Introduction et Allegro" by Ravel, wherein both composer and soloist aroused a new respect for the harp as a solo instrument.

The second soloist was Margaret Gent, contralto, who repeated the very interesting cycles of Hindemith called "Die Junge Magd" ["The Young Maid"] which she had previously sung at the Goodman theater under the direction of Rudolph Ganz. The difficulties of the Hindemith intervals should make any young maid pause, but Miss Gent accomplished them not only securely but with a nice appreciation of the text of the poems.

The first part of the "Catalonia" suite for orchestra closed the program.

The famous operetta, "The Gipsy Baron," by Johann Strauss, was given a single performance at the Auditorium last night. It was sung by a well known cast of principals to an audience that both knew and appreciated the opera.

Lucie Weston, Irene Pavloska, Max Bratt and Angelo Lippich were the quartet of principals. The performance moved smoothly under the baton of Arthur Koch, conductor. Mr. Lippich doubled as singer and stage director efficiently.

Exchange to Open Annual Sale Today

Progress; Mrs. Andrew R. Sherriff will sing a group of songs, and Eunice Tietjens will talk on "The Pearl of the Pacific." Tea will be served after the program, with Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and Mrs. Welch Dickinson pouring.

The North Shore Wellesley circle will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. John Henry Goehst at 68 Bellevue place. Mrs. Goehst will give a lecture to accompany motion pictures made by her and entitled "Hitting the High Spots of Europe." Some of the views were taken on a three day jaunt on the Graf Zeppelin.

Margaret Carter Wedding Feb. 4.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Bruce Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Northrop Carter of Joliet, to Boyd N. Everett of Pasadena and New York, will be solemnized on Feb. 24 at Christ Episcopal church in Joliet. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Joseph S. Minnis at 8 o'clock in the evening, and will be followed by a small reception at the Carter residence.

Mrs. Robert Patterson Jr. of Dayton, O., will be matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Rueben L. Perin, Miss Josephine Church, and Miss Elizabeth Benedict of Cincinnati, Mrs. John Browning of Niles Center, and Miss Marjorie Adams and Miss Rachel Hill of Joliet. Robert Stolt of New York will be best man. The list of ushers has not been completed.

Miss Helen Tieken, former director of the Chicago Junior League's children's theater, has been chosen to accompany Miss Dorothy Schmidt, chairman of the theater advisory committee, to the Junior league national children's theater conference to be held in Cleveland from Jan. 31 to Feb. 3.

A third Junior league member whose name has not yet been announced will go with them. Miss Schmidt is an official delegate to the meeting, which will really be a technical conference. The Chicago league inaugurated these conferences with one held here four years ago.

John Ott Jr. showed moving pictures of growing plants at a meeting of the Winnetka Garden club yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling.

Women Voters Meet Today.

Mrs. Edwin L. Brand of 1512 State parkway will open her residence at 4 o'clock this afternoon for a meeting of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters, at which Edward O. Griffenhagen will speak on "Proposals for the Reorganization of Local Government in Illinois."

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack and her two children will leave today to open the Niblacks' winter residence at Aiken, S. C. They will be gone until spring and Mr. Niblack will join his family a little later in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Caine of Winnetka left Thursday for a six weeks' trip to Honolulu, going by way of the Panama canal from New York.

Mrs. Edward Hines and her son, Ralph Hines probably will be settled in their new apartment at 1420 Lake Shore drive at the end of this week. They are still residing in Evanston and Mrs. Hines is supervising the difficult task of dismantling the large family residence where the four Hines children, Ralph, Charles, Loretta [now Mrs. Howell Howard of Dayton], and the late Edward Hines Jr. grew up.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Harkness and their baby have moved from their Evanston apartment to the Winnetka residence of Mrs. Harkness' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat, and will reside there until Mrs. Kohlsaat returns from a trip to Cocoanut Grove, Fla. Before going south Mrs. Kohlsaat will spend a week in New York with her other son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin E. Agnew Jr. and the junior Edward C. Kohlsaats.

Meet Parents in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Story of Riverside, who returned last weekend from Europe, were met in New York by their daughter, Mrs. L. Perkins Bell of Riverside, and Frank F. Story Jr.

Mrs. Arthur M. Barrett of Winnetka left last week with her children, Barbara and Arthur Jr., to spend three months at Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Lyon of Winnetka have returned from a week's sojourn in New York.

Mrs. Granger Farwell, who has been traveling in California since she went west several weeks ago, is now in Los Angeles for a few weeks' stay.

Invitations have been issued for the fifth anniversary dinner-dance of the Ladies of the Consuls to be given on Saturday evening, Feb. 4, at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Mrs. Jaroslav Smetanka is chairman and is being assisted by Mrs. Elmer Forsberg, Mrs. August Bontoux, and Mrs. John Vennema.

Mrs. Frederick S. Colburn of Evanston has been elected to succeed Mrs. Morris Wilson of Winnetka as president of the Grove House for Convalescents in Evanston. Other new officers include Mrs. J. Lawrence Houghteling of Winnetka, first vice president; Mrs. Arthur T. Galt of Chicago, second vice president; Mrs. Douglas Flood of Kenilworth, recording secretary; Mrs. Cornelius Watson of Winnetka, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John M. Butler of Evanston, treasurer, and Mrs. George Eberle of Evanston, assistant treasurer.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

THE LESSON OF ADVERSITY.

The captain made no statement in regard to the personal plans of Ladybird and himself. Neither did Peter in regard to his and Roberta's.

The captain had said in his direct, unvacillating way: "You've known me only as a deep sea shipmaster, Ladybird. I've got to be certain that what you see in me is going to stand the shore test."

"Just as you like, old dear. But how long is that going to take?"

"O, not so long. Once the crash of a big town closes in on you after months at sea, where there's been only the splash of waves, you're apt to find yourself looking at things from a different slant. I'm a plain man. I've got none of the shore going accomplishments you're used to. It's one thing to see a shipmaster on his bridge or quarter deck and another to see him in a Palace hotel. That's apt to shrink him a good deal——"

"It's the Palace hotel will do the shrinking, skipper."

Peter had put it differently. "We're not going to keep on at sea, Bobbs, like the captain and Ladybird. We're going back to Milbank. When you get there you're apt to find it hard to believe that all this ever happened."

"But that's just the point, Peter. It all has happened and it's no end more important than anything that ever happened to me in Milbank."

"I'm not so sure. You can't set aside the generations that have shaped you. I count on pulling that shape together again."

She protested. "But Peter, however much our share may prove, it wouldn't be a drop in the bucket in doing anything about the mills."

"It will the way I plan. We're neither of us under any liabilities. Nothing we've got can be attached. We'll be sure of our living stakes. But there's no man alive that knows the business back there any better, if as well, as I do. And I stand strongly as an executive. When things get started again I'll try for a general managership."

She objected. "But that's too long for us to wait."

"It needn't be. Only long enough for you to get back in your proper surroundings. Then you can decide if Peter Cavan the business man still looks the same to you as Peter the sailor man."

Like Ladybird, Roberta was too wise to make any further protest. Both knew that they had nothing to fear from the land. Their sentiment was not sea love. That fever must have long since run its course.

Therefore of the three couples to embark on the next passenger ship for San Francisco only Raoul and Arlette were on their honeymoon. Adam and Henery and Benny, who had come aboard the steamer to see them off, were not worried about what the status of the others would be when next they met. Then Adam thought suddenly of something that for months had scarcely entered his mind. He said to Ladybird:

"By the way, Mister Mate, now that you're shoving off, would you mind telling me from whom I've had the honor to take orders all this time? What name were you christened under, anyhow?"

Adam turned to Capt. Hiram. "Say, skipper, what initials shall I have put on the silver cocktail shaker I want to give this lady for a wedding present? And what do they stand for?"

The captain's blue eyes twinkled. "Looks like I'm not to know myself, Adam. Unless I'm somewhere round when she gets her marriage license."

Ladybird said quietly and with none of her habitual mockery: "Adam, old dear, after what happened that day off the atoll there's nothing about me that's of the least importance except to be a rattling good first and only mate. This skipper's."

Henery nodded. "You're right, Ladybird. We each got our natural born missions to fulfill. Yours and mine from now on are exactly opposite. But equally sound."

"Opposite, Henery? How?"

"Well," said Henery, "mine's to trade. That's how I reckon to find treasure. And you're going to find yours by holding fast to what you got."

"What about mine, Henery?" Roberta asked.

"You and Peter are fixed different, Miss Bobbs. Now, Peter may be a hot shot business man with a head for figures. That's what made it easy for him to learn celestial navigation. But since you ask me, I'd say it was the same blessin' that made him right good at both."

"What was that, Henery?"

"You were for Peter, my dear, and that's what counted. You made him safe and steady at his desk and afterwards on deck. I guess you were always bright enough, only it took adversity to help you find it out."

"Bravo, mon vieux," Raoul cried. "If there were more people in the world who could learn the lesson of adversity, then the adversity would soon be over."

"You said it, Rov.l," Benny said. "This country of ourn got fed too much sugar for a spell, so what she needed was salt. The good old salt of the earth, like you folks."

"Not to forget the salt of the sea, like Capt. Hiram and yourself, Benny," Adam told him.

"And nuts. . . ."

Rev. Michele Favero Made Chevalier of Italian Crown

The Rev. Michele Favero, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic church at Kensington and Prairie avenues, was made a chevalier of the Italian crown last night. The honor was conferred by Dr. G. Castruccio, Italian consul, in the presence of 400 men and women in the Crystal ballroom, 119th and Morgan streets, and was given in recognition of Father Favero's educational work in his parish during the last 12 years. The clergyman served as a chaplain at the front in the world war. Among the speakers last night were Judge Francis Allegretti and Attorney Maurice Marchello, toastmaster.

When Suitor Is Blase Try New Tactics

Intrigue Attentions of Another.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How can a girl who is crazy about a man act so as not to give her hand away? This man is always doing things to hurt me, intentional or not I can't figure it out, Dot."

First, "Dot," you'll have to wrestle with the "hurts"! Better assume they are unintentional by way of saving yourself aches. You'll have to apply some of the I-refuse-to-believe-it philosophy to the case. That mental reasoning of yours can be trained to take hurts or refuse to take them, just as you choose.

It's possible the man has no intention of hurting, but you, caring more than he, misinterpret his motives and actions. Learning indifference to the man's actions is step number one in general behavior toward the gendeman.

Up to a certain point a girl can afford to give the impression that a young man's company is agreeable to her—that it is most agreeable, in fact. And so long as the young man's response is equally flattering she may continue in this way. BUT when said young man begins to falter in his attentions, shows a preference for other girls' company, the girl's play is to sit around and see about intriguing some other young man's interest. It's an old game.

It does not always work, of course, because the young man may not be inclined to stay on. He has other plans for himself, in which event the scouting around for a substitute is good business, anyway. At least, the young lady is not staying at home getting her eyes all reddened over an unrequited love. And there is that something that is part of the male which values its possessions in proportion to its desire in other men's eyes.

So, if you're handling an unsure suitor a little of the old indifference still serves about as well as anything. In direct contact with said young man there will have to be a more casual note in the conversation. Anyway, none of your intense, eager, or possessive attitude, "Dot"!

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK COLDS

Feel Like A New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start trying a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents. Way it works will surprise you.

Arnesen Takes First in Class B.

Casper Oimen, Minot, N. D., former United States skiing champion, who was absent from Chicagoland slides last year, returned yesterday to win the class A championship of the Central Ski association in the Norge Ski club's 27th annual tournament near Cary, Ill. It was the opening event of the Century of Progress sports schedule.

Twenty thousand, the largest crowd to witness a Chicago ski meet in the last decade, gathered at the Norge club grounds on the banks of the Fox river to watch Oimen leap 174 feet. The jump was one foot better than the record Oimen established on the hill in 1931.

164 Feet in First Attempt.

Oimen, who was captain of the American Olympic skiing team in the winter games at Lake Placid, N. Y., last year, jumped 164 feet in his first attempt. Oimen's hill record of 173 feet was broken last year by Kaare Walberg, 19 year old member of the Norwegian Olympic skiing team. Walberg jumped 183 feet.

Roy Mikkelson, a Chicagoan who left home to join the California Ski association of Auburn, Cal., shot down the giant steel slide for a leap of 176 feet, the best jump of the day, but could not be considered for the title because he fell on his first try.

Taking second place was Sverre Fredheim, an elevator operator from Minneapolis, Minn., who has been in the United States for three years. Fredheim jumped 171 feet in his first attempt and landed on the 157 foot mark on his second.

Many Riders Tumble.

While only a few class A riders fell after taking off the slide, there were many spills in the class B competition. The snow, imported from Escanaba, Mich., was packed four feet deep on the slide and hill, but a warm sun softened the snow and riders had difficulty standing up after landing.

Two other Olympic skiers, Lemoyne Batson, Norge Ski club, and Lloyd Ellingson, University of Wisconsin, failed to finish among the leaders because of spills. Batson suffered a hip injury when he fell after making a leap of 163 feet.

Inwald Arnesen, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., won the class B title by jumping 147 and 141 feet. Lief Ingebretsen, Rockford, Ill., was second with two jumps of 138 feet and Louis Vale, also of Rockford, was third with 137 and 130 feet.

Girl in Exhibition.

Miss Johaana Kolstad, world's woman ski jumping champion from Norway, made her American debut by jumping 136, 128 and 125 feet in three attempts in an exhibition.

Karl Nielsen, Norge Ski club, jumped 103 and 99 feet to win the senior class competition. Arvid Bakke, Milwaukee-Oconomowoc [Wis.] club, was second with 98 and 103 feet, and Alf Johnson, Norge club, was third with 91 and 85 feet.

The class C title was won by John Oliver, Minneapolis, Minn., with leaps of 104 and 101 feet. Buddy Engedahl, Norge Ski club, made one of the longest jumps in this competition, but fell. Orris Wingsness, Chicago, was second with 89 and 85 feet. The point leaders in each class follow:

WISCONSIN, OHIO SURVIVE WEEK'S PLAY IN BIG TEN

Michigan Ousts Illini from Three Way Tie.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The undefeated triumvirate of conference basketball was broken up Saturday night by Michigan which whipped Illinois, 35 to 30. Tonight the surviving leaders, Ohio State and Wisconsin, will be put to further test with the probable result that at least one of the quintets will drop from its perfect percentage mark.

Wisconsin will meet Northwestern at Patten gymnasium. While the Wildcats are considered favorites, if for no other reason than they are on home territory, the Badgers evidently are much improved. Saturday Wisconsin nosed out Indiana at Bloomington, 38 to 37, reaching its scoring peak for the season. In previous games Wisconsin defeated Chicago, 26 to 17, and Iowa, 21 to 19.

Purple Are Annoying.

Iowa's brilliant rally Saturday, after trailing, 15 to 4, at one time in the first half, gave Purdue its second successive set back, 35 to 33. By this comparison Wisconsin's stock should be marked up several points.

Northwestern always has been difficult for Wisconsin. Last year Northwestern won the opening game of the season on its home court, 31 to 30, in an overtime period. At Madison Northwestern again won, 28 to 24. Wisconsin usually is a good free throwing team and it is expected to match Northwestern's ability in this all important department. Knake, Wisconsin's center, also is a scoring threat and he possesses the necessary size to cope with Reiff and Johnson under the backboard.

Coach Lonborg hopes to have Marvin Moonshower back tonight. Moonshower was injured a week ago and did not put on a suit for the Chicago game Saturday. Don Brewer also will be able to play, although his ankle, which he sprained in the first half at Chicago, may slow him up. Sam Rosenfeld, who replaced Brewer, played a good floor game, but his nervousness under the basket tossed away at least two easy field goals, which Northwestern didn't need as it ran up the season's record total of 52 points.

Reiff Seeks Title.

Northwestern led Chicago, 38 to 7, with 10 minutes of the second half remaining to play. The final score of 52 to 24 was established by four substitutes and Capt. Joe Reiff, who stayed in the game to ring up 29 points in his drive to regain the individual scoring title. Two years ago Reiff led the conference, but last season Johnny Wooden of Purdue won individual honors, setting a new record.

Reiff's remarkable performance Saturday night gave him a total of 46 points for the three conference games and put him 17 points ahead of his nearest competitors, Bennett of Illinois, and Heavenridge of Indiana, who are tied for second place with 17 points. Kellar of Purdue is fourth with 24.

If Ohio State defeats Illinois tonight at Columbus the Buckeyes have every reason to believe they will finish at least with a tie for the championship. Ohio State lost one practice game, 40 to 38, to Ohio Wesleyan. With the opening of the Big Ten race, Ohio beat Indiana, 35 to 28, and Saturday night licked Minnesota, 43 to 28. Ohio had the game under control in the second half and all 12 players on the squad got into the lineup. Hosket, at center, who scored 12 points, apparently has proved to be the player needed to weld the veteran guards and forwards into a championship threat.

Iowa Plays Chicago.

Ohio State does not meet Northwestern, Chicago, or Michigan this season.

Iowa plays at the Midway tonight with the certainty it will add another victory to the one gained at Lafayette Saturday.

Minnesota stops off at Purdue on the way home with fair hope of winning. At Minneapolis Purdue beat the Gophers, 42 to 32, principally because Norm Cottom scored six field goals in

HELEN BINA AND STUNDL CAPTURE SKATING TITLES

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15.—Helen Bina of Chicago, captain of the United States women's Olympic team last year, and Eddie Stundl, also of Chicago, led skaters in an ice carnival today.

Miss Bina won every final race for women, and carried off the women's open championship, triumphing over such St. Louis stars as Charleen Power and Elsie Laskowitz. Miss Bina ran up a total of 90 points, Miss Power finished second with 40 points, Miss Laskowitz third with 30 points, and Eleanor Thiel of Chicago fourth, with 20 points.

Stundl, who holds the world record for 500 meters, made 50 points in winning the men's open championship. Wilbur Marks, also of Chicago, was second with 40 points.

Stundl set the only new record by winning the sprint final, the one-sixth mile open, in 28.4, or two-tenths of a second under the old record.

Newspapers Make Good Skating Garb, Jaffee Finds

This is the sixth of a series of articles on ice skating by Irving Jaffee, holder of three Olympic championships and the world's professional title, designed to aid all entrants in The Tribune's Silver Skates Derbies, to be held at Garfield park Jan. 21 and 22. Jaffee won the New York Daily News' Senior Silver Skates in 1926, the Olympic 5,000 meters title in 1928, the Olympic 5,000 and 10,000 meter races in 1932, and the world's professional championship two weeks ago. He also holds the world's amateur record for the mile. Readers wishing to obtain any information on ice skating should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Irving Jaffee, Chicago Tribune Sports Department, Tribune Tower.

BY IRVING JAFFEE.

The care of skates and other equipment is of great importance to all TRIBUNE Silver Skates seekers who will compete at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday. A baseball player with a cracked bat cannot hit home runs, nor can a runner with poor shoes be at his best.

The first thing of importance is the type of clothing to wear. It is to be assumed the weather will be windy and cold. Therefore extra effort should be made to keep the body as comfortable as possible. Wear woolen undergarments and woolen jerseys, an tights are preferable if available. Although a close fitting uniform is very attractive, it may be injurious to the athlete, who must have freedom of body.

Ever Try This?

Entrants should practice skating in the costume they intend to wear in the race, so that it will fit comfortably and not hinder them in performing to the best of their ability.

I have skated in many cold localities throughout the world. There is one experience in particular I should like

Cubs Purchase Harvey Hendrick for Utility Role

Harvey Hendrick, veteran infielder and outfielder, who dropped back into the minor leagues last week after traveling around the majors for ten years, was purchased by the Cubs yesterday from the Columbus club of the American association. The Cubs paid cash no players being involved in the deal.

Hendrick, who is 35 years old, will substitute for Manager Charley Grimm at first base, play in the outfield when needed, and serve as pinch hitter, Secretary Bob Lewis, who announced the purchase, said.

Hendrick made his first appearance in the majors with the Boston Red Sox in 1922, but was sent to Galveston early in the season. He bobbed back with the Yankees in 1923 and played two seasons in New York, going to Cleveland in 1925. He then spent two more years in the minors with Providence in the International league and New Orleans in the Southern association, before he showed up with Brooklyn.

As one of the Dodgers' coterie of sluggers he starred for three years, hitting well over .300, but when he dropped to .257 in 1930, the Dodgers traded him to Cincinnati, where he played first base in 1931, and batted .316.

Last season he shuttled back and forth between the Reds and the Cardinals, in the amazing series of trades between those two clubs, ending the year with Cincinnati. His batting average was .293. Last week he was sold to Columbus.

For his eight years in the majors he has an all time batting average of .313.

KIECKHEFER TO OPEN DEFENSE OF TITLE TONIGHT

Billiard Champion 7-10 Choice Over Jackson.

BY FRENCH LANE.

On the night before the lights blaze forth on the beginning of the world's three cushion billiard championship tournament at 131 South Wabash avenue, Aurie Kieckhefer, ten times winner of the title, and the man whose throne is at stake, had lost none of his popularity.

Close students of this most difficult and scientific of all forms of billiards joined last night with the boys in the loop who have followed Kieckhefer's meteoric rise from the position of an obscure "pool" player to that of the most sensational cueist of the day, and made him the favorite. The odds were 3 to 1 that he will fight his way through eighteen days of play and come out of the scramble with his eleventh championship.

Meets Jackson in First Game.

Kieckhefer, back from a week of recreation in the Wisconsin woods, played in dazzling form before a group of admirers yesterday as he tuned up for the opening match, which sends him into action against Clarence Jackson of Detroit shortly after 8 o'clock tonight. He appeared more of a wizard than ever and no shot seemed too difficult for him. He was the 7 to 10 favorite to beat Jackson.

From the talk one could hear yesterday and last night among the billiard fans and betting men, the second choice to capture the title will be Welker Cochran of Hollywood. He won his fame as a balk line billiard player. This will be his first invasion of the three cushion ranks. He played amazing three cushions to win the Pacific coast championship a few weeks ago which qualified him for this fling at the title.

The two old three cushion war horses, Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., and Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, both former champions, also have been playing better than they did a year ago. The younger boys, Allen Hall, Arthur Thurnblad, and Jay Bozeman, have appeared in top form in some of their warm-up games. So have Frank Scoville, the eastern champion; Tiff Denton of Kansas City, and lastly Jackson, who has drawn the tough assignment of squaring away against the champion in the first of the 45 game championship marathon.

Three Games a Day.

After the Kieckhefer-Jackson match tonight, three games will be played each day, two in the afternoon and one at night. Attendance records were broken at the tournament a year ago and the ticket sale again indicated a packed house about the time the champion and his rival are introduced this evening.

During the boom days a three cushion championship for a year was usually valued around $50,000. It may be worth that much to the next champion. He gets $5,000 as a cash prize, 15 per cent of the gate receipts, which give him another $5,000, and a diamond medal. Champions usually take in upwards of $25,000 over a twelve month period of exhibition matches. It is the most valuable prize in billiards.

C. Y. O. CHAMPS LEAVE TOMORROW ON PANAMA TRIP

Eight Chicago boys, boxing champions of the Catholic Youth organization, will leave tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. from the Union station, en route to Panama, where they will meet a team representing the Panama submarine base on Feb. 1.

The eight young boxers, in charge of the Rev. Gerald P. Scanlon and Max Marek, team captain, will sail from New York Thursday on the United Fruit liner Calimares, making stopovers at Havana, Cuba, and at Spanish Honduras. Bishop B. J. Sheil, founder of the C. Y. O., and sponsor of the present trip, will see the boys off from New York.

Although rigid training rules will be enforced on the trip in preparation for the matches to be held at Cristobal, Canal Zone, the trip is a reward for the champions.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The old "too many Cooks" gag was dramatized at the Stadium last night to the great distress of the Blackhawks, who were scorched by the New York Rangers, 5 to 0. The first three goals wer executed by the Cook brothers, Bun and Bill, who graciously retired just before the contest ended, allowing Earl Seibert to register a goal in the final minute and Asmundson to add the fifth 15 seconds before the rout ended.

The riotous outbreak broke the three way tie for first place in the American division of the National Hockey league, installing the Rangers in first place when Detroit dropped to second place because of a 1 to 1 tie with the Americans, and Boston to third place through idleness. And the Hawks, poor fellows, fortified their cellar tenancy by dropping to eight points back of the leaders.

New Manager Makes Debut.

It was the first game under the direction of the Hawks' new manager, Tom Gorman, who shifted the Hawks in an effort to devise winning combinations, but in vain. The two goals in the final minute were made easy because the Hawks at the time were playing a five man offensive.

The manipulation of the forward lines of both teams was something of an innovation. The Cooks and Boucher worked far beyond their usual quota of minutes and the Hawk third line did not get on the ice until the second period was one-fourth over.

It was the first Ranger victory over the Hawks in three games and the 76th consecutive game in which the Rangers have scored. The Hawks shut them out March 29 and March 31, 1931, and they haven't been goose egged since.

Helge Bostrum, burly defense man, was in a Chicago uniform again last night, having been recalled from St. Paul by Manager Gorman. Bostrum was released to the American Association team to become manager, but when the Saints failed to give him the position, Gorman ordered Helge back to the loop.

Play Starts Rough.

At the outset of the game there were indications that the boys were out for some rough amusement. When the first period reached the fourth minute, each team was playing with four men. Abel was the first to be chased, for tripping Boucher. Johnson, who was caught holding Gottselig, was next. Before the two big fellows had served their terms they were sharing their cell with March and Murdock, who had engaged in a playful little stick duel in midice.

The lads seemed to cool off after this outbreak, except that Johnson later drew a second penalty. The period came within 30 seconds of a scoreless tie. In 19:30, though, Bun Cook took the puck ten feet in front of the cage, after Earl Seibert had knocked down Goalie Gardiner with a shot. With Gardiner out of position, Bun had little difficulty in pitching the goal.

Cook Fools Gardiner.

Bun Cook required no assistance in ringing up his second goal in 2:45 of the second period. Bun carried the puck down along his left boards, curved in front of the nets and completely deceived Gardiner with a backward flip that sailed to Chuck's right, whereas the Hawk goalie apparently was expecting Bun to try for the opposite side.

At the halfway point in this period Referee Jerry Goodman was given a fruit shower by the fans who didn't approve of some whistle tooting that broke of a promising Hawk rally.

The goalies were a bit busier in this period. Aitkenhead had 12 saves as compared with four in the first period and Gardiner stopped 10 shots as compared with 4 in the opening heat.

Three More Goals.

In 8:18 of the third period both Cook brothers got hold of the puck. Bun passed to Brother Bill and Bill slammed in New York goal No. 3.

Earl Seibert accounted for the fourth Ranger goal in 19:10 unassisted. In 35 seconds after this, Asmundson scored the fifth New York goal on an assist by Keeling. The Hawks were leaving their zone undefended during the time of these last two scores.

ENTRIES CLOSE AT MIDNIGHT FOR TRIBUNE DERBIES

Those Postmarked Before Deadline Will Count.

This is the last opportunity to enter the sixteenth annual Silver Skates derbies. Entries close at midnight. However, all letters received tomorrow postmarked before the deadline will be accepted.

Yesterday's warm weather, of course, is discouraging, considering that several days of freezing temperatures are necessary to permit skating on the Garfield park lagoon. If at all possible the meet will be held Saturday and Sunday. The location may be shifted, since any flooded surface requires only day of cold weather to freeze and involves no risk to the contestants.

Henry Playground Enters 82.

John A. Mock, for 17 years instructor at the Henry playground, who is one of skating's most ardent supporters, has sent in his usual team entries. This year Mock has chosen 82 boys who are divided among the five Silver Skates derbies as follows: Boys' midget, 14; boys' juvenile, 17; boys' junior 18; boys' intermediate, 24, and men's senior, 19.

Earl W. Solem, coach of the Romme Athletic club, has entered boys in three derbies. Leading his list of skaters is Art Conroy, who previously has won two Silver Skates races. Conroy will compete in the mens' senior division. His other championships were in the boys' junior and boys' intermediate classes.

H. M. O'Malley and Henry Meyer instructors at Ryerson playground, 640 North Lawndale avenue, have filed entries in four derbies for boys and girls' junior divisions. The team totals 32 boys and 20 girls.

Victorians Seek Team Trophy.

The Leonard Victorians Skating club, sponsored by Leonard M. Ryan and coached by Eddie Schroeder, now in Norway with an American skating team, also is seeking the Eckersall trophy, which will be awarded the team champion. The entry was sent in by George Glass, team manager.

The boys' team entry from Brentano playground has been filed by William H. Horschke, instructor. Brentano will be represented in all classes. Five of the boys are brothers—Kenneth, Warren, Franklin, Armand, and William Jones—all of whom have competed in several former Silver Skates derbies.

Forty-three boys from the Oakland board of education playground, 40th street and Langley avenue, were registered yesterday by Charles S. Williams, director. It is the first team Oakland has entered in Silver Skates competition, but Director Williams is confident that several of the 35 prizes will be won by his team, particularly in the midget and juvenile divisions.

Jaffee Finds Papers Keep Skaters Warm

to relate for what assistance it might give skaters should a very cold and windy day greet THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates races. This occurred at Saranac Lake a year ago at the national championships.

We encountered a very windy and bitter cold day. I was traveling with very light equipment, and I did not have the proper clothing to keep me warm during the races. In my dressing room a very elderly gentleman prepared to watch the races. He was placing newspapers over his body, from his chest down his legs to the tips of his toes. He also placed pages of newspaper in his shoes.

I decided to do the same thing, and you can believe me I felt as warm as if I had been wearing four or five raccoon coats. The beauty of the trick is that you don't have to carry any bothersome extra weight clothing.

First in importance in the care of skates is that the skate shoes be of fairly pliable leather, so that they fit as snugly as possible without being too small for comfort. As much support as possible must be around the ankles, instep, and ball of the foot. This relieves strain the ankles must endure when skating around the sharp turns.

If the shoes are a little stiff a few drops of thin oil rubbed in good will soften the leather. Shoes should never be more than three inches higher than the ankles or otherwise they will hinder the circulation and handicap one's skating. The toes of the shoes should always be comfortable. Squeezing the toes hinders circulation and as a natural consequence toes become cold. Thus skaters freeze the toes in extrmely cold weather.

Make sure the shoelaces are always pliable and never too heavy. They must fit the eyelets smoothly. Also check on the condition of the laces. Many an event has been lost because shoelaces break and the skater loses his balance, often falling in a race.

Tubular Skates Best.

The only skate to use for speed races are the long tubular type. They give one the opportunity to take long strokes, which enhances speed. These skates are usually the lightest type of equipment for racing, weight being of great importance in competition. The less weight one carries the less likelihood there is of getting tired. The length of the skate blade will have to vary with the size of the shoe.

A girl skater should wear from a 15 inch blade up to one 15½ or 15¾ inches in length. A boy under 12 should have about a 12 inch blade. The senior men and women should not wear longer than a 16½ inch blade, because the Silver Skate events are held on a six lap or a mile course. Skates too long will hinder one's speed around the sharp turns.

Previously I stressed the importance of a sharp blade or edge. By all means don't attempt to enter these Silver Skates races without being absolutely certain your skates are sharp. I sharpen my skates with the aid of a pair of blocks and an oil carborundum stone. If such an outfit is not available, skaters should go to expert skate sharpeners.

CHICAGOANS SEE ALL-STAR TEAM AND DROP GUNS

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago and the state of Illinois long have been known as the home of of the most expert trap shots in the country. Some of them have won high honors in competition. Moreover, in the Lincoln Park club, Illinois has one of the most aggressive organizations in the state that is promoting the sport of breaking clay pigeons.

But after looking at the personnel of the so-called All-American Skeet team many shooters in the state are wondering what is the matter with Chicago and Illinois in the skeet shooting game. On the All-American team not one Chicago trap shot nor any trap shot in the state of Illinois is mentioned. This part of the country apparently hasn't turned out any target breakers who are very proficient in comparatively new sport of skeet, a sport which calls for the shooting of clay targets at various tricky angles.

Here's "Five Horsemen."

Looking over the "Five Horsemen of Skeet" we find that Texas, New Jersey and Massachusetts, grab the honors because the five skeet shots on the All-American team come from these states. Even the second team chosen a few weeks ago passes up Illinois and Chicago shooters. California, Massachusetts, Michigan and Texas furnish the shooters for the second team. In fact, the shooters who receive honorable mention for their ability in breaking skeet targets also fail to call Illinois their home because in this, the third rating group of skeet shooters, Texas, Connecticut, New York and Ohio take the honors.

The 20 gauge shot gun enthusiasts are bound to get considerable satisfaction from the manner in which the committee selected the five outstanding skeet shots for the year 1932 because one of the considerations observed in ranking a man involved the bore of the gun which the shooter used during the year. The committee held that a man who won or placed near the top in skeet shooting competition when using a 20 gauge was a better shot than if he did it with a 12 gauge. So the third question involved in considering a champion skeet shot was: What gauge does the shooter use?

Hathaway Real All-American.

N. T. McCollum of Dallas, Tex.; Peg Melton of Houston, Tex.; Arthur Strahlendorf of West Englewood, N. J.; Harry C. Hathaway of Dighton, Mass.; and Oliver Mitchell of Waltham, Mass., were selected as the members of the 1932 All-America skeet team. Hathaway's record for the year demonstrates his versatility and also shows that some of the crack shots go "down" to the .410 gauge for a thrill at the traps.

Hathaway won major honors in 1932 both with his 16 gauge and his .410. In the Massachusetts championship he broke 90 out of 100 with a .410 gauge gun.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

DO YOU REMEMBER WAY BACK WHEN:

STATE STREET cars were drawn by one horse and there was a turntable at Lake street on which the car was driven and the horse pulled the table around to change the direction; there was no conductor, but a cash box back of the driver and he had envelopes marked "Change for 25 cents," 50 cents or $1 in exchange for coin or bill, out of which you took the nickel to pay your fare [1866]?—J. H. P., Cicero, Ill.

New Year's came around and you paid up all your bills, you always got a treat at your groceryman's, but if you were a cash customer, paying in full for every purchase, nothing doing?—Robert B. Hill, Janesville, Wis.

Everybody in town kept a cow, a few pigs, a big flock of chickens, and "made garden" in early spring?—D. Aydelotte.

Entries Close Today in I.A.C. Ring Tourney

Entries will close today for the annual Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing championships, which will open at the club gymnasium Wednesday night when preliminaries will be held in the eight weight divisions. Semifinals and finals will be contested on Thursday. Johnny Behr, I. A. C. athletic director, reports a large individual and team entry.

It appears that the team trophy will rest between Trafton's gymnasium and the Catholic Youth organization. Twelve boxers will represent Trafton's gymnasium and 16 will fight for the C. Y. O. Frankie Sanello, Central A. A. U. flyweight champion; Al Garcia, lightweight; Benny Barriah, featherweight, and Willie Moucci, heavyweight, are Trafton's best representatives. The outstanding C. Y. O. contestants are Frank Ketter, San Francisco-Chicago heavyweight winner; Harry Booker, national Catholic featherweight champion, and Charles Wozniak, Los Angeles-Chicago middleweight victor.

Johnny Phagan, 1932 international Golden Gloves welterweight champion, will face a test in a six round bout against Harry Schuman of the west side at the Cicero stadium Friday night. Schuman has won 30 matches out of 31 as a professional boxer. Phagan is undefeated since he turned pro last summer, but was held to a draw by Solly Dukelsky at White City. Dukelsky was beaten by Schuman. Two other bouts at six rounds and four at four completes the card.

Mickey O'Shea, north side welterweight, and Einar Hedquist of the west side will clash in a five round match at the Midway arena tomorrow. This will be their second meeting. O'Shea won the first. Mickey knocked out Jerry Kucera and whipped Les Darcy in his latest contests.

Solly Dukelsky and Puggy Weinert will fight for the second time in a six round match at Sammy Wolff's arena at 116 Madison street tomorrow night. They boxed a draw at Cicero on New Year's day. Duffy Dvonch will make his pro debut against Charley Young in a four round contest on the card.

SPARTA RALLY TRIUMPHS, 4-2, OVER ALL-STARS

The Sparta soccer team, professional league champions, came from behind to defeat an all star amateur eleven, 4 to 2, yesterday at Sparta stadium, 21st and Kostner avenue.

The all star team, composed of players from the International league, scored two goals early in the first period and held a 2 to 1 advantage at the half. Shortly after the second period started Myrnka tied the score from a penalty kick. Matus put Sparta in the lead with a long kick in front of the goal and with a few minutes Turik scored the fourth goal.

The Brickies defeated the Ravenswood Scots, 4 to 0, yesterday in a return match at Kappenheimer stadium, 18th and Keeler avenue. The Brickies scored two goals in both periods.

In other games the Sparta second team defeated Gulati, 3 to 1, and Judean Leaders shut out the British Legion, 7 to 0.

PURPLE MATMEN MEET ILLINOIS SQUAD TODAY

Northwestern's wrestling team will meet Illinois at Patten gymnasium this afternoon. The meet will start at 4 o'clock. Both teams opened the season with victories last Saturday, the Illini defeating Minnesota and Northwestern the Maroons.

Pug Rentner, voted the most valuable member of the Northwestern football team last fall, will be presented with THE TRIBUNE'S silver football between halves of the Northwestern-Wisconsin basketball game tonight.

The award will be made by Harvey T. Wood

PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICES RECEIVE 1,027,051 CALLS

Meet Variety of Tribune Readers' Needs.

More than 1,000,000 services for TRIBUNE readers were performed during 1932 by this newspaper's advertising and public service offices.

A report completed yesterday revealed that specialized services performed by the resorts and travel bureau, automobile touring bureau, school information bureau, and income tax bureau, supplemented by services falling into eighteen classifications rendered by the general information section, totaled 1,027,051 for the year.

111,000 Given Travel Aid.

"The resort and travel bureau, with the automobile touring bureau, assisted 111,000 patrons, enough to have filled 209 Pullman trains of twenty cars each," said John F. Gillespie, head of the Public Service office. "Readers who called at the Public Service office were enough to populate Alaska, Delaware, Nevada, and Kendall county, Ill., with some to spare, while school information was given to persons in excess of the combined enrollments of the Universities of Mississippi, Maryland, Maine, Dayton, Dubuque, Chattanooga, South Dakota, and Georgetown.

"During the filing period in 1932 a total of 12,720 persons or business establishment representatives received complete tax service, including the counsel of tax experts and free notarization of returns. The number of veterans who had not previously borrowed on their adjusted compensation and who filed applications for loans at the Public Service office last year is approximately equal to the number who entered the world war from Nevada.

122,000 Phone Inquiries.

"During the year 122,000 inquiries were received by telephone and 27,137 by mail, revealing a wide variety of information wanted," said Mr. Gillespie. Among these were such questions as:

Where can I buy canned rattlesnake meat?
What is the presidential succession?
What makes the ring around the moon tonight?
What is the life expectation of Eskimos?
What is the maximum speed in flight for the wild duck?
Do aliens coming to Chicago have to go to Goose island as they do in Ellis island in New York?
What's the Gaelic word for corned beef and cabbage?
What is the nationality of a child born on high seas?
What is the formula for saltpeter?

Mr. Gillespie said that many times a day the office is called on the telephone by secretaries and stenographers who ask in muted tones to be reassured about the spelling of a word, or the grammatical correctness of a sentence.

Among other services rendered was the cooperation of the Public Service office with the sports department through the sale of 24,300 tickets to the Golden Gloves boxing tournament, and with the editorial department through the sale of 25,000 tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival. The Goodfellow bureau at Christmas performed 4,726 services.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item quoted Mrs. Albert W. Dilling as saying that circulars advertising a speech of Romania Ferguson, alleged Red agitator, were given out at a meeting of the American Civil Liberties union Friday in Evanston. Thomas M. McKenna, secretary of the American Civil Liberties union, said yesterday that the circulars were distributed on the sidewalk outside the meeting.

DEPUTY CORONER CONERTY DEAD OF PNEUMONIA

Deputy Coroner Raymond Conerty, 31 years old, died yesterday in the Wesley Memorial hospital of pneumonia which followed a cold. For the last week physicians had kept him in an oxygen tent in an effort to save his life.

Conerty was graduated by St. Gabriel's high school before he was 17. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the marines and saw service in Constantinople, Cairo and Palestine.

On his return to Chicago he studied law at De Paul university. He was an investigator for the city attorney's office under Mayor Dever. Four years ago he was named a deputy coroner. He is survived by his parents, a sister and an older brother.

SIR ROBERT JONES DIES; ORTHOPEDIC SURGEON OF NOTE

[Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Sir Robert Jones, generally regarded as the greatest orthopedic surgeon in the world, died yesterday at Llanfechain, Wales, at the age of 74.

He was credited with having accomplished for this branch of surgery what Lord Lister achieved for surgery in general and Mansion for tropical medicine. Early in his career the title of "white magic" was applied to his work, for he restored limbs to babies which without his help would have remained hopelessly crippled.

His work in curing victims of infantile paralysis was recognised all over the world, and for years his reputation was greater in the United States than in his own country.

Night Coughs

Nothing stops a night cough as quickly as Piso's. For Piso's does the needed things. Swallowed slowly it clings to the throat, soothes inflamed tissues, and loosens the mucus. Working internally Piso's destroys the cold germs and breaks up infection. Contains no opiates. Safe for children. 35c and 60c sizes, all druggists.

A. A. PARTLOW, EX-JUDGE, DIES AT DANVILLE

Danville, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A. A. Partlow, former Illinois Supreme court commissioner and former judge of the Appellate court of the Second district at Ottawa, died at his home here today. He was 64 years old.

Judge Partlow was elected to the Circuit court bench in 1915, and served as a member of that court until 1927. During the last six years of his judicial career he sat on the Appellate court. From 1927 until last summer he served as a Supreme court commissioner. Blindness caused his retirement from that office last July.

Judge Partlow was a leader in the Knights of Pythias. In 1915 and 1916 he was grand chancellor of the society, and since 1921 had been supreme representative from Illinois. Funeral services will be held Tuesday. Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. I. Ray Carter.

Dies Delivering Address to Knights of St. John

A. N. Brown, 76, Veteran Annapolis Professor, Dies

Miami, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Arthur Newton Brown, 76, for 35 years professor of English and librarian at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, died last night of a heart attack at his home in Coconut Grove.

PILE SUFFERERS LIVE IN SHADOW OF THE KNIFE!

If you want to be rid of the torment of piles without an operation, throw away your laxative drugs. Generally it is abuse and neglect of your bowels that causes bleeding, itching, aching piles in the first place, and as long as you continue to irritate the delicate membranes with laxatives you are living in the very shadow of the surgeon's knife.

Start Cream of Nujol treatment instead, stop the irritation, and take the first step toward the relief of pile suffering.

This new form of Nujol is specially suited to sufferers from piles. It soothes and heals the delicate bowel membranes and makes you as regular as clockwork without any interference with your work or play.

It is delicious to take, and will cost you only a few cents a day. Buy it at any drug counter.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP OF MILWAUKEE IS DEAD AT 75

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 15.—The Rt. Rev. William Walker Webb, 75, bishop of the Milwaukee diocese of the Episcopal church, fell dead at his home here tonight.

Death was unexpected. He had just returned to his home after having dined with a friend. He collapsed in a reception hall while conversing with the Rt. Rev. Benjamin F. R. Ivins, bishop coadjutor of the diocese, and the Very Rev. Archie I. Drake, dean of All Saints' cathedral.

Born at Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, Bishop Webb received his theological training at Philadelphia. Ordained a priest in 1886, he served as rector of St. Elizabeth's church at Philadelphia until 1889.

In 1892 he joined the faculty of the Nashotah Theological seminary at Nashotah, Wis., as professor of dogmatic theology. Five years later he became president of the seminary, a post he held until 1905, when he became bishop coadjutor of the Milwaukee diocese. He became bishop a few months later.

MINNIE EGENER, OPERATIC STAR, DIES IN GOTHAM

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Minnie Egener, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan Opera association and wife of Louis Hasselmans, the Metropolitan's leading French conductor, died at her home tonight. She had been ill for several weeks with double pneumonia and double pleurisy. She was 49 years old.

Miss Egener was born in Rotterdam Holland, and was brought to this country at the age of two. She started her operatic career in the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera company.

She then joined the Chicago Opera company as an artist. While in Chicago she married Hasselmans, who was then a conductor in that city. She became one of the Metropolitan's most reliable and best liked singers.

GRAIN TRADERS WATCH FARM BILL'S PROGRESS

World Market Also Offers Puzzles.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders generally lean to the constructive side of the market, believing prices are so low, there is no money in selling short. Prices are not expected to fall much if any more.

Indications at the close of the week were that the farm allotment bill would be likely to be defeated in the senate or vetoed by President Hoover. Passage of that bill by the house was called responsible Thursday for depressed prices equal to several million dollars on the visible supply alone, to say nothing of stocks in other positions.

Many traders favor inflation of the currency, being of the belief that it would shorten the period of business depression.

The inflation movement, with the farm allotment bill, are considered by grain men as disturbing influences.

Expect Smaller Supply Figures.

Should the grain markets be let alone, to take their natural course of supply and demand, many close students of business and market conditions believe the trend of prices would be upward. Supplies are decreasing. There is a growing impression in the grain trade that low prices have caused an immense waste and that a careful survey which is understood to be under way by the department of agriculture, will show much smaller supplies than are generally believed to exist. Prospects for the new winter wheat crop probably are the worst ever known, but harvest is too far off for it to be a pronounced bull factor at present, and forcing it on the trade for the next thirty to sixty days may not bring as favorable results as many expect.

Looking at the picture from another angle, there is the heavy marketing movement on the part of Argentina, Australia and Canada. They are supplying Europe. Leaders in the grain trade in these countries will, it is said, keep their markets liquid and dispose of their surpluses as quickly as possible. Argentine land values have been reduced to a level which makes wheat growing there so cheap that no other country can successfully compete with it in European markets.

One of the disturbing factors developed in the last week was the slackened demand for cash wheat from millers and the easing of premiums on hard winters in Chicago, in the face of probably the lightest receipts known at this season.

March wheat in Liverpool is selling at 46c. This illustrates the situation abroad and compares with 47¾c for May in Chicago, which seems entirely out of line, when freight and other costs are considered, and according to one close observer, it shows the world situation as it exists at the present time.

World Market Is Puzzling.

There are so many different elements that have a bearing on the situation that the position of the wheat trade the world over is being given closer attention perhaps than at any other time in its history. May wheat at the high point of the week was up over 8c from the recent low and closing prices on wheat futures were 47¾@47¾c on May; July, 47⅛@47⅝c, and September, 48⅛@48¼c, net losses being 1 to 1⅛c for the week. Prices follow:

Two-Sided Market in Corn.

Corn traders who believe that supplies in the country are unusually heavy are disposed to sell futures on every bulge. On the other hand, prices are so low that there are many speculators and grain handlers who believe that corn is too low to sell short. The market had a good rally in sympathy with wheat but reacted on profit taking and closed ⅝@¾c lower, May being 27¼@27c, July 28⅝@28½c, and September 29¾c.

Country holders of cash corn take advantage of sharp bulges to sell moderately, but withdraw on declines. A little export business was consummated during the week, which stimulated buying by shorts. South Africa and Argentina are selling corn to consuming countries at prices too low for American prices to successfully compete on a large scale. Prices for the week follow:

	May.	July.	September.
Monday	27¼-27⅝	28½-29	29⅝-30

Small Interest in Oats.

Cash interests are selling May oats on all bulges to hedge purchases made in the northwest. Were it not for the business that comes from that quarter there would be little in the market. Price fluctuations for the week were 17⅛c to 18c on May, and 17⅛c to 18⅝c on July, but the close was 17⅝@17¼c on May, and 17½@17⅝c on July, net losses being ⅝@½c for the week.

Rye closed 1c lower with May 35⅝c and July 34½c. A large eastern speculator has bought rye and sold wheat for several weeks past, mostly at a premium of 12c to 18c for the wheat.

Lard prices closed 25@27½c lower and bellies 25c higher for January, and 15c lower for July, as compared with a week ago, the volume of trading being only fair.

Realtors Still Puzzle Over Banquet Plans

BY AL CHASE.

To banquet or not to banquet is the question that's puzzling the members of the Chicago Real Estate board's banquet committee, headed by John R. Magill, of John R. Magill & Co. Never before in the history of the fifty year old realty organization has a contemplated banquet bumped into more puzzling problems than this one.

JOHN R. MAGILL. [Walinger Photo.]

The latest suggestion, and one which is now receiving careful consideration by Mr. Magill's committee is to give up the idea of a banquet at a loop hotel and instead celebrate the union of the Chicago and Cook County Real Estate boards with an elaborate dinner dance and reception in the Chicago Real Estate board building, 34 West Randolph street.

"The idea of having our celebration at the board headquarters instead of at a loop hotel has a good many advantages in its favor and is being carefully considered," said Mr. Magill, whose committee contains C. Charles Iversen and Aldis Jerome Browne.

Postponed Till February.

Meanwhile, no matter whether the realtors banquet at a hotel or dine in the auditorium of the Chicago Real Estate board building, the festivities will not take place this month. Owing to the state real estate convention at Oak Park next week and the annual business meeting of the National Association of Real Estate boards in Washington, D. C., the week following, it is figured a banquet held in January, as planned, would be missed by a large number of realtors. The 50th annual banquet, dinner dance or whatever it may be, therefore will be postponed until February.

If held at the real estate board building the annual celebration would be more than a mere banquet, it was pointed out by Mr. Magill; it would be somewhat in the nature of a housewarming for the new members and their wives from the Cook County Real Estate board.

And this brings the banquet situation back to its first and most bitterly contested problem—that of the ladies —"bless 'em," say some realtors. Others say something else when discussing the matter.

Old Timers Roar.

It was pointed out a few weeks ago, when the question of inviting women to the banquet first bobbed up, that as the fair sex had attended the Cook County Real Estate board banquets for two decades or more it would be a gracious gesture and in no way establish an unbreakable precedent if the wives of both realtors and real estators be invited.

The mere suggestion brought a roar of protest from a few old timers who look on the annual banquet as something sacred to the male realtor, to be approached with the dignity which only can be achieved in evening clothes and no women present—unless they be entertainers.

This attitude was met with the reply from the other side that if wives were invited the banquet would have perhaps the largest attendance in history. If they weren't asked, they argued, it might be close to a flop so far as numbers went.

AYRES DISCUSSES FACTORS SHAPING FUTURE OF U. S.

There are three sets of factors which will probably shape the course of the economic welfare of the United States in 1933, according to a survey of business conditions made for the Cleveland Trust company by Leonard P. Ayres.

The first, Mr. Ayres says, consists of financial conditions and in this division he finds the country better off than a year ago. The second set consists of business conditions and here the country is not so well off. Included in the adverse factors Mr. Ayres lists the following: Unbalanced national budget, railroad crisis, lower commodity prices, unemployment, serious municipal financial difficulties, lower wages, reduced corporate earnings, etc.

The third set, Mr. Ayres continues, is made up of elements which, while less ponderable, possibly are more important than the other two. In this is included the courage of the nation in the face of its difficulties. Here he finds the country better off than a year ago.

Pennsy Road President to Visit Mexico City

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—(AP)—President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, with three other officials of the company, will leave in about ten days on a business trip which will take them to Mexico City and Los Angeles. They will visit many of the company's off-line agencies. Atterbury will be accompanied by Elisha Lee, vice president; J. L. Eysmans, vice president in charge of traffic, and J. E. Weller, traffic manager with headquarters in Chicago.

LARGE TRUST SHOWS ASSETS OF 60 MILLION

Report Is Issued by Tri-Continental.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Tri-Continental corporation and its affiliated companies, investment trust, today made public their annual reports. Net assets at the market approximated $60,000,000.

A reversal in investment policy, said Earle Bailie, chairman of the boards of the several companies, had been decided upon in the middle of 1932. It was believed then that the industrial horizon, while still clouded, was beginning to clear. Consequently the several trusts began investing larger proportions of their assets in common stocks.

Expects Better Times.

In his letter to stockholders, Bailie said while no confident forecast for 1933 can be made "the balance of probabilities favor a year of real progress, building upon the foundations laid in the second half of 1932."

On Dec. 31 Tri-Continental corporation had 16 per cent of its assets in cash or equivalent, 29 per cent in bonds and preferred stocks, and 55 per cent in common stocks. Selected Industries, Inc., second largest of the group, had 10 per cent in cash, 23 per cent in bonds and preferred stocks, and 67 per cent in common stocks.

Tri-Continental corporation reported as of Dec. 31 total assets of $55,955,856. Investments were carried at cost of $48,429,870, which was shown as $22,594,285 above Dec. 31 market values. Net assets based on market values were equivalent to $93.13 per share of preferred stock, against $100.94 for the preferred a year ago, and 14 cents a share left over for the common. In addition it was explained that net asset value, calculated as of Jan. 11, last, was $99.19 a share.

Selected Industries, Inc., reported total assets of $45,553,961. Investments costing $40,701,415 showed a market depreciation of $16,122,525. Net assets were equivalent to $64.85 per share of its prior stock, against $74.67 the year before.

Two smaller companies showed net assets equivalent to $43.78 per share of preferred stock for the Capital Administration Co., Ltd., and $15.24 per share of capital stock of the Broad Street Investing Co., Inc.

Large Utility Holdings.

The portfolio of Tri-Continental corporation at the year-end showed, since Sept. 30, 1932, sizeable increases in stock holdings. Some small purchases of more speculative railroad bonds were also notable. Among the stock purchases were 2,200 shares of Columbia Gas & Electric, 12,900 Commonwealth & Southern warrants, 2,600 Pennsylvania railroad, 2,000 American Smelting & Refining, 2,500, each, General American Tank Car, General Electric and Montgomery Ward; 3,800 Noranda, 4,800 Blue Ridge corporation, and 5,400 U. S. & Foreign Securities.

Selected Industries, Inc., listed among its greater increases in stock holdings for the same period, 6,300 Columbia Gas & Electric, 13,200 Commonwealth & Southern warrants, 10,100 National Power & Light, 5,200 Niagara Hudson Power, 3,500 Public Service of New Jersey, 2,000 Santa Fe, 4,000 New Haven, 4,300 Pennsylvania, 6,700 Union Pacific, 4,500 Allied Chemical, 5,000 Continental Can, 3,350 Eastman Kodak, 3,000 General Electric 2,700 Loew's, 3,500 Montgomery Ward, 4,800 Noranda, 2,500 J. C. Penny, and 2,900 Timken Roller Bearing.

ALTON'S SHOPS FORCE WILL BE NEARLY NORMAL

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Plans were announced today by C. M. House, superintendent of motive power and equipment, for the employment of 150 additional men in the Alton railroad locomotive shops, beginning Feb. 1, bringing the working force up to 500 men on a part time basis. The 15 days a month work schedule will be continued. This increase in the pay roll will bring the number of employed up to nearly normal, though operating on a part time basis.

Growers and Shippers Open Joint Meeting Today

A joint convention of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association, the National League of Commission Merchants and the Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association will start today at the Palmer house. Hundreds of growers and shippers from all parts of the country will attend. One of the largest delegations, comprising almost seventy men, will arrive over the Burlington road at the Union station this morning. They left Kansas City last night. C. R. Godding of Oak Park is general chairman of the joint convention.

Team, Motor Truck Owners to Hold Annual Meet Here

Announcement was made yesterday by John Broderick, president of the Cartage Exchange of Chicago, that the National Team and Motor Truck Owners' association will hold its annual convention in Chicago on July 17 and 18. James M. Naye, president of the national association, and Joseph P. Cavanaugh, both of Philadelphia, have been in Chicago to discuss the convention plans. The national association has from 500 to 700 members, most of whom work with the railroads through transfer work at the terminals.

CLASSIFY 85,158 IDLE FOR 'SHARE WORK' SURVEY

191 Vocations Found on Relief Rolls.

Members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association will be asked to survey employment needs in their industries this week, in order to extend the application of the share the work movement, James L. Donnelly, executive secretary, announced yesterday, when a classification of the former employment of 89,158 persons on the relief rolls was made public.

Mr. Donnelly said that the classification represents a cross section of the idle in Cook county, who were estimated to number about 300,000 by statisticians of the Illinois emergency relief commission.

List 191 Types of Jobs.

The classification was prepared by J. W. Bergthold of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, and was compiled up to Dec. 15. The classification includes 191 types of employment, as follows:

DETROIT EDISON CO. REPORTS NET INCOME OF $6,632,338 FOR '32

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—The report of the Detroit Edison company for last year shows a net income of $6,632,338 after all taxes, charges and depreciation, equal to $5.21 a share on 1,272,260 shares of stock, against $9,929,136, after deducting $1,500,000 depreciation applied from surplus, or $7.80 a share, earned in 1931. Total depreciation charged in each year was $5,500,000. Gross earnings were $44,070,031, against $49,232,501 in 1931, a decline of 10.4 per cent.

"The year 1932 was not of good earnings," Alex Dow, president, says in his report. "It was the third consecutive year in which earnings were less than in the preceding year and the only time in the company's history in which it has been necessary to report such a succession."

Revenue from sale of domestic electric service has nearly held its own, Mr. Dow says, despite the fact that about 9,000 homes have been closed temporarily because of lack of wages by former occupants.

"Looking only at the later months of the year 1932," he continues, "we observe in these months an uninterrupted increase in the use of industrial power in our territory; far from enough to imply the conditions of past busy years, but nevertheless exceeding in duration and in magnitude any of the intermittant and temporary increases that have happened since 1929. This may not mark a change in the trend of events, but it is not discouraging."

TECHNOCRACY TO BE DISCUSSED BY PLUMBERS

The effect of technocracy on the plumbing industry will be one of the chief topics to be discussed at the fortieth annual convention of the Illinois Master Plumbers' association at a three day convention to be held at the Congress hotel starting at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, Jan. 17. Henry P. Reger of Chicago, president, says that about four hundred plumbing contractors are expected to attend the convention. Mayor Cermak will welcome the plumbers to Chicago on Tuesday morning. Joel I. Connolly, chief of the Chicago Bureau of Public Health Engineering, will talk on "The Relation of Plumbing to Public Health."

LATIN AMERICAN CREDIT REPORTED LESS FAVORABLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—Credit and collection conditions in Latin-American countries revealed unfavorable trends late in 1932, according to the quarterly survey of trade conditions in these countries by the foreign credit interchange bureau. Declines were observed in a majority of the twenty-one countries surveyed, the bureau explained, and served to offset to some extent the improvements which were registered in the second and third quarters of the year.

So far as credit conditions were concerned, the report said that improvement was shown in only three countries, Mexico, Venezuela, and the Dominican Republic.

GERMAN EXPERT CALLS FOR 'SHOT' OF BUYING POWER

Says Credit Needed to Revive Business.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Germany has reached the stage of convalescence from the depression when it needs a good "shot" of purchasing power to prevent a relapse, Prof. Werner Sombart, one of the nation's leading economists and sociologists, declared today.

The government and its reichsbank must be the agent, he said. It must arouse dormant basic industries, especially agriculture, by creating credit—plenty of credit. One billion dollars worth would be good for a start, he suggested.

Unmoved by Alarmists.

Prof. Sombart, who is the author of many volumes tracing the development of German capitalism, looks unafraid upon the alarmist arguments broached by anti-inflationists. Nor is he frightened by memories of the terrific inflation in post-war Germany when the mark catapulted from par virtually to zero in terms of foreign exchange. There is more than one kind of inflation, he pointed out.

Fingering his goatee, Prof. Sombart went on to outline his theory of how so coax business around the corner.

Heavy interest payments on foreign debts meant another great drain of buying power, he said.

Must Find Substitute.

"Now," he continued, "we in Germany must provide a substitute for this lost purchasing power. We must create credit. Credit creation is exactly what happens in every business boom. The banks all create new means of payment and new money when they extend credits in excess of their actual capital and deposits, and no one takes it amiss. The same thing is necessary to provide the ascent from the depression."

It is important, however, the professor emphasized, that this new money be invested wisely. It must be used, he said, to prime the basic industries. For this reason he looked with some misgiving upon the proposal announced recently by Guenther Gereke, commissioner for reemployment, to loan $12,500,000 to German municipalities on easy terms for construction jobs.

"Begin with Agriculture."

"The big construction program which I favor," declared Prof. Sombart," must begin above all with agriculture. Millions of Germans must learn to rely on the land, not on exports, for their subsistence. Agriculture must be made increasingly productive, for the nation will have to depend more and more upon it in the future. Export possibilities are melting away like snow under a spring sun. Colonial territories are more and more supplying their own wants. We must become self-sufficient."

"Do you think a revival could be stimulated which would compare with past peaks of German prosperity?" Prof. Sombart was asked.

"As for the prosperity of 1927 and 1928, that was a mere flareup," he replied. "It was no real gain—just a straw fire ignited by borrowings from abroad. But if you mean the upswings of German industry before the war, then—no. That stage of development is gone forever.

"The present situation is not simply a consequence of the war. The war merely hastened its development. We must, therefore, readjust our lives to the new conditions. We will have to dispense with the fancy trimmings and concentrate on the basic essentials."

AUTO MAKERS BRING AID TO STEEL MILLS

Cleveland, O., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Steel production last week spurted one and a half points to 17 per cent, the magazine Steel said today. This was the highest rate since the last week in November and two full points above the average for December.

"Continued substantial releases from the automotive industry were a factor," that magazine said in its weekly review, "and while the sheet and strip mills, which are the chief beneficiary of this business, are operating on day to day schedules, there is reasonable assurance of good volume through the remainder of January."

Much of the improvement, the magazine said, followed passing of the holiday and year-end influence.

Tin Plate Business Better.

"No small support was contributed to the tin plate mills, which last week expanded their operations five points, as in each of the two preceding weeks, going to an average of 60 per cent for the entire industry. Some independent tin mills were engaged more than 60 per cent.

"The decline of only 161 tons in the Steel corporation's unfilled orders of Dec. 31 is evidence of the turn. Only the Buffalo district lost ground last week, and this was due to its being the off week in a staggered schedule. Cleveland held at 35 per cent and Chicago at 10.

Other Districts Gain Slightly.

"Other districts lifted slightly, Philadelphia to 11½; Pittsburgh to 20, and Youngstown to 18. To equal the 26 per cent average of last January is too much to hope, but if the last half of the month is relatively as good as the first, 20 per cent is possible. The chief handicap at present is the lack of railroad orders."

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL BUSINESS IN STEADY GAIN

Steady gains of wholesale and retail trade, coincident with the furniture and shoe exhibitions which brought a good number of buyers to the city, a continuation of the low levels of operation in the steel industry, a gain in dollar values over 1932 in building permits, and a notable pickup in carloadings for three middle western railroads characterized the last week in Chicago, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

January clearance sales were the chief impetus to retail trade. There was a good customer response, and the physical volume of sales was close to that of last year. Dollar volume, however, suffered because of the sharply reduced prices. Distributors of general merchandise were in the market for replenishment of broken stocks at wholesale, and there was about the usual amount of restocking on the part of retailers and consumers.

Consumers of steel failed to come into the market for supplies in a volume that would necessitate increasing the operating capacity from the unprecedented low level of 10 to 12 per cent in the Chicago district. Railroads showed no new inclination to place orders for rails and track accessories, and rail mills were operating at reduced capacity.

Announcement by the Evanston home loan bank of several advances to building and loan groups may be the cause of a slight improvement in home financing conditions.

LETTERS

Mortality Rates.

Dear Sir: Referring to your article in this morning's TRIBUNE, you state: "Insurance companies use mortality tables based on computations about three generations old. . . ." You suggest that they profit from the inaccuracy of this table.

While it is true that the average length of life has increased, this is largely the result of lower mortality in children. The American Table of Mortality, which begins at age 10, is, I believe, almost as accurate today as it was when originated.

Mortality savings are largely the result of careful selection of risks. If each person in the United States today were insured for the same amount the mortality ratio would still be very close to 100 per cent. As it is today the ratio in full level premium mutual companies varies from about 44 per cent for mutual trust life to about 75 per cent in some other companies.

STOCK MARKET CREEPS; PRICE RANGE NARROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—Speculative Wall street enters the new week in a state of mind best described in a phrase of the moment as "hopeful, but hesitant."

The first two weeks of the new year has brought little encouragement to the constructive side of the market from either business or politics—the "big two" of the current situation. Business has shown no disposition whatever to anticipate a much-talked-of spring revival, and the political outlook has become more muddled than ever. Majority opinion now is that little or nothing in the way of constructive legislation can be expected of the present "lame duck" congress and the best that is hoped for is a minimum of the other kind.

Tax Reduction Promises.

There are the usual promises of tax reduction, elimination of government extravagance, and prompt balancing of the budget, attuned, it would seem, to a gradually rising scale, but skeptical observers note with growing concern that each display on behalf of the treasured reforms has a sequel in some fresh scheme to raid the national treasury, or pry loose a few more dollars from the long suffering taxpayers.

Not much was expected from business in the first two weeks of the year, of course, and it is a matter of some pride to those looking to the future for salvation that the usual indices have been able to hold their own after the holiday flurry.

Hopes from Auto Show.

The national automobile show here in New York was counted upon to have at least the usual stimulating effect on the motor industry and perspectives from the steel producing centers had seemed to warrant hopes of a "new deal" for that industry. Both tokens proved beside the mark. The week brought more selling than investment in the shares of the big motor companies and week-end reviews from Pittsburgh told of the disappointment of the steel men over the failure of their fond anticipations.

Confronted with all this the share market has come virtually to a standstill. Some show of strength was made in the dealings early in the week, but forces of reaction began to gain the upper hand on Wednesday and from then until the closing gong at the end of Saturday's short session, prices beat an uncertain course, with a growing tendency toward easier levels.

Leaders Are Hopeful.

As one commentator has pointed out, the market's chief standby at the moment would seem to be popular psychology—a widespread belief that things are bound to grow better before very many more weeks have elapsed.

Mussolini's declaration of faith the other day that the economic crisis is past, the German minister of economics' assurance to the reichstag that the downward trend of business might reasonably be considered as ended; and recurring assurances from American leaders of finance and industry but echo the growing conviction of the man in the street.

UTILITY FINANCE PROBLEM EASIER FOR THIS YEAR

Maturities Smaller than for 1932.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Refunding problems of public utility corporations in 1933 will be settled without much trouble, says the Standard Statistics company, New York, in a bulletin.

Less Money Demanded.

"Funding or refunding problems which must be settled by various utility companies during 1933 are considerably smaller," it says, "in the aggregate, than those with which the same group were confronted at the commencement of 1932. During the entire twelve months of last year some $520,000,000 in bonds matured.

"In contrast, the 1933 schedule of public utility bond maturities amounts only to about $276,000,000. This figure does not include the bank debt of two important holding companies which falls due within that period. Even the addition of that total [$71,250,000] brings the aggregate for the year to only $346,250,000, or substantially less than a year ago.

Features of List.

"The list of large issues also is limited. There are only eleven which individually amount to $4,000,000 or more and two of these which matured Jan. 1 have already been paid in full."

More than two-thirds of the $15,682,500 outstanding 6½ per cent debentures of the American Natural Gas corporation have been deposited in exchange for capital stock of the Gas Utilities company, under the reorganization plan sponsored by the debenture holders' protective committee, headed by Ferdinand Eberstadt. This was announced yesterday.

At the request of the committee Gas Utilities company has agreed to extend to March 13 the period within which it would issue its capital stock against the surrender of debentures, on the basis of ten shares of capital stock for each $1,000 face amount of debentures surrendered.

Shelly Oil.

Will you kindly give me information on Skelly Oil?—B. C. C.

Skelly Oil company engages in all phases of the oil industry. It has a total developed area of 73,998 acres in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and New Mexico, on which are 1,200 producing wells. It sells about 28 per cent of its refined output through its own distributing stations. It has 543 retail and bulk stations and 4,000 agents in middle western and southwestern states. It also has extensive natural gas properties.

In common with other oil companies, earnings have been unfavorable for several years. This has been due to overproduction, occasioned in large part by the opening of new fields. As a result most companies have had to take inventory losses and sell their products at lower prices. To meet the condition efforts have been made to decrease production.

Net loss for the first nine months of 1932 was $272,000, against net loss, after extraordinary profit of $1,046,000, of $1,942,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Net loss for the full 1931 year was $2,117,000. After preferred dividends, $1,000,000 reserve for contingencies, $9,273,000 writedown of properties, $979,000 good will charge-offs and other surplus deductions, profit and loss account was reduced $13,943,000 to a profit and loss deficit of $5,087,000. Net income in 1930 was $1,917,000, or $1.29 per common share. Net income in 1929 was $5,786,000, against $4,104,000 for 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $9,695,000 and current liabilities were $2,985,000. Cash alone was $4,441,000. Working capital was $7,611,000, against $5,186,000 the year before.

The 1,011,763 shares of $25 par common are preceded by $11,912,000 5½ per cent debentures, due 1939, and 114,000 shares of 6 per cent, $100 par cumulative preferred. Preferred dividends have not been paid since the first quarter of 1931.

The debentures are somewhat speculative. The preferred is speculative and the common is more so.

Reductions of property values in 1931 should enable the company to make smaller property charges against income in the future. The management has announced its intention of maintaining "an unusually liquid position." The company has large oil reserves. While it must compete with large companies, it enjoys a good trade position and has substantial working capital. Earnings prospects appear to depend more on the future condition of the industry than on any other factor.

Ohio Electric Power.

Will you please tell me what the rating of Ohio Electric Power 5s, due 1957, is?—S. J. E.
